THIRD TROOP UNIT SAILS

More Marines Off to Orient

Easter Crowds Watch March From San Diego Base to Transport

Leave Taking at Docks Like Picturesque Holiday Gathering

SAN DIEGO, April 17. (AP)—Bearing the third marine contingent—the second war-equipped body of marines to be despatched to the Orient from this base in the past month—the steamer President Grant, the big Dollar liner pressed into transport service, sailed for China at 5:08 o'clock this afternoon, while thousands of spectators lining the docks and waterfront waved farewells and Godspeed to the departing troops.

This contingent, which is not officially known as a regiment, but as a composite expeditionary force, consisting of ninety-seven officers and 1560 men marched a distance of two miles today from the base to the President Grant, which was swinging in the last 1500 tons of war stores when the marines started.

All vantage points along the line of march were occupied by spectators and the water front was crowded with citizens. There was some cheering, but the general tone was that of subdued interest in the disciplined movement and steady appreciation for the fine appearance the regiment made on the march and in going aboard the ship.

While China is the commonly accepted destination of the President Grant, the exact point will not be known until the ship reaches a designated point in the Pacific. Then Admiral C. S. Williams, commanding the forces in China, will radio orders for the transport.

The usual scenes of leave-taking between service men and their families and sweethearts were re-enacted on the dock today as the Third formed up to board the ship but the prevailing spirit was more bravely jolly than sorrowful, and a brilliant Easter day sun gave the event that general aspect of a gaily-dressed holiday throng.

All of the flyers were trained at Pensacola, Fla. They will be based at Shanghai and at Tien-tsin.

ALBRECHT IN ROME FAVOR FOR THRONE

[Copyright, 1927, by Chicago Tribune.]

VIENNA, April 17.—Authoritative government and political circles in Hungary are giving credence to the reports that Premier Bethlen, while in Rome, obtained the promise both of Premier Mussolini and the Vatican, to the accession of Archduke Albrecht to the Hungarian throne. England already, it is said, has agreed to the solution, and it is believed that the elections for the King may be held sooner than was formerly believed.

The Legitimist party of Hungary insists that there is no vacant throne in Hungary and young Prince Otto is legally King. However, the asserted refusal of Empress Zita herself to renounce the former territory now held by the Czechs, Poles, Rumanians, Serbs and Austria, it is said, has convinced the Vatican that the coronation of Prince Otto is impossible.

Archduke Albrecht's chances, it is said, never were better. He is extremely popular in Hungary and even Admiral Horthy, the Hungarian regent, favors him.

The Archduke's mother, Archduchess Isabella, is popular in society. The family of Archduke Joseph, who never was friendly with the Vienna branch of the Hapsburgs, also is supporting him.

Many Killed and Hurt in Storms Sweeping Spain

MADRID, April 17. (AP)—The fury of the storms sweeping South Spain and Morocco has exacted great toll of lives and material damage running into millions of dollars.

Twenty-three persons perished in one village in Morocco while fifty-nine were injured, dispatches from Melilla report. Much shipping is lost, vessels being shattered into splinters on the rocks of the coast or at their piers.

Government buildings as well as private homes suffered heavily. Several airplanes are damaged in their hangars.

Almeria reports that the entire grape, orange and almond crop was lost.

Newspaper in Italy Sounds Call for Revolt

LONDON, April 17. (AP)—Secretly printed and distributed through underground channels, a supposedly suppressed Italian newspaper, "Syndical Battles," again is circulating in Italy despite the vigilance of the Fascist espionage system. The paper, which calls itself the official organ of the Italian Confederation of Labor, was abolished last November.

"Syndical Battles" openly calls on Italian workmen to join secretly the Confederation of Labor as a means of preparing for revolution.

Pan-American Flyers Rest at Port au Prince

PACIFIC FLEET WINS CUP

Awards in Contests During Maneuvers Off Cuba Announced by Chief

UNITED STATES FLEET OFF GUANTANAMO (Cuba) April 17. (AP)—The Pacific battle fleet of the United States Navy was declared winner today of the general excellence honors and trophy, which was awarded by the commander-in-chief, Rear-Admiral Charles F. Hughes for athletic supremacy. The Pacific battle fleet won 20 points to 10 over the Atlantic scouting ships.

The U.S.S. New Mexico captured the departmental small-arms trophy, classic of the fleet rifle matches. The battleships California, Arizona and Colorado finished next in order.

The battle fleet won six of the seven wrestling events at various weights, and two of the six boxing events. The middleweight feature event went to Cohen of the scouting fleet, who defeated Waterman of the New Mexico, the battle fleet champion of 1927 and the navy champion of 1926.

The stay of the combined fleet in Guantanamo Bay will end tomorrow, when the 109 warcrafts will depart on the third annual maneuvers of 1927. The Caribbean cruise will end the 21st inst. After that the fleet, with exception of the New Mexico, will proceed to New York.

SNOWBOUND PAIR AIDED BY AIRMEN

Los Angeles Flyer Takes Food Supplies to Men Trapped on Pike's Peak

COLORADO SPRINGS (Colo.) April 17. (AP)—Food supplies were dropped from an airplane to James Amess and Axel Simomson, who have been snowbound on top of Pike's Peak for a week when H. C. Lippiatt and his mechanician, A. C. Luz, both of Los Angeles, climbed to an altitude of 22,000 feet today.

As the big plane roared over the summit of the peak, Amess and Simonson, hearing it coming, hurried to the roof of summit house and shouted their appreciation to the flyers. The two men are employees of the firm which operates the sunmit house during summer months. So they went to the top last Sunday with the first cog-road train and did not return, thinking that another train would make the trip up the mountain Monday.

A severe blizzard and snowstorm a few hours later blocked the cog-road and damaged the telephone line so that the men were isolated completely. They had sufficient provisions for some time, but it was feared that after a week the provisions might be depleted to such an extent as to cause them hardships.

Lippiatt is the first aviator to fly over Pike's Peak in spring or winter seasons, although two others have flown over it in the summer. Lippiatt said that his plane was caught in a treacherous air pocket over what is known as the bottomless pit and fell 1500 feet before he could control it.

Alaska House Passes Bill to Curb Governor

JUNEAU (Alaska) April 17. (AP)—The so-called "controller" bill, designed to strip the Governor of most of the powers vested in him by territorial laws, passed the lower house of the Legislature, 9 to 7, late yesterday.

The bill, which would create a governing body of three elective members, will come to a vote in the Senate tomorrow. An identical measure lost in the upper house last week by a tie vote.

EGG HUNTER FINDS BODY OF MOTHER

Woman Commits Suicide After Preparing Easter Dainties for Daughter

CHICAGO, April 17. (Exclusive)—Eleanor Williams, 7 years of age, slept fitfully last night. She wanted to be awake early to hunt for Easter eggs. Her mother, Mrs. Sadie Seddema Williams, wife of Dr. W. Robert Williams, health commissioner of Riverside, had told the child of the Easter rabbit that crept on padded feet into the homes of little girls and boys and left the eggs in various hiding places.

At 6 o'clock this morning the child leaped from her bed and slipped down the stairs. She laughed and clapped her hands, for there was a basket of gaily-colored eggs, with a bunny and chickens standing guard.

Hoping to find more the little girl entered the kitchen and then ran screaming to her sleeping father, who accompanied her back to the kitchen. There was the wife and mother, dead on the floor, a tube in her mouth leading to an open gas jet. Her last act before committing suicide, had been to color and arrange the eggs for her baby. Despondency, the result of continued illhealth, is given as the cause.

MEXICO CITY HAILS QUIZ OF EMBASSY

State Department Action Over Story of Document Thefts Satisfactory

MEXICO CITY, April 17. (Exclusive)—The action of the State Department in taking official cognisance of published reports of forgeries and thefts of American documents from the files of the Military Attache's office of the United States Embassy here has met with satisfaction. Breaking the silence of both American and Mexican officials, although it serves only to confirm the belief there "is some basis of truth in the stolen documents scandal," it has had a clarifying effect.

Business and financial circles, which have felt irritation at the secrecy surrounding the American "mystery notes" sent last February, are waiting anxiously for either government to bring the matter into the open. If the true facts surrounding the "mystery documents" ever are revealed, it is believed they will come from Washington.

The Foreign Office maintains the stand taken when the story of the theft of the documents first was published, that the matter is one pertaining solely to the American government which properly must first be discussed by American officials, with the likilhood a Mexican official statement would follow a definite statement on the result of the present investigation into a plot to tamper with American documents.

Some persons believe that if the true story ever is told it will reveal "an astounding international conspiracy." In some quarters the fact that American observers are not with Mexican forces in the campaigns against revolutionists is ascribed to ill feeling over the situation.

Mexican Major Slain Near Race Track in Juarez

EL PASO, April 17. (AP)—Maj. Jose Florenzana, chief of staff of Gen. Roman Lopez, commanding officer of the Juarez (Chihuahua) garrison, was found slain near the Juarez race track early today. There were five bullet holes in his body.

Florenzana had been in charge of the Juarez garrison in the absence of Gen. Lopez in Chihuahua City. The general was expected back tonight. It is believed he may declare martial law in Juarez.

HUNDREDS MAROONED AS RAGING FLOOD SPREADS

Arkansas and White Rivers Sweep Over Cities and Rich Farms; Mississippi Swelling

MEMPHIS (Tenn.) April 17. (AP)—The mighty flood sweeping down the Mississippi Valley today took toll along two streams tributary to the Mississippi, marooned and endangered hundreds, and spread itself over additional thousands of acres of fertile farm lands. Along the parent water way—the Mississippi River—a raging torrent for hundreds of miles. Dykes tonight were resisting the crush of the elements, but with the mightiest swell of the record-breaking flood yet to be reckoned with.

Levees along the Arkansas and White Rivers in Arkansas broke in four places today under the pressure of the water. The Arkansas embankment near Frenchtown, Pobroy and the levee protecting the towns of English, Reidel and thousands of acres between Pine Bluff and Farrelly gave way before the flood; the White River dike before McClelland county collapsed and the Plum Bayou levee protecting the towns of Altheimer, Sherrill and Humphreys went out with loss of life feared.

HUNDREDS MAROONED

Battering its way through the earthen embankment, the racing White River flood marooned 250 persons on Peach Orchard Bluff, two miles from McClelland, without food, water or shelter. Their rescue during the next twenty-four hours was problematical because of the swift current which precluded reaching the water-encircled bluff by boat. Late today the flood was sweeping inland backed by a current estimated at from fifteen to thirty miles an hour.

Distress signals, wig-wagged to the nearest dry spot over a two-mile stretch of water, told of the plight of the marooned band and appealed for rescue.

Meanwhile reports from along the main waterway—the Mississippi—brought optimistic statements from the office of the United States engineers here but with the heaviest pressure still to come and Weather Bureau warning to prepare for approximately the highest stages of record along the central and lower reaches of the stream.

NEAR FATAL PEAK

The Weather Bureau today forecast a stage of close to forty-six feet at Memphis by the 23rd inst. The record stage 46.8—was reached in 1913, when the peak of the most destructive flood in history swept through the Central Mississippi Valley.

Maj. Donald Connolly, directing officer of the corps of engineers in the Memphis district, described the situation generally tonight as improved and hopeful.

Water today still was pouring through the break in the main line levee near Dorena, Mo., with resultant relief to the embankments in the immediate vicinity and about Hickman, Ky., and Reelfoot, but with the prospect of the flood within the inclosure reaching a level within the next few hours and finding an outlet back into the Mississippi.

RAIL LINE WASHED OUT

The cascading tide which carried away the levee section at Pobroy took with it 200 feet of the tracks of the St. Louis and Southwestern Railroad. Highways leading into Pine Bluff are covered with water and impassable, while the water encroaching into East Pine Bluff forced a rapid evacuation of the residents of that section of the city.

Along the main artery, the Mississippi, forces were mustered for a supreme battle against the elements. So far only one main line levee has fallen—near Dorena, in Southeastern Missouri.

Meanwhile, relief organizations were assembling their forces. Red Cross workers are being dispatched to strategic points, refugee colonies established at a dozen points and other State and Federal agencies making ready for eventualities.

State troops were called into service today to patrol the embankment along Washington county in Mississippi and 100 members of the American Legion joined forces with the State troops as levee guards. The Greenville (Miss.) company of State Guardsmen were assigned the task of guarding the Washington county levees.

TOWNS ISOLATED AND RAIL TRACKS GO OUT

PINE BLUFF, April 17. (AP)—Three levees on the Arkansas River gave way here today. The French town levee a section of the main levee at Pobroy and the new Gascony levee went out.

The Pobroy break took with it 200 feet of the St. Louis Southwestern Railroad main line tracks. Cotton

Commander Byrd, From Bed in Hospital, to Advise Daring Flyers

NEW YORK, April 17. (AP)—The flight-record Bellanca monoplane which shattered all duration marks last week at Mineola will hop off from New York with Paris as its destination within the next two weeks, Charles A. Levine of the Columbia Aircraft Corporation announced today.

For more than three hours today Bert Acosta traveled over Long Island in a trial spin with the plane.

In the New York-Paris flight the machine will carry 415 gallons of gasoline, thirty gallons more than the supply carried when Acosta and Clarence D. Chamberlin remained in the air for fifty-one hours twelve minutes in their record-breaking feat last week. This will increase the cruising radius of the plane by more than five hours, it was said.

A radio having a 2000-mile receiving radius installed in the plane will keep the airmen informed as to their location and direction, in case of bad weather together with a powerful sending apparatus.

The machine will be painted a bright yellow, making it easily discernible to passing ships in case the monoplane is forced down.

BYRD TO AID FLIGHT

Commander Richard E. Byrd, from his bed in Hackensack Hospital, where he is recovering from a fall in the trial of his transoceanic plane, said he would assist Acosta and Chamberlin in installing equipment and give them instructions necessary for the flight.

BYRD AND AIDES RECOVERING AFTER CRASH

HACKENSACK (U. J.) April 17. (AP) Three noted American airmen tonight were recovering from injuries received in an airplane crash that, temporarily at least, has disrupted their plans to make a nonstop flight across the Atlantic next month. About five miles away from the Hackensack Hospital, where they are confined, their giant Fokker monoplane, the America, also was receiving professional attention at the Teterboro airport.

The injured airmen are Commander Richard E. Byrd and Floyd Bennett, North Pole flyers, and Lieut. George O. Noville, who was to have accompanied them on their trans-Atlantic hop as alternate pilot and radio operator. Their plane, piloted by its designer, Antony H. G. Fokker, crashed at Teterboro airport, late yesterday afternoon on its first test flight. Fokker was uninjured.

Dr. Raymond P. Sullivan, New York specialist, who is treating the injured airmen, said today that Commander Byrd, whose left wrist was broken, "is doing so well that he may be able to leave the hospital tonight or tomorrow.". Lieut. Noville, the physician said, was "doing much better today." He received contusions of the right hip joint and leg and was suffering from shock last night. Dr. Sullivan said he had "pretty well recovered from the shock," but would be confined to the hospital for a week or more.

FLOOD AREA FIGHTS DISEASE

Kentucky Guards and Red Cross Join to Care for 2000 Refugees at Hickman

HICKMAN (Ky.) April 17. (AP)—Kentucky National Guardsmen and Red Cross workers joined forces today to prevent spread of disease as well as to care for some 2000 flood refugees housed in tents on the hills around this Mississippi River town, and packed in the houses in its higher portions that escaped last week's flood.

Approximately 100 tents were brought here last night and set up on high ground a mile from the flood-covered center of the town, and there appeared to be plenty of food for the time being. Today incinerators were arranged for by State Board of Health workers and the water supply inspected, and half a dozen persons were placed in a hospital improvised in the Elks' Club.

Three of the hospital inmates were maternity cases and in another room, carefully guarded from contact with the others lay a 4-year-old son of I. L. Shelton. The youngster developed the mumps today and was hastily removed from other refugees for fear the disease would spread. A couple of other persons were suffering from exposure.

Conditions at Columbus, farther up the river, were said to be on the verge of danger from a sanitary point, and tomorrow equipment for incinerators and for purifying drinking water will be taken there.

The river was at a standstill here today, but was expected to rise again before morning. The washing out of the levee on the Missouri side of the river yesterday alleviated conditions here, but in Columbus it was reported that all but thirty houses were under water, including practically all the business part of town. All business in Hickman and Columbus has been suspended for a week or more.

Militant Statesmen Favored to Lead Government in New Body

Split Comes on Bolstering Shaking Finances of Bank of Formosa

[Copyright, 1927, by the Chicago Tribune]

TOKIO, April 17. (Exclusive)—Baron Gen. Tanaka, former Minister of War and advocate of the "mailed-fist" policy on the Asian mainland as Premier, and former Ambassador Hanihara, who was in Washington and was the author of the "grave-consequences" note over the immigration bill, as Foreign Minister, are expected to head the Japanese government following the defeat of the Wakatsuki Cabinet today by the refusal of the Privy Council to approve the Cabinet's plan to assist the Bank of Formosa through giving that semigovernment bank the use of 200,000,000 yen (about $100,000,000) from government funds.

Prior to the session of the Privy Council, Premier Reijiro Wakatsuki secured the approval of his colleagues to resign en bloc. The Emperor personally attended today's Privy Council, listening to the arguments on why the government should prevent the Bank of Formosa, the Suzuki Corporation and other allied interests from failing because of the widespread effect on the nation's economics. The press has been bitterly attacking the government plan, especially because the government dared not present it before the Diet adjourned.

In the event that Gen. Tanaka is called to the Premiership a change is certain in Japan's nonintervention policy in China and probably a sterner policy against Russia and Manchuria. Addressing a meeting of his followers yesterday Gen. Tanaka described the Shidehara China policy as a complete surrender of Japanese rights. The activities of soviet agents in China were described by the general, who said he could not understand the government's complacency when events are transpiring that have such vital possibilities for Japan.

Another possibility for Foreign Minister mentioned was Mr. Matsuoka, former Consul at Chicago, who has been director of the South Manchurian railway, in charge of political affairs.

The vernacular papers state that the Bank of Formosa will cease payment Monday, but the foreign creditors will not suffer, since they hold securities to cover all claims.

PRINCE BOOSTS RUBBER TRADE

Latest Use Found for Product Is Men's Buttonhole Bouquets

LONDON, April 17. (AP)—White rubber carnations and gardenias for masculine buttonholes are among the latest fashions for men.

They were brought out at the annual Drapery Exhibition and sponsored by the Prince of Wales, who was one of the first to appear with a rubber carnation in his buttonhole.

The vogue has spread rapidly, and selections of rubber flowers are soon to be on display in the leading men's outfitting shops.

The flowers are made from thin sheets of colored rubber, such as that used for women's bathing caps, and have an extremely natural appearance.

RAGING FLOOD SCOPE SPREADS

Belt trains were detoured over the Missouri Pacific tracks to Little Rock tonight. The new Gascony levee protected English, Reidel and thousands of acres between here and Farrelly Lake and when it broke late this afternoon, the swollen waters tore through a 120-foot breach.

Pine Bluff was isolated by highway, the Arkansas River, backing through bayou and over roads to Monticello, Star City and Rison this afternoon.

All east of Pine Bluff was under water and the flood was surging over Main street in one place.

Evacuation of affected areas in the town has proceeded rapidly, however, and the situation in the city was not serious tonight.

RED CROSS HEARS THAT 24,000 NEED ASSISTANCE

WASHINGTON, April 17. (AP)—A special meeting of Red Cross officials was called at national headquarters here tonight to prepare for any emergency which may arise out of increasingly alarming reports from flood areas in the Southern Mississippi River Valley.

The meeting was called after the organization had received reports of additional levees breaking in the Arkansas River and of especially distressing conditions in and around Marionne county, Arkansas.

The Red Cross said more than 24,000 persons had been reported as in need of assistance. William M. Baxter, organization official at St. Louis, reporting 18,200 refugees in Illinois, Missouri and Arkansas alone.

Roads leading into Forest City, Ark., were reported literally blocked with flood sufferers who, loaded with personal belongings, were making their way to safety.

DANGER ON LOWER RIVER RISES AS STORMS APPROACH

NEW ORLEANS (La.) April 17. (AP) The hazardous conditions in the lower Mississippi Valley were greatly increased tonight by the possibility that the storm hovering over Texas would bring high winds into the districts where hundreds of men already are laboring with unceasing vigilance to repair the damage already wrought by the wind-lashed waves of the river.

Government engineers, receiving news of the storm warning issued by the Weather Bureau, commented upon the seriousness of the situation.

Although the condition of the levees throughout the fourth district covering the lower valley was good, they said high winds would greatly add to the hazard of the situation.

Water in the lake had risen high enough to force its way over the walls at low points and streamed into lowlands in Gentilly. Crews of men were put to work strengthening and raising the walls.

Hundreds of people were unable to occupy their homes today, though many using boats as means of reaching dry land, spent the night at home with water gurgling about the sills beneath their houses. Many were less fortunate, for in scores of houses water stood from one to three feet deep, inside the dwellings.

CHINA'S RIFT SPREADING

Conference Seen as Failure

Gen. Chiang's Move to Purge Kuomintang of Reds Splits Party

Nationalist Leaders to Shun Nanking Parley Today, Observer Holds

BY VINCENT SHEEAN

[Copyright, 1927, by all countries by North American Newspaper Alliance.]

SHANGHAI, April 17. (Exclusive)—When Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek, South China's Nationalist war lord, calls his much-advertised "anti-Bolshevik conference" at Nanking tomorrow, none of the great leaders of the Chinese Nationalist party will be present. And by the end of the week the seceding general will probably find himself at war not only with the northerners but with a majority of the Nationalist civilians and a large section of the Nationalist army.

This split of the Nationalists on the eve of final victory is one of the severest disasters Sun Yat-Sen's much-tried party has ever endured. Even enthusiastic Nationalists were compelled to admit this gratuitous complication shows up many of the most discouraging characteristics of Chinese political life. At a time when the efforts toward unification of the country seemed likely to be crowned with success, Chiang Kai-Shek, influenced by a crowd of former northern officials who have surrounded him since he came down the Yangtse, decided to constitute himself as supreme authority, defying party organization on the pretext of getting rid of Bolsheviks. In doing so he has not only gotten rid of the Bolsheviks but of all the members of the Nationalist government as well, including Sun Fo, Eugene Chen, Mrs. Sun Yat-Sen, T. V. Soong and Sun Yat-Sen's "beloved disciple," Wang Ching-Wei.

MEMBERS ALOOF

None of these dignitaries is willing to attend the general's conference, though strenuous efforts are being used to get Mrs. Sun, at least, to come down the river from Hankow.

I was informed this morning by a person qualified to know, that she was not likely to do this, "unless dragged by Chiang's soldiers."

The origin of Chiang Kai-Shek's desertion, I am informed by Nationalist sources, is to be found in the decisions taken last month by the central executive conference at Hankow. At that time it was decided that all authority in financial matters should be centered in the Ministry of Finance; all authority in foreign affairs in the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, and all authority on civilian matters in the appropriate civilian organizations.

This is a direct blow at Chiang Kai-Shek, who, like most successful Chinese generals, has been a little sovereign where he has established his headquarters. He has received $90,000,000 from the Nationalist treasury for the northern campaign since November and has never been obliged to render a detailed accounting for this money.

The efforts of the Hankow civil government to control all of the territory under the Nationalist flag runs counter to the traditions of military feudalism established by the last fifteen years of chaos in China. The revolt of some generals seems almost inevitable, but the Nationalist authorities had counted on the loyalty of Chiang, who has previously always been devoted to his party.

COMMUNIST MENACE

A national factor in deciding Chiang's attitude has been the undoubted menace of the Communist labor unions, which for the past month have been completely beyond control. The Chinese merchant class has been disturbed and worried by the constant strikes and manifestations of the Communist organization, which is particularly strong in Shanghai. Chiang began disarming Communist workers a week ago and has continued every day since, sometimes both in Shanghai and Nanking being compelled to shoot into mobs. The part of his anti-Bolshevik campaign is admittedly a necessity for the preservation of order, even though it has sometimes been carried out with unnecessary brutality.

The other part of his campaign, however, constitutes a direct vote against his party. Without using any legal party methods or even consulting the members of the government, he issued a declaration of war against the "Red" influences, summoning the non-Communist members of the Kuomintang to a conference at Nanking. In the eyes of the Nationalist leaders this constituted a defiance of party authority and the substitution of that of Chiang.

DISTRUST MILITARY

Since the civilian ministers of the party are men who are unwilling to bow the knee to any general, they have unanimously refused to attend the conference, even though most of them are willing to break with the Communist party. Chiang Kai-Shek still expects to get some Nationalist leaders to come and only this morning his representative at Shanghai solemnly assured me that both Mrs. Sun and Soong would attend. Chiang may believe so, but it's untrue. The only Kuomintang leaders who will attend are those whose chances of holding office are better under Chiang than under the central Nationalist government. There is another group, chiefly made up of recent recruits, belonging to the merchant class, whose fear of Bolshevism is so intense that they are willing to join any movement ostensibly directed against it.

SHOWDOWN AT HAND

This week will show whether the split in the party is likely to result in another civil war. The Nationalist government, with loyal troops, controls the provinces of Honan, Hupeh and Kiangsi and probably Anhwei. Chiang and his generals control all the coast provinces from Canton to Nanking, but the solidarity of their association remains to be proved, particularly since the troops are riddled with Communist propaganda.

Moreover, if Chiang openly makes war against the Nationalist government, he will lose the service of his foreign advisers, if whom are officers of the soviet army. All last-minute efforts at compromise have proved fruitless. It now seems certain that Chiang Kai-Shek, a month ago hailed as China's liberator, is destined to take his place merely as another war lord adding more confusion to the chaos in China. In the meanwhile foreign warships lie end to end all the way up the river here and British airplanes buzz a constant reminder that while Chinese leaders quibble it is hopeless to attempt to end foreign domination.

ORIENTAL STUDENT TALKS ON CHINESE CRISIS

The Chinese revolution has reached a crisis within the past week that is extremely serious, not only to itself, but to the rest of the world, in the opinion of Frederick Wells Williams, for thirty-five years professor of oriental history at Yale University, who arrived in Los Angeles yesterday from a vacation in Honolulu. Mr. Williams is considered one of the greatest authorities on oriental matters in the United States. He was born in China and has made a life study of its customs, history and people. He is a guest at the Biltmore.

"The crisis," he said, "is in the evident split in the southern party over the question of Russian soviet influence. There has developed a very distinct cleavage between the moderatists and the extremists, with the latter listening to Russian advice and the former seeking to retain a purely democratic republic. This dissension in the southern Chinese army, if continued, will result in the northerners recovering Shanghai and other important cities and re-establishing the government of Peking.

CHAOS IF NORTH WINS

"From the standpoint of America and other countries, the importance of this situation is that with the northern army victorious there will be a return of the chaos that has existed in China for years. There will be no stable form of government; no assurance of order; no protection of life and property. Foreign interests will not be safe without the protection of troops and the country will not develop and so become a great market for the products of other nations.

"The Cantonese are better equipped and so far have prevailed, but they have not yet accomplished their objective; they have not got control of the customs collected at the most important ports. These customs are collected by foreign countries and are being honestly administered, I believe. But the share which should go to the Chinese government has been placed in the banks to await the outcome of the revolution and neither side is able to collect it. That is why the Cantonese are most anxious to obtain foreign recognition.

"I have the greatest confidence in the Chinese people and believe that they will develop a splendid republic. They are an old, well-tried and cultured group. There is a tendency in America to consider them inferior, but that is not the case. The great advance of America and Europe has come since the industrial revolution 150 years ago. Fast transportation and communication have been largely responsible. A civilization 4000 years old that is just as good as ours was before the development of machinery, will quickly come to the front, once it starts. And it can merely adopt modern methods; it will not have to invent and improve them, as we have had to do. See what Japan has done in adopting civilization. The Chinese will do still better, for I consider them superior to the Japanese. You can trust the Chinese ultimately to develop one of the greatest nations of the world.

"Russia's object in lending aid to the southern army is to introduce the Third Internationale into China. It hopes to wean China away from European influence and replace it with Russian influence. I cannot believe that they will be successful but it is a magnificent attempt on their part.

"If the split the Russians have caused in the southern army so weakens the Cantonese forces that the northern army prevails, then—chaos. It will all be to fight over again. For the trouble between the North and South can never be settled by arbitration; it must be fought out. One side must win and it is best for us and for all countries interested in China's welfare that the moderatists of southern China be victorious.

"There is a misconception abroad about the object of the Chinese in their slogan, "China for the Chinese." They have no intention of ejecting foreigners. What they want is to get control of the cities now dominated and ruled entirely by foreign governments. But you can rest assured that they will welcome and encourage the manufacturer and business man who will help them develop their country."

CHINESE PESSIMISTIC TRAVELER DECLARES

Business in Shanghai is completely disorganized and there are no prospects for an improvement in foreign trade conditions until the dark war clouds have shown a definite sign of lifting; inhabitants of Shanghai, in fact the inhabitants of all China, are decidedly pessimistic, especially in commercial circles, and they have adopted a "watchful waiting" attitude.

That was the statement yesterday of Henry L. Lockney, representative in the Orient of a large eastern silk-manufacturing concern, who has just arrived here from San Francisco, where he alighted from a liner from the China metropolis. He is at the Hollywood Plaza Hotel and probably will leave today for the East, having been called home in view of unsettled conditions in the Far East.

"The average native resident of China doesn't quite know what the trouble is all about," Mr. Lockney said yesterday. "When the Cantonese army took possession of Shanghai it was apparent that the native didn't know whether it was the regular Chinese forces or the forces of the revolutionists.

"I have learned more about conditions over there from the press here since I landed than I ever knew while in China. While it is apparent in Shanghai that something serious may happen any time, when I left business was being transacted as usual and one would not surmise that a terrible world war was threatened."

Despite propaganda being disseminated throughout the Orient by Russia, Mr. Lockney added, that he believed the average Chinaman still cherishes the friendship of America.

FRANCE FEARS UPRISING

Indo-China Forces Will be Strengthened as Result of Oriental Upheaval

PARIS, April 17. (Exclusive)—Because of the gravity of the Chinese situation and its possible effect upon the whole far eastern world the French government has taken the entire question of the defense of Indo-China under serious consideration. The danger that the Chinese war may provoke uprisings in other far eastern points is realized by French army chiefs. It is quite probable, therefore, that two additional battalions of the Foreign Legion will be sent from their usual station in Morocco, making a total of four battalions of this highly trained unit assigned to the defense of France's far eastern empire.

It was announced recently that two battalions of the Foreign Legion had been ordered to Saigon, Indo-China. Furthermore the War Department is contemplating the dispatch of a battalion of Senegalese sharpshooters.

This would augment the normal defense force of one division of infantry on war footing by 5000 specially picked fighting men.

In view of these preparations the warnings in the Temps that the colonies of France, as well as those of Great Britain, are endangered by Communist intrigue, have caused much comment.

Jacques Bardoux in his weekly discussion of foreign affairs asserts that France has a threefold duty. First, to clear Paris of international agitators; second, to reform her colonial administration by the appointment of experts instead of politicians to governorships, and third and most vital of all, to make a new attempt to reach a complete accord and a basis of co-operation with Great Britain, an accord which shall be free from mutual suspicion.

He declares that the headquarters of the asserted Bolshevist colonial agitation is in Berlin and charges that it is supported by both the Extreme Right and Extreme Left German parties.

M. Bardoux holds that Moscow, having been unable to impress its theories upon the West, as evidenced by its failure to detach the Baltic States from their friendship with Western Europe, now is concentrating all its force, financial and political, upon the Far East.

This sentiment expressed in the Temps article is reflected in the Journal Des Debats, the Figaro and other conservative newspapers.

of the three, suffered severe shock. His right thigh was broken, his lower lip and chin were badly cut and he suffered lacerations about the head and body. Dr. Sullivan said that at present he had no fears about Bennett's recovery. Bennett, he said, is worried about his wife, who is seriously ill in Brooklyn.

No decision has been reached as to continuing with plans for the trans-Atlantic flight, officials said at the Teterboro airport, and probably none will be made for several days. If the flight is attempted, it will be made in the America. Fokker said after the mishap last night that the plane could be reconditioned in three or four days.

Grover Whelan, vice-president of the Trans-Oceanic Company, said that the plane was on a factory test under direction of Fokker when the crash occurred and that none of the personnel of the Trans-Oceanic flight crew, Commander Byrd, Bennett or Noville, had any responsibility for handling of the plane.

JUGO-SLAV ROW NEAR

Italy Threatens New Step

Denunciation of All Existing Treaties Between Two Nations Prospect

Complications Foreseen in Tone of Interpellation for Deputies

[Copyright, 1927, by the Chicago Tribune]

ROME, April 17. (Exclusive)—New complications between Italy and Jugo-Slavia are foreseen in the tone of the interpellation announced for the Chamber of Deputies this week. It would open the question of the denunciation of all the existing treaties between the two nations.

For some time there has been a feeling in Italy that, in view of the nonratification of the Nettuno pact by Jugo-Slavia, this treaty should be denounced. Deputy Alessandro Dudan, a Fascist, will seek more drastic action by the interpellation he has sent to the Chamber.

Deputy Dudan's interpellation says: "The undersigned requests to interrogate His Excellency, chief of the government, Premier Mussolini, in order to know—in view of the enormous continuation of systematic violations of international treaties perpetuated by the government of the Kingdom of Serbs, Croats and Slovenes, to the damage of Italy and the Italians—whether the government does not believe that the moment has come to examine the eventual denunciation on the part of Italy of all the aforesaid treaties, violated to its damage, and especially that of Rapallo, which is the basis for all successive treaties concluded between Italy and the Kingdom of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes."

By this interpellation Premier Mussolini will have an opportunity for a clear statement on the relations with Jugo-Slavia and a declaration of the Italian policy in the chamber.

The attempts at reconciliation between the Italian and Serb representatives have failed. The conversations had little result beyond confirming the wide differences which arose over the Tirana Treaty which Italy made with Albania.

The resulting failure of the Serbs to ratify the Nettuno agreement, which long ago was ratified by Italy, kept the diplomatic relations between the two countries strained.

The resignation of the government of Premier N. Ouzounovitch of Jugo-Slavia to make way for a Cabinet which will make a firmer stand on internal and foreign affairs has not served to reassure Italy of the Serbian intentions. Premier Mussolini's answer to Deputy Dudan's interpellation will be awaited with interest by the whole diplomatic world.

TWO SLAIN BY CHINESE BANDITS

by the foreign powers with regard to their joint demands for apologies and reparations in connection with the Nanking outrages is awaited with anxiety. Dispatches from Peking say that the representatives of the five powers there, in the belief that the reply made by Eugene Chen, the Cantonese Foreign Minister, to the notes of the powers was unsatisfactory, see no alternative except to adopt additional measures, and have asked for instructions from their respective governments.

Should the powers decide on some action other than that suggested in Chen's note, such as sanctions, their warships are well distributed for service up and down the coast and along the Yangtse River. Thirty-six foreign warships are at present at Hankow, the seat of the Nationalist government. These include thirteen Japanese, eleven British, seven American, three French and two Italian craft; others are patrolling on the Yangtse between Hankow and Shanghai, among them the American boats, Cincinnati, Preble and Noa.

There are also large forces at Shanghai, Hongkong and Tientsin, with additional marines on their way from the United States, more Japanese troops for Manchuria, and another brigade coming from England.

With reference to the appointment of an international commission, suggested by Eugene Chen, stress is laid on the fact that the official investigations already carried out have disclosed evidence, with numerous affidavits, establishing the guilt of the Nationalist troops at Nanking.

Fifty students representing most of the Chinese schools in Shanghai have conducted a session and voted to organize a new union, ousting the Communists. A resolution was adopted demanding the expulsion of Communists from the Shanghai schools and recommending the circulation of the manifesto urging the people to support Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek, generalissimo of the Cantonese army.

Advices from Nanking say the northerners in the vicinity of Pukow started firing on the Cantonese on the south bank of the Yangtze River at 4:30 Saturday afternoon with machine guns and cannon.

They kept up the firing until 6 o'clock when an unnamed American destroyer, assumably the Noa, and a lighter belonging to Butterfield & Swyre passed and the northerners opened fire on both these vessels. The destroyer opened her big guns, soon silencing the northern batteries and then continued up river.

Later the northerners resumed a desultory fire to the southward. It is estimated that 20,000 northern troops, including 2000 white Russians, are in the vicinity of Pukow.

It is reported that the Cantonese plan soon to begin an offensive campaign against the northerners.

A dispatch from Swatow says that members of the right wing of the Kuomintang (Cantonese political organization,) carried out raids against the Communist headquarters, resulting in many casualties. The chief of the union and ten others were arrested.

Thirty Cantonese soldiers attached to the political department of militia headquarters at Lungswa, outside of Shanghai, aided the Chinese seamen's union in the native city and arrested twelve asserted Communists. They found inflammatory handbills on the premises and seized many rifles and a large quantity of ammunition.

The police report that 8824 Chinese left Shanghai during the week ending the 16th inst.

While violent agitation still is carried on in Hankow against Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek, rumors came from that place that Chiang is planning an advance on Hankow with the purpose of clearing out the "Reds."

American missionary workers have evacuated Chuchow, proceeding on the steamer Pingwo. Twenty thousand troops wearing northern uniforms are reported at Wuhu. Lawlessness there is widespread and there has been much plundering.

It is declared officially to be imperative that all shipping moving between Chinkiang and Nanking shall have a naval escort, as firing across the river is hot and continuous. All the British residents have evacuated Hoihow, Hainan, except the Harbor master and the lighthouse staff.

The British cruiser Vindictive is proceeding to Hankow, where important developments at an early date are predicted.

A message from Klukiang reports the plundering of the property of Anderson, Meyer & Co., an American concern, located on the bund.

JAPANESE REGAIN SEIZED SHIP IN CHINA

TIENTSIN (China) April 17. (AP)—The Japanese steamer Choan Maru, one of three ships seized by Chinese police yesterday during a search for Gen. Li Ching-Lin, former Governor of Chihli Province, sailed today with an escort of fifty Japanese soldiers who accompanied the vessel as far as the coast, some thirty-five miles distant.

The Japanese troops marched from the concession and took possession of the ship following a refusal by the Chinese to release the craft. Gen. Li was not found and it is now believed that he departed on another vessel, but several Chinese officials aboard the Choan Maru, including Brig.-Gen. Ma Fu-Hsiang, were detained. Li was sought by the Peking government for his asserted anti-northern activities.

The two other ships seized were allowed to depart yesterday after being searched.

HANKOW SITUATION REPORTED AS GRAVE

PARIS, April 17. (AP)—A special dispatch to L'Informacion from Shanghai says that following upon a great victory of the Nationalists (Cantonese) at Pengpu, in Anhwei Province, the situation at Hankow is extremely grave. The French and British concessions are virtually in the hands of the radical elements.

Previous dispatches to the London Sunday Observer reported that the northerners had been defeated in the neighborhood of Pengpu, with heavy casualties.

Mr. Slichter was a Toronto man and has relatives here. Mrs. Slichter, reported captured, was sent out from here to China with her husband in 1915. She came originally from Louisville, Ky., where her relatives still reside.

HOOVER AT COOLIDGE BREAKFAS

Invitation Held Evidence of Amity Among Members of Official Family

WASHINGTON, April 17. (AP)—Secretary Hoover was among those invited to breakfast today by President Coolidge, and it any differences exist between them as a result of the blunt pronouncements the White House Friday that Hoover would not be appointed Secretary of State, even if Mr. Kellogg changed his plans and resigned, it was not discernible afterward.

When questioned later, Mr. Hoover replied he had no statement to make in regard to the breakfast. Guests at the breakfast said there was no discussion about the White House declaration which has set politics-hungry Washington agog with food for gossip.

Other guests included Senator Mellon, who returned yesterday from a visit to his daughter in Italy; Speaker Longworth, Senator Watson, Indiana; Norbeck, South Dakota; Gillett, Massachusetts, and Dale, Vermont, all Republicans; Senator Swanson, Virginia, and King, Utah, Democrats; Representative Williamson, South Dakota, and Irvine L. Lenroot, former Senator from Wisconsin.

The breakfast was described as informal. It had been arranged in the week but both the President Mellon and Hoover, who has been in New York, were invited yesterday.

Friends of Mr. Coolidge interpreted him as somewhat surprised at the reaction to the unexplained decision regarding Mr. Hoover and believed by observers that the President adopted this method of publicly showing his confidence in the Commerce Secretary, whose counsel he frequently seeks.

GOV. SMITH DEFINES STAND ON CHURCH AND STATE

Loyalty to Catholicism Will Not Shake His Patriotic Duty to Nation, He Writes

BOSTON, April 17. (AP)—Gov. Smith of New York, in a letter to the Atlantic Monthly, today declared that he recognized no power in the Roman Catholic Church to interfere with the operation of the Constitution of the United States or the enforcement of the laws of the land. The Governor, a Roman Catholic and potential candidate for the Presidency, wrote the letter to the magazine in reply to an open letter published in the monthly last month by Charles C. Marshall, New York lawyer and Episcopalian, who asked him a number of questions seeking to define his views on the relation of the Catholic Church to the State. Mr. Marshall has been described as an authority on canon law.

The Governor's interpretation of Marshall's questions is described in a letter, as follows:

"Taking your letter as a whole and reducing it to commonplace English I understand you say that there is conflict between religious loyalty to the Catholic faith and patriotic loyalty to the United States."

The Governor declared that "everything that has happened to me during my long public career leads me to believe that no such thing as that exists."

THE GOVERNOR'S CREED

He then summed up his creed as an American Catholic" as follows:

"I believe in the worship of God according to the faith and practice of the Roman Catholic Church. I believe in the separation of power in the institution of government and the duty of the Constitution of the United States to interfere with the free exercise or the enforcement of any law of the land.

"I believe in absolute freedom of conscience for all men and in equality of all churches, all sects, and all beliefs before the law as a matter of right and not as a matter of favor.

"I believe in the absolute separation of church and state and in the strict enforcement of the provisions of the Constitution that Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof.

"I believe that no tribunal of any church has any power to make any decree of any force in the law of the land, other than to establish the status of its own communicants within its own church.

"I believe in the support of the public school as one of the corner-stones of American liberty. I believe in the right of every parent to choose whether his child shall be educated in the public school or in a religious school supported by those of his own faith.

ON FOREIGN AFFAIRS

"I believe in the principle of non-interference by this country in the internal affairs of other nations and that we should stand steadfastly against any such interference by whomsoever it may be urged, and I believe in the common brotherhood of man under the common fatherhood of God.

"In this spirit I join with fellow-Americans of all creeds in a fervent prayer that never again in this land will any public servant be challenged because of the faith in which he has tried to walk humbly with his God."

The Governor, at the start of his letter wrote: "You 'impute' to American Catholics views which, if held by them, would leave open to question the loyalty and devotion to this country and its Constitution of more than 20,000,000 American Catholic citizens.

"I am grateful to you for defining this issue in the open and for your courteous expression of the satisfaction it will bring to my fellow-citizens for me to give 'a disclaimer of the convictions' thus imputed.

"Without mental reservation I can and do make that disclaimer. These convictions are held neither by me nor by any other American Catholic, as far as I know. Before answering the argument of your letter, however, I must dispose of one of its implications.

CITES AN ADDRESS

"You put your questions to me in connection with my candidacy for the office of President of the United States. My attitude with respect to that was fully stated in my last inaugural address as Governor when, on January 1, 1927, I said:

"'I have no idea what the future has in store for me. Everyone else in the United States has some notion about it except myself. No man could stand before this intelligent gathering and say that he was not receptive to the greatest position the world has to give to anyone. But I can say this, that I will do nothing to achieve it except to give to the people of this State the kind and character of service that will make me deserve it.'

"I should be a poor American and a poor Catholic alike if I injected religious discussion into a political campaign. Therefore, I would ask you to accept this answer from me not as a candidate for any public office, but as an American citizen, honored with high elective office, meeting a challenge to his patriotism and his intellectual integrity.

"My first htuoght was to answer you with just the faith that is in me. But I knew instinctively that your conclusions could be logically proved false. It seemed right, therefore, to take counsel with some one schooled in the church law, from whom I learned whatever is hereafter set forth in definite answer to the theological questions you raise.

SAW FATHER DUFFY

"I selected one whose patriotism neither you nor any other man will question. He wears upon his breast the Distinguished Service Cross of our country, the Distinguished Service Medal, the ribbon of the Legion of Honor, and the Croix de Guerre with palm of the French Republic. He was the Catholic chaplain of the almost wholly Catholic One Hundred and Sixty-fifth Regiment in the World War—Father Francis P. Duffy, now in the military service of my own State."

After stating that there was no conflict between religious loyalty and patriotic loyalty, the Governor said:

"I have taken the oath of office in this State nineteen times. Each time I swore to defend and maintain the Constitution of the United States . . . I have never known any conflict between my official duties and my religious belief. No such conflict could exist. Certainly the people of this State recognize no such conflict. They have testified to my devotion to public duty by electing me to the highest office within their gift four times . . . During the years I have discharged these trusts I have been a communicant of the Roman Catholic Church. If there were conflict, I, of all men, could not have escaped it, because I have not been a silent man, but a battler for social and political reform. These battles would in their very nature disclose this conflict if there were any.

VIEW ON EDUCATION

"I regard public education as one of the foremost functions of government and I have supported to the last degree the State Department of Education in every effort to promote our public school system.

"I did not struggle for these things for any single element, but in the interests of all of the 11,000,000 people who make up the State. In all my work I had the support of churches of all denominations. I probably know as many ecclesiastics of my church as any other layman. During my long and active career I have never received from any of them anything except encouragement in the full and complete discharge of my duty to the State. Moreover, I am unable to understand how anything that I was taught to believe as a Catholic could possibly be in conflict with what is good citizenship. The essence of my faith is built upon the commandments of God. There can be no conflict between them.

"Instead of quarreling among ourselves over dogmatic principles, it would be infinitely better if we joined together in inculcating these commandments in the hearts and minds of the youth of the country as the surest and best road to happiness on this earth and to peace in the world to come. This is the ideal of all peoples; what we need is more religion for young people, not less, and the way to get religion is to stop bickering among our sects, which can only have for its effect the creation of doubt in the minds of our youth as to whether or not it is necessary to pay attention to religion at all.

"Then I know your imputations are false when I recall the long list of other public servants of my faith who have loyally served the State. You as a lawyer will probable agree that the office of Chief Justice of the United States is second not even to that of the President in its influence on the national development and policy. During one-fourth of its history it has been presided over by two Catholics, Roger Brooke Taney and Edward Douglass White. No one has suggested that the official conduct of either of these men was affected by any unwarranted religious influence or that religion played with them any part other than it should play in the life of every God-fearing man.

"And I know your imputations are false when I recall the tens of thousands of young Catholics who have risked and sacrificed their lives in the defense of our country. These fundamentals of life could not be true unless your imputations were false."

REFERS TO MEXICO

With reference to Mexico, Gov. Smith says:

"By inference from the brief of a distinguished lawyer you intimate that it is the purpose of organized Catholics to seek intervention by the United States. No, I never read Mr. Guthrie's brief. I do not have to read it to reply to you because the pastoral letter of the Catholic episcopate of the United States in unmistakable words disclaimed any such intention. (The Governor quoted from the pastoral letter at this point.)

"My personal attitude," said the Governor, "wholly consistent with that of my church, is that I believe in peace on earth, good will to men, and that no country has a right to interfere in the internal affairs of any other country. I recognize the right of no church to ask armed intervention by this country in the affairs of another merely for the defense of the rights of a church. But I do recognize the propriety of church action to request the good offices of this country to help the oppressed of any land, as those good offices have been so often used for the protection of Protestant missionaries in the Orient and the persecuted Jews of Eastern Europe."

MARSHALL WILL REPLY IN FEW DAYS

NEW YORK, April 17. (AP)—Charles C. Marshall said tonight that he would reply within a few days to Gov. Smith's letter answering his request for the Governor's views on the relation of the Roman Catholic Church to the State. He declined to comment on Gov. Smith's letter tonight.

Marshall's open letter to Gov. Smith, which was published in the Atlantic Monthly, and to which the Governor has replied, asked him for a declaration of his views on the relation of the Roman Catholic Church to the State and "to the great masses of men whose convictions deny them the privilege of membership in that church."

The letter referred particularly to the doctrines of the two powers, civil and religious, which Mr. Marshall asserted made the Roman Catholic Church at times sovereign and paramount over the State. It was on this doctrine, he said, that "irrepressible conflict" arises as to whether the State or the church shall determine questions of jurisdiction. He said the Constitution clearly ordains that the State shall decide, while the Catholic Church "demands for itself the sole right and holds that within the limits of that claim it is superior to and supreme over the State."

CITES MEXICAN SITUATION

In addition, he said the powers claimed by the Catholic Church are vested in a sovereignty foreign to the United States.

This claim is made, Mr. Marshall said, only when the matter in question, in the opinion of the Catholic Church, is solely civil. As a result, he said, the education of youth, the institution of marriage, the international relations of the State and its domestic peace are in certain exigencies wrested from the State. "Do you, sir, regard such claims as tolerable in a republic that calls itself free?" he asked the Governor.

In the matter of the doctrine of the two powers, he cited the Mexican situation, and the decree of Pope Pius V depoaing Queen Elizabeth from the English throne in the sixteenth century and absolving her subjects from their allegiance.

The position of the Roman Catholic Church in regarding dogmatic intolerance "not alone as her incontestable right, but as her sacred duty," he said, leaves nothing in theory of the religious and moral rights of those who are Roman Catholics. However, he said, the Catholic Church "will allow State authorities for political reasons—that is by favor but not by right—to tolerate other religious societies," and asked "whether such favors can be accepted in place of rights by those owning the name of freemen."

CHICAGO PLAYGROUND SURVEY SHOWS GIRLS AS GANGSTERS

CHICAGO, April 17. (Exclusive)—For every ten boys who band together into a gang there is one girl who joins a girls' gang.

This ratio is based on data obtained by C. H. English, supervisor of the Board of Education's bureau of recreation and incorporated by him into his annual report submitted to Superintendent of School McAndrews.

Because of publicity given to gang activity throughout the city, Mr. English determined to find out just how seriously gangs interfered with the functioning of playgrounds. Accordingly, he sent out questionnaires to the entire corps of playground instructors.

Here are some of the results of the massed answers to his queries:

There are 226 gangs in the playground areas; 205 of them are composed of boys, twenty-one are groups of girls.

The most popular age for participation in gang activities is 14 years, at the beginning of adolescence. Some sixty-two groups have a majority of members about 14 years of age. The next favored age is 17, post-adolescence, which records forty-four gangs.

"The younger group," Mr. English reports, "is more mischievous, while the latter is more frequently vicious."

Of the total number of 226, there are 109 groups classified as mischievous and forty-six as vicious. More than 50 per cent of the total number or 112 have been incorporated in the playground program. Approximately twenty-five units have remained consistently unapproachable.

Poll of Delegates' Votes Shows Governor to Be 270 Short

Drys Asserted in Control of Democratic Committee on Convention

NEW YORK, April 17. (Exclusive) A survey and allocation of delegates' votes in the 1928 Democratic National Convention by friends of William G. McAdoo gives Gov. Smith 463. The anti-Smith strength is put down at 549.

The convention will have 1098 delegates. Assuming that the existing two-thirds rule controlling nominations will control, Gov. Smith, on existing computations, lacks 270 votes of a nomination. He lacks eighty-eight of a majority.

McADOO IN NEW YORK

The tabulation was made recently by one of William G. McAdoo's lieutenants. The conditions are about the same, the swing toward Gov. Smith being offset to a large extent by the defeat of the George E. Brennan mayoralty ticket in Chicago, indicating a weakening of Brennan's hold on the organization in that State.

That the estimate is meant to be liberal toward Gov. Smith is indicated by the concession to him of nearly 100 more delegates than he had in the Madison Square Garden convention.

William G. McAdoo, the most conspicuous dry aspirant for the nomination in 1924, is in New York, ostensibly on real estate and legal business. While here he will confer with trusted advisers with reference to the asserted drift of sentiment toward Gov. Smith as the choice of the convention next year.

The tabulation follows:

The tumber of delegates necessary for a majority is 550, and the number necessary to nominate under two-thirds rule, 732.

DRYS SEEM IN CONTROL

Whether McAdoo asks delegate support for the 1928 nomination or not it is assumed that the anti-Smith sentiment will rally around him and that he will give direction to the opposition to the interests in the Democratic party which in his judgment find political expression in Tammany Hall and what Tammany signifies.

The Democratic National Committee seems to be controlled by the drys. This is easily understood when it is remembered that representation in the committee is on a basis of State equality, rather than on population or delegate strength in the convention, a small State having a man and woman member, the same as the larger States.

This basic condition inures to the drys to some extent, as they can choose the convention city and arrange preliminary details, making a repetition of many of the phases of the 1924 convention virtually impossible. A striking feature of the tabulation is that it shows that Gov. Smith's convention strength comes largely from States which almost invariably give Republican pluralities in Presidential years. With few exceptions the dependable Democratic States are anti-Smith.

Planes to Drop Passengers in Case of Mishap

LONDON, April 17. (AP)—Airplane passengers of the future probably will all wear parachutes and in case of accident, may be dropped through the floor.

This prediction is made by Lieut. F. O. Soden, flight expert of the Royal Air Force, in discussing the importance of improved arrangements for handling passengers in aviation accidents.

"A possible solution," he said, "is perfection of a plan whereby the pilot may be able to jettison his passengers into space by letting the floor of the cabin drop out from under them and depending on the parachutes to save the wearers' lives."

STANFORD SETS PLAN IN MOTION

Undergraduate Elimination Up to Trustee Board

Gradual Dropping of Lower Courses Proposed

President Wilbur to Pioneer in National Tendency

PALO ALTO, April 17. (Exclusive) The first definite step toward the abolition of the first two years of undergraduate curriculum at Stanford University was taken today when President Ray Lyman Wilbur embodied the proposals in definite form and officially submitted them to the board of trustees.

The plan calls for the gradual elimination of freshman and sophomore studies, to begin in 1928 and to be entirely completed by 1934. The work now done by the lower division will be taken over by junior colleges, which now are increasing in California faster than in any State in the Union.

President Wilbur regards this change as "progressive and inevitable." He looks upon it as the logical consequence of present tendencies in education and expresses the hope that Stanford may become the leader in a movement that he believes will be adopted eventually by the entire collegiate system of the United States.

LONG CONSIDERED PLAN

The plan to abolish the first two years of instruction has been under consideration informally for almost a decade. Discussion of the matter has become acute within the past two years and a canvass of alumni opinion was made last year. Those who expressed themselves showed a distinct majority against the plan.

In a formal statement President Wilbur said:

"We are reaching the stage where there is no longer a necessity for continuing to any great extent instruction which is given extensively as part of the public school system.

"The forces that are bringing this about are in evidence all over the United States, but particularly so in California. There are now junior college facilities in Arcata, Bakersfield, Brawley, Chico, Colton, El Centro, Eureka, Fresno, Fullerton, Hollister, Kentfield, Modesto, Ontario, Pasadena, Pomona, Reedley, Riverside, Sacramento, Salinas, San Diego, San Jose, San Mateo, Santa Ana, Santa Barbara, Santa Maria, Santa Rosa, Susanville, Taft, Ventura and Visalia.

"In the two great metropolitan centers, Los Angeles and San Francisco, with the East Bay cities, Oakland, Berkeley and Alameda, the junior college facilities are taken care of by the major universities, the University of Southern California, the two branches of the University of California, and Stanford University, in addition, of course, to the smaller colleges. This lack of specific junior colleges in the two great centers of population, with the exception of one junior college in Los Angeles, is an abnormal condition of affairs and is not apt to continue indefinitely.

"The State Legislature is apt to come forward soon insisting that San Francisco, Berkeley and Los Angeles meet their junior-college responsibilities, just as have Fresno, San Jose, Sacramento, San Diego and the other cities in California.

"In order to meet the situation, I am recommending to the board of trustees that, beginning with the academic year 1928-29, further limitations be made in the number of students accepted in the lower division in proportion to the number of applications received from junior-college students. It seems probable at the present rate of increase in the number of college students that by 1934 our lower-division work practically will be absorbed by other institutions."

Although the plan was submitted as a "proposal," it is understood that it was worked out step by step in conjunction with the board of trustees and the feeling is current in university circles that its public announcement virtually amounts to final adoption.

SLEEP METER READS DREAMS

Love and Financial Worries Found Chief Disturbances in Slumber of Students During Tests in Research Experiments

PITTSBURGH, April 17. (AP)—Love and financial worries played hob with the slumbers of two college students during a scientific study of sleep at the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research. The two boys were among a score of University of Pittsburgh students who volunteered themselves as subjects for the experiment and slept on specially constructed beds which registered their every movement.

Recounting some of his observations Dr. H. M. Johnson, who made the study, said one of his subjects became involved in a "very dangerous love affair," which caused him to face a constant threat of physical danger and social ruin. The student tossed and tumbled about in bed and his average rest period diminished a third.

Another boy, hard pressed for cash, wrestled with his problem for three months. Finally he made up his mind to get along with what he had. Forthwith his average rest period was boosted a third.

The average rest period in eight hours of sleep, the experiments showed, was about fourteen minutes.

LAY KIDNAPING TO RUM RING

Morocco Brigand Methods Believed Used Against Cafe Owners by Gang Seeking Ransom

CHICAGO, April 17. (AP)—Wealthy cafe and night club operators once sought by liquor racketeers "as their first-class customers," are now the victims of a scheme modeled on Moroccan brigand methods—that of kidnaping the valuable customer and holding him for ransom because he no longer dares jeopardize his club or cafe by illegal handling of liquor.

This system, expounded tonight by Michael Grady, deputy chief of detectives, is believed to be the cause of the kidnaping last Wednesday of Jake Adler, Frank Galello, owner of the Midnight Frolics, and their chauffeur, known as "Tony the Wop." Reports today were that the three men were held for ransom, varying from $10,000 a head, to $200,000 for the trio. With no formal complaints from the men's families, the police still lack a definite clew after a fruitless fifty-six-hour search throughout the city and throughout its environs.

Adler, Galello and the chauffeur were seized after they left the Midnight Frolics, located near Twenty-second and State street, on the fringe of the negro district and adjacent to Chinatown. Their absence was not reported until Friday. Neither relatives nor friends have received personal communications from them.

Telephone messages to friends and relatives, however, assuring safety of the men, have been reported to police, yet nothing definite has been learned. That the men may be in personal danger is believed by relatives who fear to lend aid of police, Detective Grady said.

The Frolics, recently prosecuted under an "observation" injunction, has not sold liquors for months. Police believe that the refusal to handle any liquors or vintages, once readily available, may have caused the "racketeers" to embark in the new game of kidnaping to replenish their bankrolls. Reports that "Tony the Wop" had been released by the captors and ordered to return to the night-life district to spread the word of the kidnaping reached the police, but they had not heard of nor seen him.

The two owners with the chauffeur had completed a check of the night receipts shortly before they were taken, but the funds were reported to have been left in the Frolics safe.

Police entertained the idea that possibly the men would be returned tomorrow after banking hours. This theory led to the belief that the demands for ransom would run as high as $200,000.

Hung Jury for Third Trial in Osage Killings

PAWHUSKA (Okla.), April 17. (AP)—The third trial in connection with the Osage "reign of terror" has ended in a hung jury. The jury in the case of Byron Burkhart, charged with killing Anna Brown, an Osage Indian, May 21, 1921, was discharged yesterday.

The killing of Anna Brown was one of nearly a score of murders investigated more than a year ago by Federal authorities. A gigantic murder plot was charged in which it was asserted that wealthy Osage Indians were being killed for their property.

The Pedley team got off in front and they rolled up a 3-to-2 lead in the first four chukkers. Pedley grabbed three goals in the second and third periods and Pattee and Cox got the other two. One of Pedley's shots in the fourth period was one of the nicest hits that has ever been made on the local field. Spaulding of the White team scored the first goal for his side when he rode the ball over in the second period. Perkins got the next one for the White team in the fourth period.

After a few minutes of rest before the fifth period the White riders came out and young Honeyman and Capstick changed the complexion of the game, which up to this time looked like a runaway for the Purples, by riding the Pedley team off its feet. Honeyman rode right into the ball every time Pedley did and to the surprise of everyone Pedley did not score again in the game. Honeyman and Spaulding both grabbed goals for the White team in the sixth period and Arthur Perkins and Capstick got one apiece in the seventh. Cox of the Purple team

HIS LEAPING LORDSHIP - By Feg Murray

CATALINA SWIM TRY PUT OFF

Unfavorable Weather Causes Postponement of Summer's Plans

SAN PEDRO, April 17. (AP)—Unfavorable weather conditions for the second time in twenty-four hours thwarted the plans of Byron Summers, Alameda swimmer, to start early today across the San Pedro Channel in an attempt to break George Young's record of 15h. 45m. for the crossing.

Summers, who was slated to enter the water at the Isthmus, on Santa Catalina Island, at 6 o'clock this morning, found the sea too rough for swimming. The Alameda swimmer was originally scheduled to start his swim before midnight last night, but postponed the try to this morning because of unfavorable weather conditions.

Upon his return here shortly before noon, Summers said he probably would return to the island either tomorrow or Tuesday, and, if weather conditions are suitable, start his swim.

IT WOULD be fine to be able to say that Lord Burgley is the overlord of all hurdlers, but such is not the case. True, his lordship leaps in a likely, though not faultless fashion, and his was good enough to win two first places in the Oxford-Cambridge track meet recently, but I would hazard a guess that there are at least a dozen athletes in the United States today who could defeat the titled timber-topper in a 120-yard high-hurdle race.

But be that as it may, this very likable and very democratic young aristocrat, "the scion of a noted English family whose history dates back to the Norman Conquest," will compete in two special events at the Penn relays a week from next Friday and Saturday on Franklin Field, Philadelphia. The time of the Norman conquest was 1066, and Lord Burghley runs in the 400-meter hurdle race. Adding 400 to 1066, we have 1466 which, if halved by a decimal and changed into seconds, would still be shy of the world's best time for the 120-yard high hurdles, the other event in which his leaping lordship competes. This record is 14.40s., and is held by another "nobleman," "The Earl of Thomson."

MOTORBOAT UNCOVERS KEEN SPEED

No Foolin' II is Winner of Series at Newport in Spite of Handicaps

Overcoming such slight difficulties as an unfinished boat, a "frozen" motor, and absence from the first heat, the "No Foolin' II," owned and skippered by Gene Haig, won the outboard motorboat series staged at Newport Harbor yesterday. Haig's speedster wasn't completely finished—in fact it wasn't done until ten minutes before the second heat—and the motor had frozen solid at 6 o'clock in the morning. The boat was kept out of the first heat, which fell to the Blue Streak, but copped the second affair in 10m. 6.3s. and staged a flourishing finish to speed over the two-mile course in the final heat in 9m. 47s., the fastest time ever made on the course.

The event was staged by the Pacific Coast Hydroplane Association, under the auspices of the Newport Harbor Yacht Club and proved a tremendous success. Some 2000 fans witnessed the races, which were the best of their type ever staged at the harbor.

NEVILLE WINS AT OJAI

Local Golfer Defeats Arneill for Invitational Title Before Record Gallery of 1100 Fans

BY BILL WISE

Jack Neville of Bel-Air defeated J. M. Arneill of La Cumbre, 4 and 3, for the invitational championship before a record gallery of more than 1100 golf fans at the Ojai Valley Country Club yesterday afternoon.

Arneill defeated Peter Cooper Bryce, 4 and 3, in a semifinals match yesterday morning and, while Neville was winning from Bradford Eldridge, 6 and 5, word spread through the beautiful Ojai Valley that a local champion would golf for home-club laurels. As a result, all roads leading to the Ojai club were blocked shortly after lunch and the largest gallery in the history of the organization was on hand when the title-flight finalists started play.

JACK NEVILLE

Neville picked up two holes going out and despite the determined attack of his opponent, managed to slide home in front to end the exciting match with a par 4 on the tricky sixteenth hole. Yesterday's winner stroked through sixteen holes, two over and had pars for a 74, four shots better than the card he turned in to win medal honors in the qualifying play last Friday.

H. K. Bachelor of La Cumbre yesterday scored a 74 to win low-gross trophy in the eighteen-hole consolation round for players defeated in first and second-round matches. Winston Fuller of Hollywood, 78-8—70, collected low net.

BLACK HAWKS TO TACKLE OILERS

Rival Ice Hockey Teams Hook Up This Evening

Locals Eager to Clean Up on Windy City Club

Expect "Bullet" Coupez to Shine for Locals

BY PUCK CHASER

Meeting in a return game, the Richfield Oilers and the famous Chicago Black Hawks clash tonight at the Winter Garden Ice Palace. The battle marks the final appearance of local ice-hockey teams against the Windy City aggregation as the Hawks are to be furnished bigger and better opposition by the Pittsburgh Pirates, slated to arrive here this afternoon.

The Oilers didn't fare so well against the Hawks last time, but are rarin' to go tonight, especially following the feat of the Los Angeles Maroons in trimming the Chicago boys in a thrilling overtime encounter Saturday night. This game, which was the best of the local season, ended in a 3-to-2 victory for the Maroons when Sheppard and Leo Cook turned in a neat bit of teamwork to score the deciding goal after seven minutes of overtime action.

The Richfields claim that they can also thump the Hawks and are eager to prove their contention this evening. Should the Oilers live up to their threat and stop the Windy City pucksters it would give local teams an even break for the series and would likely bring about another inter-city tilt—probably between the Maroons and Hawks.

Whether the Oilers win or lose tonight there's bound to be plenty of action for "Bullet" Coupez, the flying French-Canadian ace, will be among those present. There are few idle moments when "The Bullet" is there or thereabouts and the Hawks have been warlieu by Capt. Dick Irwin to keep an eagle eye on Mr. Coupez.

Cully Wilson, Baby Dye, Mickey McKay and the other Chicago stars are primed for a real battle, all anxious to get revenge for Saturday night's drubbing at the hands of the Maroons.

The Pirates, belonging to the National League as do the Black Hawks, open their local schedule Thursday evening, meeting the Chicago skaters. In all the Buccaneers will show in five engagements. Experts claim the Smoky City boys are even better than the Hawks.

Tonight's line-up:

Black Hawks		Richfields
McCusker	Goal	Murray
Mackay	Right defense	Creswell
McVeigh	Left wing	Lawrence
C. Wilson	Center	Poole
Dye	Right wing	Coupez

TROJANS MEET POETS

Southern California continues play in the Southern California Intercollegiate Golf Association this week by playing Whittier at the Potrero Country Club.

TROJAN ATHLETES RETURN TO SPRING GRID DRILLS TODAY

Facing three weeks of strenuous activity, candidates for U.S.C.'s varsity football team return to spring practice at Bovard Field this afternoon. The boys started in two weeks ago but knocked off last week during vacation. Coach Howard Jones expects close to 100 men to report today. The Trojan mentor will spend most of his time with the U.S.C. line, which has been shot full of gaping holes through the loss of Jeff Cravath, Butter Gorrell, Kenny Cox, Al Behrendt, Red Badgro and Brice Taylor. Jesse Hibbs, tackle, is the only returning veteran lineman as six forward berths are as open as a yokel's face. Chief interest surrounds the center and end berths where a flock of young men are to battle it out.

Oscar Vitt's Boys Show Complete Reversal of Form to Trim Portland, 5-to-3 and 3-to-2

PORTLAND, April 17.—Showing a surprising reversal of form, the Hollywood Stars won both games from Portland here today, 5 to 3 and 3 to 2. Good pitching, sparkling fielding and timely hitting won for the visitors.

Frank Shellenback twirled for the Stars in the first game and Curtis Fullerton held the Ducks to two hits in the seven-inning afterpiece. Although it was a cold, drizzly day, Dudley Lee turned in several sensational plays at short.

TO SELECT TROJANS FOR SEATTLE MEET

Members of the Trojan track aggregation which will compete at the Washington relays in Seattle the 30th inst., will be selected this week after the General Athletic Committee meets tonight to approve of the number of men who will be sent north. Dean Cromwell's list now includes fourteen names but the outfit may be cut to ten. Southern California will enter every event on the list if fourteen men are taken north. The events are the open 100, high hurdles, shot, 880-yard relay, mile relay, two-mile relay, four-mile relay and medley relay.

TROJAN DIAMOND TOSSERS TO MEET SAINTS IN BIG SERIES

Southern California and St. Mary's baseball teams meet on Bovard Field at 2:30 o'clock Friday and Saturday afternoons to settle the championship for 1927 in the California Intercollegiate League.

LEO GUICHARD

The Saints need only one victory out of the pair of games to take the pennant. Sam Crawford's Trojans can tie for the title by grabbing both games from St. Mary's, as all other teams are now out of the running.

Southern California went into the possibility class on the northern trip the 4th and 9th inst., when they took three out of four games, dropping the first to Stanford by a 3-to-4 count and winning from California 9 to 2, St. Mary's 8-2 and Santa Clara 4-2. Had the Saints won that one game from the Trojans they would have had the pennant cinched.

Big Ted Sahlberg, the club's pitching ace, sustained a badly sprained knee when he slid into second base during the Stanford game at Palo Alto, the 4th inst. His knee has been responding to treatments since the injury and he is reported in shape to hurl one of the games this week-end.

Sahlberg will probably take the mound in the opening tilt, which saves Capt. Leo Guichard, who won the Santa Clara game in the north, for the second contest. "Slim" Gormsen, who won both the California and St. Mary's games, George Guild and Dick Schultz will also be available for slab work.

When the Trojans went north Maloney, second baseman, had to remain at home to take dental examinations. Coney Galindo was brought in from left field to play the keystone sack while Bevington was put in left field. This combination may be used or Karl Kreiger can be used at second if Maloney is not back in his original position.

Web Gibson will be behind the bat, Ferd Manlove on first, Al Welch at short, Ed Caballero on third and Morris Badgro in right field.

SERIES TAKEN BY KRUG CREW

Hamilton Outhurls Boehler in 4-to-1 Nightcap

Seraphs Pound Out Nineteen Base Hits in Opener

Cox Raps Two Homers; Hood and Jacobs Hit Hard

BY BOB RAY

Marty Krug's arbiter-annoying Angels let up on the umpires yesterday and turned on Ivan Howard's Oaks whom they gave a couple of shellackings, the scores of the double Oakland downfall being 20 to 5 and 4 to 1. The twin triumph gave the Angels the odd game of the series and lifted them from seventh to fifth place in the standings.

MARTY KRUG

The largest gathering of the season, 10,400 cash customers, took advantage of the good weather and turned out for the bargain bill. In the first game they saw the Angels pound three Oakland pitchers and Buzz Arlett for nineteen hits, ten of them for extra bases, and pile up the largest score ever made at Wrigley Field, outside of one made the afternoon Red Grange's footballers smothered the Hollywood Generals. If those same 10,400 cash customers didn't get disgusted at the first tilt and walk out of the park, they saw "Oil" Hamilton get the better of George Boehler in the seven-inning nightcap, Hamilton let the Oaks down with three hits, one of which was a home run into the bleachers by Ralph Shinners. Boehler allowed only five hits, but the Angels bunched four of them in the first inning to sew up the struggle.

COX HITS TWO HOMERS

The hitting of Diel: Cox, Ray Jacobs and Wally Hood was the main feature of the bargain bill. In the first game Cox slammed out a single, two home runs, and either scored or drove in seven Seraph markers. Jacobs clouted a homer, a triple and two doubles during the afternoon, while Wally Hood gathered five hits, three of them for two bases.

The fact that the Angels won the series last week must be credited to Doc Wright and "Oil" Hamilton for these two remaining members of last year's hurling big four each started and beat the Oaks twice. Wright turned in his fourth straight victory in the opener.

The Oaks started out in the first game as though they were going to be the ones to do all the scoring, three runs pattering across the plate. A single by Valla, a hit batsman and a walk to Arlett filled the bases and then Jack Fenton scored two of them with a single to left. Caveney bunted Arlett across the plate with the third run.

And then the Angels started in. Ray Jacobs hit the first ball that the veteran, Harry Krause, pitched high and wide over the left-field bricks. Mitchell was thrown out, but Hood singled and Cox walked. Art Jahn smashed a double to right center and Hood and Cox counted. Pete Daglia then relieved Krause and his first accomplishment was to hit Weis, Krug doubled to right to score Jahn with the Angels' fourth and final run of this inning.

The Seraphs kept up the bombard-

Gibson not only held Cleveland to eight hits and one run, but made four hits himself, three of Uhle and one off Buckeye. Cleveland's only run was the result of doubles by Jamieson and Spurgeon. The score:

CUB ACE BLOWS UP IN SEVENTH

Alexander Hurls Cardinals to 2-to-1 Win

CHICAGO, April 17. (AP)—Charley Root blew up in the seventh inning after permitting only one hit and the Pirates knocked his offerings to all corners of the lot, defeating Chicago, 8 to 3, before a capacity crowd estimated at more than 45,000. The crowd overflowed onto the field, making ground rules necessary. Nine hits into the overflow went for two bases. Kremer pitched a steady game, but looked like a beaten man after Hack Wilson had smashed a home run in the fourth with a man on base. Manager Donie Bush rushed pinch-hitters and pinch-runners into the fray during the seventh-inning rally and succeeded in turning the tide of battle. Score:

Bud Taylor Takes on Nationalista Tonight

CHEVALIER AND GODFREY IN DOUBLE MAIN EVENT

Fans Favor Terre Haute Terror to Wallop Filipino; Oakland Boy Makes Local Debut

Bud Taylor, bantamweight champion of the world, boxes Nationalista in one ten-rounder and George Godfrey wallops with Leon Chevalier in another on the double event at Wrigley Field tonight. A pair of main events, two six-round preliminaries, complete the card.

Taylor is making his first appearance in six months. Bud—always a good pleaser—is a big favorite with the fans.

Against Nationalista, who keeps throwing punches from all directions in true Filipino style, Taylor will have to step at his best.

Nationalista is taking a long gamble tonight. The scrappy little product of the Philippines has accepted the bout for practically nothing more than the cost of meals. He did this in order to get a chance to beat the "Terror of Terre Haute" and make himself a card in the East. Either is recognized in eighteen pounds as a bantamweight champion.

Taylor was scheduled to weigh in at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Taylor had to train off one pound to make the specified weight of a natural 118-pound, but could pick up two pounds.

Taylor is not expecting a physical struggle. They met once before in a battle last July 4, and Taylor had the "Terre Haute" terror in a bad way several times before the second fight. A fast one was on the edge for Taylor in the

There should be plenty of action in tonight's go. A unique feature is the fact that neither boy has been guilty of a bad flight is Los Angeles. Within his record held by Taylor boys his lightning-like left hand is acting like a machine gun. It is the fastest in the world. Bud's left also packs a sting. Nationalista is said with either mitt and he has been known to floor his opponents with his left hook.

Taylor is not likely, but Nationalista may be scored during the several distances.

Manager Godfrey, whom Jimmy Garrison is earnestly touting for a match with Tunney and the heavyweight title, will get his test against Chevalier on merit his own since tonight Nationalista beats Leon Chevalier of the bout, scheduled for ten rounds, he will end by a knockout over the other.

Godfrey has a lot of boosters Los Angeles who think the colored boy deserves notice from Others believe he has been standing steadily because he is a better man.

Godfrey stands six feet two inches tall and scales at 210 pounds. He has the advantage of being managed and trained by Teddy Hildreth, famous old-timer, who once managed Tom Sharkey, who fought Bob Fitzsimmons and Jim Jeffries.

Manager Godfrey thinks Chevalier will, if boxing and Central avenue's fistic action are all agog over his

Pomona Grid and Track Coaches Apply Different Psychology to Their Athlet

ONE INSPIRES, OTHER GLOOMS

Nixon Tries to Make Squad Think They Are Wonders

Strehle Believes Every Rap is Boost for Team

Cinder Mentor Likes Gloomy Methods for Results

POMONA COLLEGE, CLAREMONT, April 17. (Exclusive)—Should a football player be in a different state of mind just before a game than a track athlete before a meet? In other words, are these two branches of sport so different that, to gain success in them requires opposing psychology? Coaches Eugene W. Nixon and Robert G. Strehle of Pomona College, evidently think so. For both are successful mentors and yet they tell their charges entirely different things before the battle starts.

BOB STREHLE

Nixon, who coaches football, and has had a successful record if any coach ever did, always tries to make his men think they can whip their weight in wildcats and all they need to do is to go out and battle for all they're worth and they can't help but win. He's a good spell-binder, too, and even had the Sagehens believing they were going to beat Southern California and California's Bears three years ago. As a matter of fact, the Blue warriors did perform a whole lot differently than the difference in teams would have caused anyone to suppose.

The night before the Pomona-U.S.C. football game two years ago, a newspaper carried the story of an interview with Nixon, in which the coach predicted a six-touchdown victory for the Trojans. Nixon called the squad together before the game and mentioned the interview, hotly denying that he had predicted victory for U.S.C. at all, despite the fact that they were known to have one of the strongest elevens in their history. "I never said they'd win by six touchdowns, and I never have predicted a team of mine was going to lose," Nixon shouted furiously to the players.

Strehle, on the other hand, figures that every knock is a boost, and likes gloom in large quantities. He even tells the team that the chances are strongly against a victory for them, but that if they get out and put a little extra of the old Bunker Hill fight into it, they're not out of the running. To the individuals, themselves, he always says, "Now, James, you're up against a good man here, just do your best and I think you can outsprint him at the finish."

And then there's Earl Merritt, the baseball and frosh basketball coach, who doesn't have any pre-game orations for his men. Merritt doesn't think it does any good, and doesn't like the idea of getting athletes too highly strung before they go into the fray.

WHEN STANFORD LOWERED CALIFORNIA'S COLORS

Here are scenes taken at Palo Alto Saturday when Stanford's crack 1927 track team romped off with the laurels from their traditional enemies, the University of California. The final score was 90 2-3 to 40 1-3. Upper photo shows the finish of the 100-yard dash won by Richman, Stanford, time-10 4-5s. Ewing, U. C., second; Lauritzen, Stanford, third. In the lower left is shown Hoffman of Stanford who took first place in both the shotput and discus. Hoffman put the shot 46 ft. 11 3-4 in. and won the discus throw with a toss of 153 ft. 1 1-4 in. The other photo shows Spencer of Stanford winning the 440-yard dash in 50s. Talbot of U. C., second; Babcock, Stanford, third.

YANKEES SHOW UP BEST

New York Americans Lead Both Major Leagues in All-Around Baseball During Opening Week

NEW YORK, April 17. (AP)—Averaging nearly twelve hits and less than a single error per game, the New York Yankees led the two leagues in all-around baseball in the first week of play. As a result they head the American League with four wins and a tie in five engagements. The Athletics, whom they defeated three times and tied once in four tilts were less effective both with the bat and in the field.

Leadership in the National circuit is shared by three teams—the Cubs, Pirates and Giants—all of which dropped one game in four starts. The weak-hitting Cubs owe a place in the sun to their tight fielding, the best in either league.

On their first week's showing, the three best-hitting teams of the sixteen are the Yankees who were expected to be a strong bunch of clouters, the Phillies, who did not loom as particularly powerful with the club, and the Giants, whose murderers' row was augmented this year by such sluggers as Hornsby and Rousch.

The best fielding clubs, as reflected in low error totals, are the Cubs, Yankees and White Sox, all three of which made less than one bobble a game. The Red Sox, on the other hand, led both leagues in making errors.

Each team in each league had the first four games of the season, which opened Tuesday, scheduled with the same opponents. In these duels in the American League, the Yanks took three out of four from Connie Mack's men and tied the other. Washington beat the Red Sox three times in three games, the Indians and White Sox broke even, and so did the Browns and Tigers, who have played only five innings of baseball out of five scheduled games, because of rain.

As for the National League, the Cubs won two out of three from the world champion Cardinals, the Pirates took all of three played with the Reds, the Giants carried off two games of their three with the Phillies, and the Braves won three out of four from luckless Brooklyn.

MYSTERY SOAPERS BOW TO BEACHERS

The Republic Supply Club of Huntington Beach defeated the White Mystery Soapers Sunday by a 7-to-5 score on the former's diamond. Loose baseball due to a dust storm and a thirty-mile gale was played, causing seven or eight fly balls which would otherwise have been easy outs to be misjudged. "Lefty" Davis, young Seattle recruit pitching for the Soapers, allowed but seven hits, three of which were misjudged flys and fanned nine, while Salvarsen for the Republic Supplys, allowed eight hits and struck out three.

BEVERLY CLUB TO HOLD FIRST BANQUET

Tonight is the "big night" for the members of the Beverly Hills Club, where they will assemble for their first annual banquet. The club, one of the most beautiful athletic institutions on the Coast, is lining up material for basketball, squash, baseball, handball and other sports and expects to have strong teams in all branches of sport next season.

Tracy Cox, new athletic director appointed several days ago by Gage, has several new plans to announce and will make known his ideas tonight.

Munro Montgomery, chairman of the entertainment committee, has arranged one of the best programs since the club was built several months ago.

CALIFORNIA ROWERS TO HAVE TOUGH ROW TO HOE IN EAST

BERKELEY, April 17. (Exclusive)—When California's varsity crew steps into big company at the Poughkeepsie national championships this spring, the winning of laurel wreaths will not be quite as easy a task as was the spanking of the Washington sweepsters on the Oakland estuary University Day by a six-lengths' margin.

Even the two Glendon crews, that of Glendon, Sr., at the United States Naval Academy, and the one coached by Glendon, Jr., at Columbia University, will give Coach Ky Ebright and his Californians a whole river of trouble. Under Dick Glendon, in 1926, the Columbia babes won the national intercollegiate championship. Now Glendon has the same octet for varsity crew. Two years under Glendon's tutelage should give the Columbians a start on the field.

Glendon, Sr., has developed a formidable crew of experienced oarsmen at the Naval Academy. The West, represented by Washington, beat out the Navy for the national crown last spring. The Middies and Glendon dont intend that it shall happen again, with the West's strength being represented this time by the Golden Bear rowers.

With Cornell weak through the loss of most of its veteran material, California still has to reckon with Wisconsin, Pennsylvania and Syracuse in addition to the Glendon boats. Washington may or may not make the jaunt eastward.

CHAMPIONSHIP BOWLING SQUAD TO BE PRESENTED WITH PRIZE

The Southern California Telephone Company's bowling team, which won the Los Angeles Electric Club Bowling League championship recently by defeating the Electric Products Corporation's team, will be presented the championship trophy this noon at the weekly luncheon of the Los Angeles Electric Club at the Biltmore Hotel.

The telephone company's team is composed of Charlie Groshong, captain; L. M. Buck, Bill Bosch, Bill Wells, Jack Emerson and Frank Drane. Ben Wright managed the team through its successful games.

Three of the team, Emerson, Groshong and Buck, because of their high averages, have won the right to be three of the six men to represent the Los Angeles Electric Club at the Pacific Coast Bowling Association tournament to be held at Oakland next month.

The round-robin pocket-billiard tournament now in progress at the Hillstreet Billiard Parlor, is giving some of the boys a chance to demonstrate their ability on the oversize tournament table that is used for the competition. Eight of the most capable cue experts have been doing their stuff for the past week and to date only three have clean records to show. C. E. Fox, Jimmie Mills and F. Tonight Fuzzy Wilcox will try to ruin Jimmie Mills's perfect record. Tomorrow Engle and Fox hook up; Wednesday, Cox meets Engle; Thursday, Young and Fox tangle; Friday, Crowley takes on Mills; Saturday, Wilcox and Cox vie.

HAWAII TO STAGE GALA SWIMFEST

Duke Kahanamoku Sought to Compete in National A.A.U. Event in August

HONOLULU, April 17.—Swimming stars of the world will splash in Hawaiian waters late in August when the men's national outdoor swimming championships are held here under the auspices of the Hawaiian Association of the A.A.U.

According to those in charge of the meet, invitations have been sent to several countries urging the swimming organizations to send their best talent to the Honolulu events. Thus far, it is practically assured that K. Takaishi, Japanese champion sprint swimmer, and Boy Charlton, Australian flash, will be on hand to meet the best swimmers of the world. The mainland contingent will be headed by such stars as Johnny Weismuller, Paul Wyatt, Walter Laufer, and Walter Spence.

Local swimming authorities say that the Hawaiian delegation is going to furnish the sensation of the meet. Native talent consisting of several young boys in their 'teens, and who have made exceptional showings in local meets gives every indication of possessing all the coming surprises. In entering the national meet, the boys will be in the spotlight of a major sporting event for the first time. This new group will be led by experienced Hawaiian swimmers in the persons of Warren Kealoha, backstroke star; Sam Kahanamoku, sprint swimmer and brother of the world-famous Duke; Bill Kirschbaum, breast stroke, and Gay Harris, medley and backstroke.

Efforts are being made to bring Duke Kahanamoku, famous Hawaiian swim star now appearing in the movies at Hollywood, back to the islands to give exhibition swims, as an added feature of the meet. Although it is not believed Duke will enter active competition, the islanders think that he will be glad to return and appear again in the waters which first brought him fame.

UPHOLSTERERS BEATEN

The Standard Upholstering aggregation was taken into camp by the Pacific Electric railroaders by the score of 12 to 6 in the latter's third straight win in the Major Industrial League. Ebbs, southpaw twirler for the railroad outfit, pitched good ball, only one earned run being scored off of his delivery. Seven home runs featured the contest, Layne, Bouett and Woodward each connecting for two. Woodward also secured a triple. Bell, in center for Charlie Hill's team, hit safely four times out of as many times up. Zellars also hit for a homer.

HUGHEY CRITZ FINALLY SIGNS

CINCINNATI (O.) April 17. (AP)—Hughey Critz, star second baseman of the Cincinnati Nationals, who has been a holdout, signed his contract today. Critz had refused to sign at the club's salary terms, but after a conference with President August Hermann, affixed his signature to a one-year contract, under which he is to receive $12,000.

Critz appeared in uniform on the field before the game today and was given a rousing welcome by the fans. He will not get into the line-up during the two remaining games with the Cardinals, but very likely will appear against Pittsburgh later in the week.

Ruth is Slow Getting Start at Circuiting

CHICAGO, April 17. (AP) — Five home-run hitters, three in the National League and two in the American, are tied with two apiece at the end of the first week of the baseball season today. And Babe Ruth is not among them. The Babe has performed his specialty but once, while two of the five leaders have registered two round trips in a single game.

"BABE" RUTH.

The home-run king of the National League, Hack Wilson of Chicago, is one of the five, and his team-mate, Earl Webb, ex-Louisville Colonel, entered the hall of fame by getting two homers in the opening contest of the season, contributing to the downfall of Grover Cleveland Alexander.

Lou Gehrig of the New York Yankees duplicated Webb's feat in today's game. Rogers Hornsby, the former Cardinal, in a Giant uniform, is the third National Leaguer with two. Al Simmons of the Athletics in the American League, also has two to his credit.

The National League so far, has scored nearly twice as many homers as the American League, ment in the second, when three runs were scored. After Jacobs had been hit and Hood had singled, Coz punched his first home over the left-field wall. A walk to Hannah's bunt, Wright's sacrifice, a walk to Mitchell and Hood's steal brought the Angels another trio of markers in the third.

FIVE MORE MARKERS

However, those three insignificant nothing compared to the five which Daglia and Wilbur Cooper scurried for six solid wallops produced five more runs to the growing Angel collection. Jacobs was hit by a pitched ball for a start, but was caught stealing. Wright singled and scored when Skipper Cooper doubled down the left-field line. Cooper here began pitching, but walked and Krug stole third. Cooper tried to pick Truck off, but Wright's single to left scored Jacobs tripled against the left-field corner of the fence and Wright scored Hannah scored while Arlett was playing "you chase me and I'll get you" with the bounding ball. Mitchell scored Jake with a single, but Cooper got the side out without any more scoring being done.

Arlett came in from left field to pitch the last four innings, and the Angels touched him for the final five runs, Cut accounting for two of them in the eighth when he homed with Hood on second.

After blanking the Oaks for seven rounds in a row, Wright eased up in the ninth and the visitors got their final markers after two were out when Reese singled, Pete Fox walked and Shinners tripled to center.

In the nightcap the Angels sent Boehler with a three-run lead in the first inning to take a foul, but the Oaks could not overcome. Jacobs smashed a double off Jim Caveney and went to third on Mitchell hit a sacrifice fly to left. Baker is right. Hood's double to right brought Jake home and Hood scored soon after on John's out. A passed ball put John on second from where he counted on Wright's single to right.

SHINNERS HITS HOMES

Shinners homed into the outfield bleachers to start the ninth and that was all the damage the Oaks could do to Hamilton. They got in a jam in the fifth when a hit and two walks filled the sacks after two were out. Bum Archer had a chance to break up the game, but "Oil" retired the big fellow on a drive to Weis.

After the first the Angels outfit only one more hit off Boehler and that one came in the sixth and was in the locals' fourth run. Boehler walked to open the sixth and was sacrificed. A wild pitch moved him to third and then Marty Krug punched a single to center and brought the Seraph left-fielder home with the plate.

Nothing doing at Wrigley Field today. Sacramento and the Angels open a seven-game series tomorrow. The scores:

WORK'S RIVER BOARD SCORED

Senator King of Utah Writes to Secretary

Centers Attack on Members and Instructions

Charges Interior Department Partial to Swing Bill

WASHINGTON, April 17. (Exclusive)—In a thirty-nine-page letter to the Secretary of the Interior Senator King of Utah today roundly condemns the recent appointment of five Boulder dam advisers, more strongly condemns the instructions under which they are to function, questions the right of the Secretary to pay these advisers out of the reclamation fund, but concentrates his attack on the order of the Secretary that these men shall report to him on the power of the Federal government to control the waters of the Colorado River and to allocate those waters, without a compact or agreement among the States.

The Senator protests the unfairness of the advisers selected, inasmuch as their views are known in advance; objects to an investigation confined, as he charges, to supporting the Swing-Johnson bill and protests against ignoring Utah and Arizona, both of which have a vital interest in the river. The Senator's letter is couched in strong language and it is his expectation that it will be forwarded to Secretary Work to be considered by him when he returns from Hawaii the end of this month.

PROTESTS INSTRUCTIONS

Senator King interprets the instructions to the advisers as clearly meaning that the department is committed to the Swing-Johnson plan and that the advisers "were appointed to fortify" that measure.

His protests that the department should take no step which will tend to prevent the basin States from reaching an amicable and satisfactory agreement among themselves.

"I respectfully submit," adds the Senator, "that the instructions given to the advisers will be calculated to prevent the ratification of the compact by all the States. They will be regarded as an expression of the purpose of the Interior Department to take control of the waters of the river, regardless of the rights of the States, and to allocate them to the States without reference to the compact and to construct a dam at Boulder Canyon and carry out the essential features of the Swing-Johnson bill. Certainly these instructions will be regarded as an expression of a desire on the part of the department that advice shall be given that will tend to relegate the States to a subordinate position, and assign to the national government the undisputed control and ownership of all unappropriated waters of the Colorado River."

Protesting that advisers should be persons of ability and standing without "preconceived and predetermined views" Senator King goes on to analyze the instructions to mean that Secretary Work's advisers are not free to recommend some other plan, but must confine themselves "to dealing with the essential features of the Swing-Johnson bill."

VIEWS ALREADY KNOWN

The Senator says the views of the advisers recently appointed are known in advance. He declares the Secretary should not have appointed persons who have fully made up their minds on the questions involved but engineers of national reputation and persons wholly dissociated from the controversy.

The Senator cites a long line of decisions by the Supreme Court and other courts controverting what he charges is the present theory of the department as to control over the river, and denies that the Federal government has any control over those waters or that it can allocate them to States or individuals.

"If the Federal government may go into the States and assume control over the streams therein and determine the right to the use of waters, the manner of distribution, construct dams, build power plants and power lines and engage in the manufacture or sale of electricity, and exercise the authority vested in the States, including its police powers as well as a sort of proprietory interest, then there is no limit to its authority to interfere with local self-government and the domestic affairs of the State. And yet some officials of the Interior Department are insisting that the Federal government possesses such powers and are determined that it shall exercise to the full extent such powers."

The Senator refers to the charge that the power interests are seeking to control our rivers and the argument that therefore the Federal government must take over all the streams that have power possibilities. "If there are electric power combinations the States can and should deal with them," he says. "The States can control all public utilities and fix rates for service. The Federal government can dissolve trusts and monopolies."

In conclusion Senator King said: "I respectfully submit that in reason and under the decision of courts the Federal government has no authority to control the waters of the Colorado River, and the Interior Department has no authority to project plans for that purpose. The States in which the waters of this river rise and through which they flow have exclusive jurisdiction over them subject only to the right of the national government to prevent interference with navigation. Neither Congress nor any executive department of the government should interpose obstacles to prevent the States interested in the Colorado River from asserting their jurisdiction or from reaching an amicable understanding as to their respective rights in and to the waters of the river.

AGREEMENT POSSIBLE

"Undoubtedly an agreement can and will be reached among the interested States which will fully protect the rights of each and permit the development of the Colorado River. Each of the upper States has the right to insist that no proceedings shall be taken which will jeopardize its rights. The situation is such that the lower basin States may be ready to appropriate a portion of the waters of the river before the upper States are in a position to appropriate and use any considerable portion of the river. The provisions of the compact recognize the rights of the upper States and propose a reasonable division of the waters of the river. The States alone, without compulsion or coercion on the part of the Federal government, should be permitted, as is their right, to agree among themselves with respect to this important matter.

"There is no justification in assuming, as the Interior Department has assumed, that there is only one plan for the development of the Colorado River. Many plans have been suggested. Certainly the field of investigation if the Interior Department is authorized to investigate should not be limited to considering only those matters relating to the plan embraced in the Swing-Johnson bill. If the Interior Department is authorized to make any recommendations to Congress in regard to the development of the Colorado River it ought to explore every avenue for facts and obtain all possible information in order that its findings if it should make findings and recommendations will be based upon grounds which cannot be questioned."

Kerensky Says Empire Better Than Commune

NEW YORK, April 17. (Exclusive) Alexander Feodorovitch Kerensky, Premier of Russia under the provisional government in 1917, stirred an audience of 1500 at Mecca Temple today with an appeal in behalf of political prisoners in Russia, hundreds of whom, he said, were languishing in soviet jails.

M. Kerensky said that the terrorism in Russia today was worse in its consequences than under the Czar, and that freedom of speech is throttled. He declared the crowded prisons of the soviet government were a sure sign that a struggle for democratic government is going on among the Russian people.

The ex-Premier was introduced by Matthew Woll, vice-president of the American Federation of Labor, who assured him that organized labor in the United States was hopeful that the present Communist dictatorship in Russia would soon be supplanted by a democratic government.

ABSENT-MINDED BEGGAR GONE

Mendicancy Raised to Art in France With Instruction Book

PARIS, April 17. (AP)—Mendicancy is an art in France, and Gallic beggars have a "Manual for the Use of Beggars" to instruct them in the art.

The book, which includes a "sucker list" of good prospects, emerged from the pocket of a beggar when a judge admired his knowledge of humanity.

"Why, it's an art," exclaimed the beggar, drawing forth the textbook in explanation.

Most of the chapters are devoted to technical instruction, such as how to operate at baptisms, marriages, funerals, and the methods of attracting sympathetic attention. There is instruction in how to seem blind, simulation of certain ailments, faking of suicide attempts, and the concealment of legs or arms for displacement by false ones.

HAWAIIAN SEA TO BE CHARTED

Federal Hydrographic Chief Arrives at Hilo

Harbor Areas Only Portions Surveyed to Date

Commander to Spend Month Mapping Out Work

HILO (Hawaii) April 17. (Exclusive)—A complete hydrographic survey of the waters around the Hawaiian Islands is to be made by the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey Bureau, it has been announced by Commander W. E. Parker, chief of the Bureau's hydrographic department in Washington, who arrived from the mainland recently.

Commander Parker expects to be here for a month investigating the situation in the islands and laying out plans for the survey.

In explanation of the work, Commander Parker said:

"At the present time we are doing special work for the War Department establishing triangulation control on the Island of Oahu. This consists of laying out latitudinal and longitudinal lines all over the island for the benefit of military surveys, public land surveys and all territorial work that involves the use of this information."

The work of charting Hawaiian waters was started by the department two years ago, and Parker left on the survey steamer Discoverer to visit parts of the ocean around here that have not yet been surveyed. The Discoverer has been used in the charting work here for the past year.

"The waters surrounding the Island of Hawaii, with the exception of the district near the harbor, have not been surveyed at all," Parker said. "I will go over there and outline plans for the work.

"Although hydrographic surveys are never really finished, because of ever-changing conditions in the water, when this Hawaiian survey is complete it will never have to be repeated. We will have to rechart the areas near the harbors at regular intervals, though," he said, "because silting around the harbors necessitates corrections to the charts."

PARTY VOTE REBUFF FOR MACDONALD

Independent Labor Chiefs Refuse Him Nomination for Treasurer

LONDON, April 17. (Exclusive)—A decision which probably will have a far-reaching reaction on the whole British political labor movement was taken today at a private session of the Independent Labor party, in its annual conference conducted at Leicester, when the national council refused to nominate Ramsay MacDonald for treasurer of the Labor party, by a vote of 312 to 118. This also excludes him from the Independent Labor party's delegation to the next labor conference.

There was no attempt made to disguise the reasons for the rebuff, the council contending that Mr. MacDonald opposed the policies of the Independent Labor party, was seeking to impose on the Labor party and was, in fact, the leading spokesman against the party. Under these circumstances the council felt they should select a delegation to the Labor conference which would be in harmony with the policy of the Independent Labor party.

Despite the decision, however, the conference retained Mr. MacDonald's name in the list of Independent Labor party candidates for Parliament in the next election.

Behind the personal issue is one of profound disagreement and the question of the nomination of Mr. MacDonald has merely served to bring the long smoldering controversial fire to an active flame and widen the split in the Labor party movement. Today's decision was a decided victory for the Communist section.

Indians After Old Lost Mine of Piute Tribe

SCHURZ (Nev.) April 17. (Exclusive)—Quietly locating their claims, stolidly turning deaf ears to white acquaintances and high promises, 100 Indians from the Schurz reservation have filed mining claims somewhere south of Hawthorne. Dazzled by rich specimens of silver-gold ore white prospectors are vainly trying to locate the secret of the rich strike.

The Indians calmly declare they have found a mine lost long ago by the Piute tribe, and will work the rich ores without aid or counsel of the paleface. The quiet stampede of the braves, without parallel in the mining annals of the West, was led by veteran prospectors of the Piutes and Shoshones, and all efforts of white men to "horn in" have been sternly rebuffed.

Earl Carroll Showing Gain, Physicians Say

GREENVILLE (S. C.) April 17. (AP) Continued improvement in the condition of Earl Carroll was reported today by physicians attending the theatrical producer who has been in a local hospital since he collapsed several days ago on a train bearing him to the Atlanta penitentiary.

Carroll had a good night and took more nourishment today, they said, than he had since he lapsed into a coma early last Wednesday.

His wife is a patient in the same hospital recovering from an attack of bronchitis.

PLAN BOOSTER TRAIN

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) April 17. (Exclusive)—Tentative date for the departure of an all-Texas special train designed to advertise Texas through the North and East, has been set for June 10. The idea of a special train to advertise the State was conceived by the Texas Daily Press League and nurtured at a meeting of that organization in Dallas recently. Gov. Dan Moody will accompany the special train.

Muy Sr. mí: Tengo el gusto de manifestarle que el Sr. Juan Olivera me presentó, hace algunos días, la carta de recomendación que V. se sirvió proporcionarle al embarcarse él para ésta.

Su recomendado puso luego un anuncio en un periódico con el objeto de hallar colocación lo primero posible; pero no recibió ni la menor contestación.

Ayer se presentó en el despacho de los Sres. Artigas y Nougués, a quienes, como V. sabe, también venía recomedado; pero no pudo hablar con el apoderado, porque éste se halla de viaje por la América del Sur.

El Sr. Olivera, sin embargo, dice que no cesará de buscar colocación y que va a poner otro anuncio en el periódico para ver si encuentra algo.

Entretanto, se está dedicando a estudiar el inglés con el objeto de estar mejor preparado.

Sí, al fin, no encuentra nada, yo mismo le ofreceré algún puesto en mi establecimiento comercial.

5000 Miles in 4908 Minutes

and 22 Seconds Official A.A.A. Record

A STUDEBAKER BIG SIX closed car—the Commander Victoria—strictly stock and fully equipped—sped 5000 miles on the Culver City Speedway in 4908 minutes, 22 seconds, total elapsed time. This is 81.8 hours of continuous driving at 61⅛ miles per hour! Better than a mile a minute for 5000 miles.

A Studebaker Closed Car

This is the first time in automobile history that a fully equipped stock car has ever attempted such a drive as this. From 1:15 Friday evening until 3:03 Tuesday morning this car rolled silently around and around the mile and a quarter track. Silently, because no muffler cut-out was allowed. Not a thing was removed. Front and rear bumpers, the four fenders, top and windshield were not taken off! To the regular factory equipment two Owl fog lights were added, as well as spare tire, tube and cover.

Trying for 5000 Miles in 5000 Minutes

This Studebaker Commander set out to drive 5000 miles in 5000 minutes of continuous driving. At 3500 miles the total elapsed time was 3407 minutes, 32½ seconds—better than an hour and a half ahead of the mile-a-minute schedule. For the last 1500 miles the car averaged 60 miles per hour, finishing an hour and 31 minutes ahead of the objective—5000 miles in 5000 minutes.

At the conclusion of the 5000 miles, Harry Hartz drove the Commander several laps around the 1¼ mile track and was unofficially timed at 76 miles per hour. Furthermore this same Commander previously made 79 miles per hour over a measured course at Riverside, and was driven 73-5/16 miles in one hour on the Culver City Speedway.

What A. A. A. Sanction Means

The Studebaker Commander was run under the sanction and observation of the American Automobile Association (A.A.A.), which kept the certified records and timing. The moment the car stopped at the end of the run the keys were turned over to the A.A.A. officials, who drove the car from the track and kept it in their possession until it was entirely dismantled and every part carefully measured to ascertain that all parts conformed exactly to factory specifications. Tires, wheels, gear ratio and every part of the motor were thus checked and certified by the A.A.A. as stock car equipment.

Five New A. A. A. Records

In this single run five official A.A.A. records were established, applying to a strictly stock car with complete factory equipment.

The driving for this remarkable distance was divided between Harry Hartz, 1926 Speedway Champion; Louis Wilson; Ab Jenkins, holder of the present Transcontinental Record (made in a Big Six Studebaker), and Eddie Hearne, famous racing driver. At three-hour intervals, a two-minute stop was made for fuel and a change of drivers.

Pure Richfield Gasoline and Richlube Oil were used exclusively and aided materially in the success of the run. Standard equipment of Firestone Tires was used, with only one forced stop, resulting from a puncture caused by a splinter from the board track.

NEVER before in automobile history was a stock car, completely equipped, put to such a test. It established new and unparalleled records for high speed over a distance equal to more than ten times the driving distance between Los Angeles and San Francisco. The car finished in excellent mechanical condition. It is now on our display room floor at Figueroa and Pico. Come and see it for yourself.

Standing down the Culver City board of better than a mile a minute. Every item of stock equipment was on the car—windshield wiper, rear-view mirror and even spare tire, tube and cover were taken off.

Mr. G. F. Stephenson, local A.A.A. representative, congratulating Harry Hartz shortly after 3 o'clock in the morning, at the finish of 5000 miles. On the left is J. E. Von Sant, of the Paul G. Hoffman Co., in charge of pit work. Next to Harry Hartz are Louis Wilson and Ab Jenkins, who shared in the driving honors.

At 9:15 in the morning—with everybody happy. The mechanics from the Paul G. Hoffman Co., the Richfield service crew, Firestone Tire men, and official timers.

Easter Sunrise Services Attract Record Multitude in Southland

JUST HOW Many Worshipers Greeted the Rising Easter Sun at Services Held in Scores of Southern California's Unparalleled Natural Temples Will Never Be Known. Certain it is, however, that the figure mounts into the hundreds of thousands—a vast throng inspired not alone by reverence for the Prince of Peace, but as well by the majesty of the perfect Eastern morn that stole across the eastern hills to cast its benediction on a land of beauty. The combined attendance at three places of woship—The Coliseum, the Hollywood Bowl and Mt. Rubidoux—exceeded 100,000, while at every other shrine in the Southland record gatherings were reported. Beginning at midnight, the procession of worshipers wending its way across the Southland to outdoor temples in the mountains, at the seaside and in the valleys, continued unbroken until the solemn moment when the rising sun burst over a mountain skyline, and the return journey of the chastened multitude kept traffic arteries clogged for hours. Photos on this page, all by Times staff photographers, depict scenes at the principal places of worship and observance.

FLOWER SHOW AT PASADENA

Beautiful Display to Mark Annual Exhibit

Opens Wednesday for Three Days' Run

Amateurs and Professionals Make Entries

PASADENA, April 17.—A new precedent in floral beauty is expected to be set Wednesday night, when the 1927 spring flower show of the Pasadena Horticultural Association opens in Memorial Park for a three-day exhibition.

Instigated and supported by a group of wealthy and prominent flower-lovers of Los Angeles and other Southern California cities as well as Pasadena, preparations for this show have exceeded in elaborateness anything before attempted in Pasadena.

In addition to the professional growers, the advisory committee of private exhibitors, numbering well over 200, is exerting its influence to focus the attention of all the Southland on the Pasadena show, and to do everything possible to bring to the attention of home-owners the great opportunities which exist for making Southern California a world center of floriculture.

Noel T. Arnold is the head of the advisory committee and its members include such noted residents as Henry E. Huntington, Mrs. Adolphus Busch, Henry M. Robinson and many others, who have fine gardens of their own and are anxious to lend their aid to the project. Through the efforts of Mr. Arnold's committee, many new members have been added to the list of sustaining members this year.

A new feature of the exhibition this year will be a preview to be held Wednesday afternoon for members only. This will be a social gathering of unusual distinction. The preview idea originated in England in connection with the London and Chelsea flower shows.

This year's entry list is larger than ever before and includes a wide variety of new ideas in landscaping and novel displays. Music will be furnished during the three evenings of the exhibition.

Thousands Join in San Diego's Municipal Sing

SAN DIEGO, April 17.—Under sunny skies and with a touch of summer in the air, thousands of San Diegans thronged the Spreckels organ pavilion in Balboa Park this afternoon and participated in the annual outdoor "sing." Solos by Mrs. Edna M. Sylvester, soprano; organ numbers by Hubert J. Stewart, official organist and assembly singing under direction of Wallace Moody, with Mrs. Moody assisting, marked the progress of the elaborate program. Mrs. Sylvester's principal selection was "I Know that My Redeemer Liveth," from the "Messiah," and Dr. Stewart concluded the exercises of the afternoon with the Hallelujah chorus played upon the great organ with everyone standing at reverent attention.

An organ pavilion tradition was preserved in the presentation of the "Easter Chord." The crowd was divided into four parts, or choirs, each with its own note to sound. After a few minutes of rehearsal the full chord was delivered with impressive effect.

WIFE SAVES MONEY FOR HER HUSBAND

ALHAMBRA, April 17.—A wife's confession saved her husband $25 today in Police Judge H. S. Farrell's court.

Harry Benstead of 1516 Orange avenue came home on the night of the 6th inst. and found his wife away. The next day he met J. B. Irwin of 20 Chico street and "beat him up," it is asserted. Benstead was arrested, charged with assault. He pleaded guilty but asked leniency on the grounds that Irwin had taken his wife out.

"Produce the truth of that statement," Judge Farrell told Benstead, "or the law will take its course."

So yesterday morning Benstead returned to court with Mrs. Benstead. She was the proof. After the judge had heard her story he suspended a fine.

BUILD NEW CHURCH

SOUTH GATE, April 17.—This city soon is to have another new church edifice, the South Gate Community Church board of trustees having purchased three lots on Liberty and Dearborn boulevards, which will have a frontage of 150 feet on Liberty and 125 feet on Dearborn. The congregation already has a church building at Independence and Victoria and this will be sold. It is stated that the deal was made through A. G. Cottrell, the well-known realtor, and that the cost was approximately $9500 for the site.

BUILD HUGE SEWER

HUNTINGTON PARK, April 17.—Bids for the construction of a temporary disposal plant and for the main trunk sewer to handle the sewage disposal proposition in the territory comprising District No. 1 and 2, will probably be opened and the contract let on April 11, according to A. K. Warren, chief county sanitary engineer. Mr. Warren has explained that, as the permit from the State Board of Health has been secured, and since no opposition has been apparently satisfied, work has now started on detailed plans for the construction of the ultimate White's Point ocean outfall.

USE STEEL CONSTRUCTION

PASADENA, April 17.—Steel construction work will be used to support the 30,000 new seats which will be built at the south end of the Rose Bowl stadium this summer, according to President Harry M. Ticknor of the Tournament of Roses Association. The steel construction method has been decided upon instead of the dirt-fill method at first suggested.

MODERN MAIDS OF ORANGE IN CONTEST

ORANGE, April 17.—Which of these girls would you choose for queen? One of the number must be selected to reign as Queen Valencia in the "Queen Valencia's Court" pageant to be held in Orange on the evening of May 3-4.

This festival, which is the first of an annual affair of like kind, heralds the beginning of the Valencia orange season. More than $20,000,000 worth of this wonderful fruit was marketed from Orange county last year, with prospects for an even greater crop during the coming season.

The "Queen Valencia's Court" pageants will be staged upon the charming little plaza in the center of the business district of Orange. The cast will be made up of more than 100 high-school girls, and the entire entertainment, which will begin at 8 p.m. each evening, will be free for the public.

FARM ADVISERS TO MEET

Bakersfield to Entertain Convention Interested in Development of Agricultural Enterprises

BAKERSFIELD, April 17.—Farm advisers from forty-one counties of California, delegates from practically every farm center of the State, and bankers and business men interested in agriculture from every section of California, 250 strong, will be entertained in Bakersfield and Shafter, Friday and Saturday, May 20 and 21. Kern county has been designated as the terminus of the traveling Farm Bureau Conference, sponsored by the extension service of the University of California, and elaborate plans are being made in both Kern cities to make the caravan visit a long remembered occasion.

In Bakersfield today, D. H. Bitner, chairman of the general arrangements committee, announced that plans are being completed for banqueting 500 persons at the Masonic Temple here on the evening of May 20. Two hundred and fifty local persons are expected to attend the banquet, which promises to be the greatest affair of its kind ever held in Kern county.

The following morning, the automobile caravan, accompanied by delegates from Bakersfield, will go to Shafter where that community will be host to a delegation of 400 visitors, the greatest group in the history of Shafter. Plans for the entertainment of the delegates are being made by every organization of the community.

L. W. Taylor, Kern county farm adviser, spoke last night before the Shafter Business Men's Association, asking that organization to assist the Shafter farm center in entertaining the caravan delegates.

Mr. Taylor said that the caravan will go to Shafter Saturday morning, accompanied by delegates from every Kern county farm center, and dozens of Bakersfield business men and bankers. Arriving in the farming community during the forenoon, they will be guests at a big barbecue to be served at Shafter, and in the afternoon will tour the farming district, ending their visit with the major objective of the tour, a visit to the United States experimental farm at Shafter, where they will be entertained by W. B. Camp, agronomist in charge. The caravan will disband at Shafter Saturday evening.

The Shafter Business Men's Association voted to assist the farm center organization, to furnish funds and entertainment. The Shafter farm center also will be assisted by the farm home department, and Wednesday Afternoon Club, the American Legion, Ladies' Auxiliary Parent-Teacher Association, Boys' Ag Club, Boy Scouts and Camp Fire Girls.

The caravan will leave Berkeley Monday, May 16, by caravan, and will visit and study conditions in each of the agricultural centers of the San Joaquin Valley. Last year the delegation toured the Sacramento Valley.

D. H. Bitner, in charge of the local banquet, is being assisted on the general committee by H. K. Dickson, head of the high-school agricultural faculty; Mrs. Mary Thompson and F. M. Hanson.

The ticket committee, under the chairmanship of V. G. Ryland, includes F. M. Lasson, G. B. Dennen and S. E. L. Wharton.

The entertainment committee is made up of Carl Froelich, chairman; W. E. Haag, Mrs. R. T. Cole and Mrs. M. Barlow.

The decoration committee has Mrs. A. W. Rench as chairman, J. M. McKean, A. B. Cobb, Myrtle Paddock and Helen Phillips.

CONFERENCE OF CATHOLIC WOMEN

FULLERTON, April 17.—Five hundred women from the southern counties will assemble in Fullerton on the 26th inst. for the quarterly conference of the diocesan council of Catholic women, it was announced today. The sessions will be held at the parish hall on West Commonwealth avenue, following a special mass at 11 o'clock in St. Mary's Church.

Rt. Rev. John P. Cantwell of Los Angeles, Bishop of the diocese, will be guest of honor and will give the luncheon address, it was stated. Chief among women speakers will be Dr. Elizabeth Sullivan, head of the psychology department of the University of California. Women prominent in activities of the council who will attend include Miss Kate Desmond, president of the council, and Miss Mary Workman, past president.

NEW BAND STAND

ALHAMBRA, April 17.—Plans for the erection of a bandstand in the City Park are being drafted by the city engineering department. The stand is part of the program of the City Playground Commission and will be used during the summer for entertainments.

An outdoor stage is also to be constructed at the foot of one of the slopes in the park and seats will be built for the accommodation of the public.

Ages-Old Nuts Are Dug Up in Hill at Girard

GIRARD, April 17. — Petrified walnuts were found yesterday at a depth of twenty-five feet in a hill near Girard in the southwest end of San Fernando Valley, after they had been dug up by a road scraper at work on a road in the vicinity.

The walnuts probably were gathered hundreds of years ago by a prehistoric man or by rodents and hidden for the winter. They were either forgotten or buried in a ground upheaval, according to A. F. Kunkel, resident engineer of Girard.

When a comparison was made between the petrified nuts and wild walnuts growing on acreage near Girard a similarity was discovered. The nuts were found not very far from the place where Prof. A. J. Tietje and his geology class of the University of Southern California found several vertebrae of a whale.

At the time of this discovery it was stated by Prof. Tietje that all the country about Girard ages ago had been thrust up from the bottom of the ocean which then covered the land.

Lankershim Man Inventor of New Screen Process

LANKERSHIM, April 17. — A photographic "long shot" and "close up" in one operation and on one piece of film is the invention of Gilbert Warrenton, a Lankershim cinematographer, which is now attracting the notice of fellow-cinematographers and optical engineers. A demonstration of the new device has just been made in one of the projection rooms of the Universal Pictures Corporation at Universal City.

The process involves the use of a series of special lens which photographs ordinary long-range scenes. At a given point one or more characters in the scene are caught in a "close-up" which covers but part of the screen. With Warrenton's invention, the camera picks out the distant object which is to be brought to the attention of the audience, and then as if with a telescope the scene is enlarged to a size desired, the remainder of the scene not being disturbed. Optical engineers say the device is so practical and easily operated that it is likely to be used in many film plays in the future.

PIONEER CELEBRATION

Hanford Arranges for Fete on Fiftieth Anniversary

HANFORD, April 17.—More than 600 invitations have been sent out from this city inviting former residents to teend the home-coming and pioneer-day observance which takes place May 6, on the occasion of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of Hanford.

The Kiwanis and Exchange clubs of the city have charge of the pioneer events of the forenoon and have collected some interesting relics of early days, such as a picture of James B. Hanford, paymaster of the Southern Pacific Railroad, after whom the town was named; a stage coach which ran through here in "sand-lapper" days, and the large collection of relics owned by Frank Griffith of this city, being mostly from the Tulare Lake region and those gathered from the early-day criminals whom he chased and captured. The Business and Professional Women's Club of Hanford has charge of the pioneer ball at night and will manage the event attired in costume of the pioneer flappers of fifty years ago.

ASK PERMIT FOR DAM

SAN FRANCISCO, April 17. (Exclusive)—Application to construct a dam at Beardsley on the middle fork of the Stanislaus River in Tuolumne county has been filed with the Federal power commission by the Sierra and San Francisco power company. It is proposed to form a reservoir with a capacity of 60,000 acre-feet of water.

FILM STARS' PUPS TO FEATURE SHOW

LANKERSHIM, April 17.—Large crowds attended the final session of the rabbit show, under auspices of the San Fernando Valley Breeders' Association, which closed here tonight after an exhibition of several days. The show ended with a special program put on by the members of the organization. The big Lankershim dog show comes next. This exhibition will take place on the 29th and 30th inst., bench entries closing on the 19th and 20th inst. Officials of the show state that more than 1000 of the best-bred dogs in the United States will be in the exhibit and they will be judged for prizes by some of the leading dog experts in the country. One feature of the show will be about 125 dogs of various breeds, owned by film stars of Hollywood and Beverly, and ranked among the classiest canines in the world.

NAVEL SEASON COMES TO END AT MONROVIA

DUARTE, April 17.—The final shipment of navel oranges from the Duarte-Monrovia district was made yesterday, according to officials of the Duarte-Monrovia Fruit Exchange, and ranchers will turn their attention to the Valencia crop this week.

Season shipments totaled 350 carloads, with an average price of $3.50, making a crop value of approximately $350,000. This shows an increase of ninety carloads over last season, when 260 carloads were shipped.

Exchange officials estimate that the Valencia crop will total 425 carloads this season, compared with 265 carloads last year. The Valencia crop will be heavy, but will run to small sizes, it was said.

This district comprises Duarte, Monrovia and west to Lamanda Park.

ODD FELLOWS HONOR LANKERSHIM MEMBER

LANKERSHIM, April 17.—For the first time in the history of the local Odd Fellows' lodge, it has been given the honor of selecting the District Deputy Grand Master for this district from one of its members. Past Noble Grand John W. Lynch has been named to fill the high position for the 1927-1928 period. He will receive his official appointment at the session of the Grand Lodge to be conducted at Sacramento during the week of May 20, next. The plaintiffs in the proceedings say that their bid for the work was lower than that of the Los Angeles Paving Company.

WAR AIN'T WHAT IT USED TO BE

Fighting Marines Overjoyed at Luxuries to be Enjoyed on Transport Provided for the Accommodation on Trip to War Torn China

SAN DIEGO, April 17.—Inspection of the Palatial Dollar liner President Grant by the rank and file of the Third Regiment of Marines incited chuckles and loud guffaws on the part of the leathernecks that put the whole water front in hilarious mood today, when the war-bound soldiers of the sea learned of the comforts they will enjoy on their trip to China.

Several seasoned campaigners actually wept when they were told by Dollar line officers that the regiment will be served tea in the ship's gold and orange tea room on the promenade deck every "awfternoon" promptly at 4 by the clock.

To make the horrors of war more vivid for the personnel of the snappy Third Regiment, the Dollar line has installed an Ethiopian orchestra on the President Grant, provided five pianos, tennis court and swimming tank, ping-pong sets and a whole flock of kiddie cars. Col. Henry Davis, regimental commander, flashed his eyes just once on the childish vehicles and ordered them taken to the children's playroom on the liner. He murmured that too much was sufficient even on a war party.

But the privates in the rear rank got the biggest laughs. Their staterooms won't be equipped with Chippendale furniture and luxurious baths but they'll have the same food as the officers, and it'll be served by Filipino mess attendants in immaculate white garb. There will be music with their meals and the Ethiopian orchestra will soothe the war-bound leathernecks with "Sweet and Hot" strains rights after dinner.

The President Grant arrived from San Francisco yesterday at 7 a.m. and work of loading equipment started at 8 o'clock. At sundown today the big liner is scheduled to sail for the Orient. Her destination is "any port between Olangapo, P. I., and Taku bar on the north China coast."

The regiment, totaling ninety-seven officers and 1560 men, marched to the transport from the marine base this afternoon between 2 and 3 o'clock.

WORTH ALL IT COSTS

Pasadena Woman Writes From War Zone in China That Natives Deserve Sympathy and Aid

PASADENA, April 17.—Native noncombatant Chinese in the war zones are suffering far more at the hands of invading soldiers than are the foreigners, and are deserving of much sympathy, writes Mrs. Leland Holland to her mother, Mrs. S. McCurdy, 1216 Wesley avenue, Pasadena. Mrs. Holland and her husband are engaged in school work at Nanchang.

"Many Chinese have lost everything they possess, and the labor unions are asking such exhorbitant wages and privileges that many merchants have had to close their shops, although such action is illegal, and they are liable to the death sentence for doing it," she states.

Mrs. Holland feels that the foreigners who are so anxious about their plight are far better off than the Chinese and that much of their distress comes from the fact that they have been enjoying unusual special rights over the natives.

"This revolution is an enormous and terrible thing," she says, "and the foreigner ought not to try to arrest it with his bowls. When one thinks how helpless one used to feel about China, it is a relief, despite its being awful, to see their stupendous effort of trying to get control of themselves. It will take years of adjustment, but the result will be fruitful."

Goes to Poland to Participate in Celebration

GLENDALE, April 17. — John Roman, 515 North Central avenue, Glendale, accompanied by Mrs. Roman, will be one of the honorest guests at the ceremonies in Warsaw, Poland, in July, to open the tenth anniversary of the organization of Gen. Josef Haller's army that fought in France with the Allied troops and that was the first unit to fight under the flag of Poland on the western front.

Immediately after the entry of the United States into the World War in 1917, Polish-American citizens, who were not then eligible for service in the American forces, were organized into a fighting unit, and after a brief period of training were sent to France 20,000 strong, and were placed under the command of Gen. Haller, who secured from the French army chiefs the privilege of leading his compatriots into battle under the Polish banner.

In the work of recruiting this force and in raising funds for its equipment and maintenance, as well as for war relief work later, Mr. Roman played an important part as the chairman of the Polish-American colony in Southern California, and for his services he was later decorated with the Haller medal, the highest honor in the gift of the Polish leader.

Besides their visit to Poland, Mr. and Mrs. Roman will also tour other portions of Europe, and they will also attend the American Legion convention in Paris in September. They will leave Glendale on the 28th inst., for New York, whence they will sail on the steamship Paris of the French line on May 14.

ALL DRESSED UP NO PLACE TO GO

Susumu Igauye

ALHAMBRA, April 17.—When Susumu Igauye, one of the members of the senior class of Alhambra High School, wants to step out in "glad rags," he has the advantage over most of his classmates in color and novelty of dress.

Susumu, who is 16 years of age and one of the popular students at the school, has a prized possession in the "jimbayori" or full-dress costume which Japanese gentlemen of high rank in government and social circles donned 300 years ago on occasions of a formal nature. The elaborate dress was considered the last word in sartorial effect in the best Japanese circles.

Susumu, who lives at 101 East Garvey avenue, Monterey Park, was born in San Marino. His parents were also born in this country. He is a member of the Alhambra High School wrestling team and goes on the mat at 115 pounds. He expects to go to college and wants to fit himself for a business career.

War Secretary to Make Flight to Ross Field

ARCADIA, April. 17—Traveling in a new type transport plane with a cruising speed of 100 miles an hour, Assistant Secretary of War Davidson and a party of aviation experts are scheduled to visit Ross Field here late in May, it was learned here today.

Secretary Davidson and Lieut. Lester J. Maitland will share controls on the three-motored monoplane, it was said, each of the motors developing 225 horsepower.

The party will include also Brig.-Gen. William E. Gilmore, of the Air Service; H. J. Adamson, civilian assistant to Mr. Davidson, and Porter Adams of the National Aeronautical Association. They are expected to leave Washington on May 4.

Recent rumors that the government might consent to turn back Ross Field to Los Angeles county, which donated the eighty-five-acre tract to the government in 1917, have been stilled by a message to Mayor A. N. Multer from Maj.-Gen. Mason Patrick, chief of the Army Air Service, stating that "the field will not be sold to any private individual or to a municipality since such disposal would preclude plans for use of the property as a training field in time of war."

Arcadia officials had considered buying the field for city park purposes.

YEGGMEN BUSY OVER WEEK-END

Long Beach Officers Report Robbery, Hold-up, Auto Theft Among Activities

LONG BEACH, April 17.—A safe was cracked, a man was held up, and three youths were arrested as auto thieves, according to the week-end reports of Long Beach police.

Dr. W. Harriman Jones, who lives at the Pacific Coast Club, was held up by a masked bandit as he was about to drive away from 3100 East Second street, the residence of friends he had just driven home. Dr. Jones thought the bandit was fooling and started to remove the mask.

The bandit convinced him of his serious intentions, and Dr. Jones handed over $50, diamonds and other valuables being overlooked by the robber. The bandit was operating in a stolen car, which later was found abandoned.

Thieves cracked the safe in the office of A. C. Walker & Co., 318 East Fourth street, today. They obtained between $250 and $300 in cash.

Three Los Angeles youths were arrested by Officers Springer and Anderson, detailed to stop motorists engaged in "picking up" girls. The youths, police said, confessed to stealing their car in Glendale, the machine being the property of Robert Hess, 3148 Laclede street, Los Angeles.

The youths, who were turned over to Glendale police, gave their names as Alvin Cuthers, 4409 Loreta avenue, Wilfred Baker, 2672 Marne avenue and Jack Hill, 2801 Densmore street, all the addresses being in Los Angeles.

SELL PROPERTY TO BUILD CITY HALL

HUNTINGTON PARK, April 17.—Part of the City Hall property, Irvington avenue and Pacific Boulevard, may be sold during the present year, if the voters so decide. The remainder will be used for the erection of a two or three-story City Hall. Such is the decision of the special committee which was recently appointed by Mayor Jerome V. Scofield, after the committee members had interviewed a number of prominent residents.

The City Hall property has become very valuable, and the city is in need of a larger City Hall in which to conduct the city's business. The committee has decided that it would be best to use part of the City Hall property, and sell the remainder for business purposes. With the proceeds, they have decided that a new City Hall can be erected. This will be the recommendation which will be made to the City Trustees at their next meeting.

LONG-DELAYED PAVING SOON TO BE FINISHED

MISSION ACRES, April 17.—The Southern Pacific has completed its part of the paving work in connection with the opening of the crossing of the railway right of way over Sepulveda Boulevard, and a city crew is expected to start work at once to complete the extension of the thoroughfare across the tracks. The paving of the crossing has been delayed for some time, virtually putting out of commission the boulevard at this central part of San Fernando Valley. Although the money has been available for some time for the work, completion of the gap of the pavement, which runs clear across the valley, north and south, has been delayed because of red tape and a mild row between the railroad and the city's officials, the reason for which nobody has ever clearly understood.

PRACTICE WITH NEW TRAFFIC ORDINANCE

ALHAMBRA, April 17.—Alhambra's new uniform traffic ordinance became effective today and traffic officers were kept busy showing motorists the new kinks in the rules. Few arrests were made, the city officials taking the stand that they want to give the public an opportunity to become familiar with the ordinance before issuing tags.

Among the important provisions of the new rules is the one giving the pedestrian the right of way at intersections, unless the traffic is controlled automatically or by an officer. Parking in the central business district is limited to one hour.

Joshua Little ON CITY COUNCILS

WHEN all other institutions for the feeble-minded got overcrowded, and some place had to be provided for the extras, city councils were invented.

It is the nature of man to try to outdo all other men. The inventor dreamed of creating something even gawkier than the most expensive of State eleemosynary institutions, the Legislature. He failed signally, but he did his darnedest.

Men are elected to city councils for various reasons—sometimes because they are members of a popular lodge, sometimes because they are good hack-slappers, sometimes because of their religious convictions and sometimes for lack of any. Usually it is because some boss wants a handy man in a certain place, or because the voters are asleep. If the voters are awake it is because they consider their man a better grabber than any other man, and count on him to bring home to their neighborhood an unfair share of the bacon.

Once in 10,000 cases a man is elected councilman because he puts public interest above all neighborhood, clique, party or personal interests. But such rarely last long.

Yes, Palomino, if we selected bank cashiers like we select most city councils we'd all go bust faster than firecrackers do on July 4.

SALT ZONE STRUCK IN TEST HOLE

Project of Cap Rock Oil Starts Leasing Rush to Artesia District

ARTESIA (N. M.) April 17. (Exclusive)—At the north end of the Maljamar field interest is centering in the Cap Rock Oil and Gas Corporation's No. 1 Leonard, Levers test in Sec. 11, 16-32, which is drilling in the salt at 1500 feet. This well appears to be running high structurally and considerable acreage has changed hands in that area during the past month. The Humble Oil and Refining Company purchased 680 acres during the week, this being out of Secs. 9, 10, and 17, 16-32.

A flowing device has been installed on the Maljamar Oil and Gas Corporation's Grace Mitchell permit No. 1 well on Sec. 5, 17-32.

This producer is making 180 barrels daily.

The Mid-Continent Oil Company has flashed out all but fourteen joints of ten-inch pipe which was dropped in Woodley-Jones No. 1 test on Sec. 21, 17-30. The Covert test on Sec. 15, 21-32 is shut down at 3000 feet, in the salt, this being the present contract depth. It is understood that the hole will be carried lower.

The Ohio Oil Company's Mariand No. 1 test, located on Sec. 13, 22-29, on the Workman permit, is drilling in "gyp" at a depth of 2500 feet. The Mariand Oil Company's test on the Hale permit, Sec. 11, 20-30 is drilling in salt at 1800 feet.

In the Artesia field, the Lackawanna Oil and Refining Company will carry down the No. 1 on Sec. 17, 16-27, it being temporarily shut down at the present contract depth of 2000 feet.

Considerable geographical work is being done in the foothills west of Artesia, and several locations will be announced within the next two weeks.

ACTIVITY ON SAN JOAQUIN FIELDS TOLD

Week in Lower Valley Witnesses Spudding in of Nine New Wells

BAKERSFIELD, April 17. (Exclusive)—Oil-field operations in the lower San Joaquin Valley picked up last week, nine new wells being spudded in, against five for the previous week. Nine tests for water shut-offs were reported, and eleven deepening or re-drilling jobs were begun.

George F. Getty began drilling two new wells in the Kern River field. The No. 19 is located on Sec. 22, 28-27, and the No. 23 is on the same section. Both are being drilled on the Tegeler lease. Another Kern River well is the No. 4 of the Chanslor-Canfield Midway Oil Company on Sec. 23, 28-27.

In the Poso Creek field the Shell company has begun its No. 3 well on Sec. 9, 27-28, known as the Vedder-Rall lease.

The Standard Oil Company and the Chanslor-Canfield Midway Oil Company have each begun new wells in the Midway. The first is No. 232 on Sec. 7, 32-24, and the latter is No. 97 on Sec. 32, 81-22.

Other new wells are the Carneros Oil Company's No. 45, on Sec. 30, 28-21, Belridge; Max L. Pray No. 2, Sec. 1, 29-20, Tembior, and the M. H. Whittier Company No. 9, Sec. 1, 11-24, Sunset. Further north in the valley A. Otis Birch has begun his No. 1 well on Sec. 13, 21-26, in Tulare county. Potter & Esplin have spudded in their No. 1 on Sec. 6, 16-14, in Fresno county.

Getty Company Gets Lease on Edison Eighty

BAKERSFIELD, April 17. (Exclusive)—George F. Getty, Inc., has leased eighty acres in the Edison district in the south half of the northeast quarter of Sec. 32, 29-29, from Helen E. Maude of Bakersfield, a widow. Drilling is to begin within five years on a one-eighth royalty basis. Eight wells are to be drilled.

Carroll Holmes of Los Angeles has purchased from Rudolph Maynard and Milton M. Miles, a lease covering the north half of the southeast quarter of the northwest quarter of Sec. 25, 25-18, owned by Annie and James Schwartz.

The Oil Exploration Company has terminated its lease covering the east half of the southeast quarter of the southwest quarter of Sec. 19, 28-28, in the Kern River fields.

Berta Mining Upraise Opens Rich Ore Vein

In the development and operation of the property of the Berta Mining Company in Chihuahua, Mex., according to reports received by James B Murphy of Los Angeles, secretary of the company, the San Martin upraise has broken into a cave of ore, running high in its lead content, with appreciable silver values present, making 3000 tons of a marketable product available of a total value of about $600,000.

The Berta has made a satisfactory shipping record during the past year, and recent ore disclosures have added materially to the tonnages available now that new mining equipment has been installed and surface improvements made. The latter consists of the installation of ten jigs to be employed in separating the ore metals from its gangue matter, and mass production is to be started upon the completion of the new truck road. An abundance of water supply is assured for jigging and other mine requirements.

MARLAND ADDS TO DELANO HOLDINGS

DELANO, April 17. (Exclusive)—Eighty acres fifteen miles southeast of Delano have been leased by Ambrose Villard to the Mariand Oil Company in a contract that calls for drilling within three years and the payment of one-eighth oil royalty in the event that production is established. The property is described in lease papers as the fractional northwest quarter of Sec. 31, 25-26.

NEW WILDCAT CYCLE BEGUN

Hunt Turns to Other Fields as Tests Started Six Months or Year Ago Have Been Completed

Southern California wildcatting is ending one cycle and beginning another. Test wells started six months to a year ago have either discovered oil fields, been abandoned, or reached the stage where abandonment is to be expected in the ordinary course of events.

Of the old string of wildcats only one has had any degree of success, it being E. J. Miley's prospect well in the Goleta district. Miley's success there has resulted in the starting of quite a string of wildcats in a radius of ten miles.

But in all the other instances developments have been principally negative to date. The Standard Oil Company's four wildcats at Topanga Canyon, Camarillo, Montalvo and San Fernando Valley have either been abandoned or are listed among the extremely improbable prospects.

The Petroleum Securities Company has abandoned one wildcat in the San Fernando Valley, and has its Bandini wildcat down 5600 feet without showings. The General Petroleum Corporation's Lomita well at Sunset Beach is deeper than it should have been necessary to go for an oil sand if the geology had worked out. Julian Petroleum Corporation and General Petroleum both have quit their wildcats in the southeastern part of the Potrero area.

But with the cessation of interesting activity in these wells a new string of test holes is starting.

The Shell company is reviving the hopes of San Fernando Valley with a wildcat at the southern edge of the town of San Fernando. George F. Getty, Inc., is keeping alive the hope of the Bandini district with a wildcat well at Rivera. California Eastern holds aloft the banner at Potrero with a new wildcat a mile northwest of the one it just left. Farther south the Shell company is starting a new wildcat at Placentia, while the Holly Development Company has a test located in East Coyote Hills.

A noteworthy feature of wildcatting in the Los Angeles Basin and surrounding districts is the fact that almost all the work is being done by the major operators. The low price of crude oil and generally unfavorable condition of the industry at present is regarded as the principal reason for the timidity of the small wildcatter who generally is much in evidence.

Ord Mountain Mine Officer Visits Estate

Victor L. Smith of Los Angeles, vice-president of the Ord Mountain Mines, Inc., operating fourteen miles south of Daggett, and Frank Cotter of Santa Barbara, returning from a visit to the mine, state that most gratifying results are attending development work.

In the south face of the Rio Vista drift, according to Capt. J. L. Carder, mine manager and company consulting engineer, arriving from the property a day later, a seven-foot breast of ore is showing, with only one wall in sight, running better than 15 per cent copper and from $5 to $10 in gold to the ton. The formation, Capt. Carder says, is getting softer as the drift is advanced in the ore body, and the presence of water in the ledge is regarded as a good indication.

The high-grade ore being taken out is stored on the dump, ready for shipment as soon as the gravity tram, connecting with the auto truck road, is completed. At the lower end of the tram an ore bin has been constructed.

Old Supply Mine is Equipped for Deep Operations

The Supply mine in San Bernardino county, an early-day producer of high-grade and milling ore, recently taken over by the Arrowhead Development Company of Tonopah, Nev., Peter Fox, president and general manager, has been equipped with a hoisting plant and deep-sinking equipment, and is being cleaned out and its underground workings rehabilitated preparatory to the beginning of regular ore shipments, as it is stated a large tonnage of commercial ore, left in place by former owners, is available for extraction.

The company also owns the Arrowhead mine near Tonopah. Mr. Fox states that in the handling of this property arrangements are being made for regular ore production in the near future. The company is giving employment to a large force of men.

ANGELENOS BUY MINE

Properties of Willow Creek at Nyala to be Developed

Edward Noland and associates of Los Angeles and Arizona have acquired the gold properties of the Willow Creek Mining Company, at Nyala, and taken options on the adjoining claims of Pappas and Ghigberry.

The Willow Creek group has produced considerable rich ore, and is said to contain extensive deposits of excellent milling quartz. Heavier equipment is to be installed, and developments conductel along broader lines.

SHUTDOWN OPENS PATH TO FORTUNE

Independent Operator in Kern Field Profits by Action of Associated BAKERSFIELD, April 17. (Exclusive)—When the Associated Oil Company shut down approximately 200 wells in the northeastern section of the old Kern River oil field recently, due to decrease in production, the way was paved for F. G. Wagner, independent operator, to make a small fortune less than a mile away.

Realizing that the Kern River field oil strata slope up from the heart of the field to the northeast, Mr. Wagner figured that the shutdown would force a quantity of oil into the upper levels, so he drilled four wells on the northwest quarter of Section 34, adjoining the Associated property.

Wagner's wells are producing from fifty to 100 barrels of oil a day, according to George Premo of this city.

Wagner's land long ago was condemned as being worthless. It was too near the edge of the field, and too far from the heart of production.

Today the "heart of production" is shut in, while Wagner's wells pump away. The No. 1 well pumps seventy-five barrels a day from a depth of only 470 feet. The No. 3 is pumping approximately fifty barrels from the same sand. The No. 12 is still wet, but 150 to 200 feet of oil sand has been penetrated. The No. 16 well is being drilled past 865 feet in an effort to reach a lower sand, though operations have been suspended temporarily because of frozen casing.

Miller Reports on Operations at Mexico Mine

The extensive holdings of the Copalitos M. & S. Company in Sinaloa, Mex., is in course of intensive development and heavy equipment, according to Arch Miller of Glendale, in charge of general operations on company domain, who is in Los Angeles in conference with M. J. Conroy, president and general manager.

At present, Mr. Miller reports the Guadalupe shaft is being equipped with a forty-two-foot gallows frame and complete hoisting equipment, sufficient in capacity to sink to great depths in the development of the mammoth vein, and in the blocking out of the ore bodies at different mine levels.

Two cross-cut tunnels, according to Mr. Miller, are being run in the development of the Pilar vein, and from these drifts are being run ore bodies of ore from eight to twenty feet in width, portions of which carry several thousand ounces in silver to the ton, the entire mass being first-class mill feed. Upraises and winzes are also being driven from the tunnel levels, the intention being to connect one of the raises with the surface for purposes of ventilation, and also to provide a working shaft from the lower horizons. In the accomplishment of this work, Mr. Miller says, large tonnages of marketable ore are being blocked out.

Kerrick Shaft of Comanche Mine Producing Ore

Production of high-grade silver, lead and gold ore from the bottom of the 850-foot Kerrick shaft of the Comanche mine in Mono county was inaugurated last week, the shaft having been retimbered and equipped with hoisting plant and deep-sinking equipment. The bottom of the shaft is in a large body of ore, eighteen inches of which is of excellent shipping grade.

A lateral to the south, from the 850-foot level, is being run on the vein, the zone of enrichment being left intact to be broken later, while the milling ore is being stored on the dump. The shaft is being continued down on the ore to a point on the course of the big cross-cut tunnel, now in a distance of over 3130 feet, and being driven to contact with the Comanche ledge, 6940 feet in from its portal.

In the tunnel, according to Charles A. Palmer of Los Angeles, another carload of twelve-inch air pipe has been laid for ventilation, and progress in its advancement is being made at the rate of eight feet daily.

NEW PRODUCER AT POSO CREEK

Shell's Shut-in Well Believed Good for 500 Barrels

Company Plans Test to Fix Limit on North of Field

Series of Dry Holes Thought to be East-West Boundary

POSO CREEK, April 17. (Exclusive)—With the recent completion of its Vedder No. 4 well, which is thought to be good for from 500 to 600 barrels a day, but which is now shut in, the Shell Company now has five completions on Sec. 9, where it discovered the field. The feeling seems to prevail among operators that the east and west limits of the field have been defined by dry holes drilled by the Superior Oil Company and Petroleum Securities Company.

Just now Shell is undertaking to define the north side of the field with a projected test of its Glide No. 1 well on Sec. 1, 27-27. This well had a slight showing of oil, but its future is regarded as exceedingly doubtful.

Northwest of the Glide No. 1 well is the dry well of the California Petroleum Corporation on the McNeil lease, Sec. 34, 26-27. Southwest of the Glide is the abandoned Big Four well on Sec. 10, 27-27. On Sec. 16, 27-27, are two abandoned wells of the Union Oil Company on the Enas lease. South of the Glide test is an abandoned Shell well on Sec. 13, 27-27, and two sections northeast is the abandoned Porter well on Sec. 33.

Shell has just started the Vedder-Rall No. 3 well, and the rig is up for Vedder-Rall No. 2. This well will not be started, however, until the No. 3 has been completed, it is reported. None of the companies at Poso Creek are eager about developing new production, on account of the depressed condition of the oil market. They are merely doing such drilling as their leases require.

Confidence on Gain in Future of Weepah Area

TONOPAH (Nev.) April 17. (Exclusive)—With the new vein on the 100-foot level of the Electric mine showing a width of five to eight feet in the south crosscut, and a new east crosscut exposing an eighteen-inch shoot of gold-silver-lead ore, confidence of mining men in the future of Weepah has been materially strengthened.

Lead associated with gold ores generally mean persistence of veins to depth in Nevada, and the new find is considered of exceptional importance. The management states that the vein in the south crosscut samples $100 to $200 gold per ton, while the shoot in the east lateral runs about $300 in gold, lead and silver. The east crosscut is being driven to undercut the bonanza deposit exposed in the badger-hole.

The Electric company has fifteen men at work. Seven leases, controlled by some of Nevada's most noted operators, are active at surface. J. J. Davis, Los Angeles oil magnate, is reported to have acquired large holdings in the Electric, while A. L. Widney and other Angelenos have acquired some of the best claims in the field. Los Angeles people are dominating the district and showing particular speed in prospecting and equipping their holdings.

WILDCAT OF ELBE OIL IN GOOD SAND

Report of Strike North of Edison Regarded as Highly Important

EDISON, April 17. (Exclusive)—Thirty feet of oil sand, carrying 16 deg. gravity oil, has been found in the wildcat well being drilled nine miles north of here, on Sec. 20, 28-29, by the Elbe Oil Company, it has been learned. The sand was found at a depth of 1600 feet, it is said. Tests for production will be made within the next few days.

News of the north Edison strike is held by oil men to be of importance for the Elbe wildcat was located in a section long ignored by geologists.

It is asserted that all available land in the vicinity has been taken up by major oil companies for protection. Prior to the discovery of oil sand drillers in the Elbe well were hindered by the loss of circulation, a "thief sand" absorbing the drilling fluid.

L. S. Barnes, president of the Elbe Oil Company, is expected here tomorrow to confer with other officials regarding the find. The well is Mr. Barnes's first venture on the east side of Kern county. He is reputed to have made a fortune in oil at Signal Hill.

ARVIN AGOG AS WILDCAT NEARS TEST

Project Declared to be in "Dry" Area Center of Great Interest

ARVIN, April 17. (Exclusive)—The Arvin farming community, located twenty miles southeast of Bakersfield, is looking forward to the testing of the wildcat oil well being drilled two miles east of the town by the Kern Twenty-nine Oil Company.

The well is being prepared for a production test within the next ten days. During the past few days casing has been set at 2300 feet.

Announcement of the completion of the wildcat came with considerable suddenness as during the past few months the company had had drilling difficulties as well as financial troubles that threatened at times to result in failure for the test. The Arvin area has been described by many geologists as being theoretically "dry."

In spite of geologists' predictions several major companies have been careful to obtain large leases near the Arvin well to stand off the leasing rush that is likely to follow the coring of even an inadequate oil sand. That Arvin may be above broken pools of oil, such as are found north of the old Kern River field, has been indicated from geological discoveries made in the drilling of the old Fred Hall well northeast of Arvin, near the Edison highway, and the Comanche Point well southeast of Arvin.

AGENCY FOR OIL SALES REPORTS

Total of $14,100,000 Handled for Independents

Increase Over Previous Year Set at $4,950,000

Old Official Staff Named at Annual Meeting

BAKERSFIELD, April 17. (Exclusive)—The Independent Oil Producers' Agency handled $14,100,000 worth of oil during 1926, its business during that period being $4,950,000 in excess of the previous year's volume. These facts were made known at the annual meeting of the agency a few days ago.

During the year the agency produced 16,223,000 barrels of oil, Secretary Robb told the stockholders. The secretary's figures reveal an increased production of 8,063,000 barrels. The average cost of handling a barrel of oil during the year was 8 mills, it was declared.

Five new members have entered the agency this year. They are the Anchor Oil Company, Hopper-Harding-Fishall Company, Carneros Oil Company, Lawton Hannaman Company and the Tarr & McComb Company. There are now ninety-five members.

President L. P. St Clair, in his annual report, expanded upon the report of Secretary Robb in describing the success of the agency during the year. He indicated that members of the agency should have little difficulty in meeting the present critical situation existing in the crude-oil market.

All executive officers of the agency were re-elected. They are: President, St. Clair; Stanley W. Morse, vice-president, and Secretary Robb.

Members of the executive committee are the executive officers, and D. S. Ewing, H. H. Welsh, W. L. Stewart, F. E. Van Deinse, H. D. Colson, K. C. Wallace, Chester A. Warlow, George R. Harrison, W. W. Colm, Donald W. Whittier and E. E. Bailey.

Notice to Julian Petroleum Corporation Stockholders:

The undelivered notices to stockholders of the special meeting held on April 14, 1927, are evidence that many hundreds of stockholders have not yet transferred their stock referred to as "street certificates" into their own name with proper address, which will become a very important "factor" when request is sent forward for deposit of your Julian stock in exchange for California-Eastern stock in accordance with the terms of the contract approved at the special stockholders' meeting.

I therefore again urge you to transfer your stock without further delay.

In addition, for your own protection, it is necessary that a full and complete list of the stockholders be available for the officers of the California-Eastern Oil Company at the earliest possible moment in order to expedite the closing of the reorganization as voted at the stockholders' meeting on April 14.

I would recommend that stock carried on margin with brokers should, if it does not greatly inconvenience you, be taken up and transferred into your own name.

Respectfully submitted,

S. C. LEWIS,
PRESIDENT
Julian Petroleum Corporation.

To Our Clients:

EASTER Holidays prevented us from having a complete analysis of the special stockholders meeting of the Julian Petroleum Corporation held on April 14, 1927, for our clients, as it was not possible for printers to make delivery in time for this morning's distribution.

Some of the principal factors that should be taken into consideration may be summarized as follows:

First. That the financing of the California-Eastern Oil Company has been completed by a group of first line New York and California banking houses as applicable to $7,500,000 First Mortgage bonds and as to $5,000,000 junior financing by a private syndicate in which the public will not participate.

Second. There will be no public or private offering of California-Eastern Oil Company stock and the public will have no opportunity to purchase same except through the purchase of Julian Petroleum securities.

Third. Julian Petroleum Corporation securities will be called for exchange into California-Eastern and off the market at a date as early as is possible for the final closing of the transaction.

Fourth. An outstanding feature of the consolidation, as authorized by the stockholders at the special meeting on April 14, is the basis of the exchange of stock whereby three and four-tenths shares of California-Eastern will be exchanged for one share of Julian Petroleum Preferred, and one-half share of California-Eastern for each share of Julian Petroleum Common.

Fifth. Julian Petroleum Corporation securities will continue to be traded in on the Stock Exchange until gradually removed from the market when and as transferred into California-Eastern.

BIG JIM TO DUPLICATE MINE MILL

Action of Directorate Prompted by Excellent Record Production

PATAGONIA (Ariz.) April 17. (Exclusive)—Big Jim is pushing lateral work on a new 850-foot level, with expectation that the vein will be crosscut at eighty feet from the station. The greater part of this work has been done mainly through wall material containing many small seams carrying silver and lead.

A fine body of sulphide already is available for stoping on the 250-foot level, where the vein is reported to include thirty-five feet of ore of excellent milling grade. This condition, together with the favoring indications at greater depth, have caused President Keating and his directors to order duplicates of the present mill, which has been maintaining an excellent record, both in quantity of consumption and quality of output.

The Dixie Queen mine in the Santa Rita Mountains, seven miles from Patagonia, has been surrendered by George D. Elliott of El Paso, and now is undre lease to Ed Collins and Richard Farrell, Jr., who recently returned to the camp from Randsburg. The title of the property is held by William Powers of Harshaw.

The Exposed Reef mine of the Patagonia section has been sold to Wilson, Welty & Co. for $75,000, with a cash payment of one-tenth of that sum. The buyers have unwatered the property and will work it in conjunction with the Red Fox and Blue Eagle mines recently acquired by them.

The old Trench mine near the Big Jim is reported to have been purchased by the Gold Dust Mining Company, a Los Angeles corporation, while the Big Jim Company has taken over the other four claims of the Trench group. It is announced that the two companies will combine in development of the acquired ground.

GREAT BEND TO OPERATE PLANT SOON

New Mill at Gold Road Will Run Seventy Tons Daily at Start

OATMAN (Ariz.) April 17. (Exclusive)—According to an official statement the 800-ton Great Bend milling plant at Gold Road is to be in operation within a few days, handling seventy tons a day at the start. Ore will be taken from the No. 1, shaft and the Line Road tunnel, sampling $13 a ton in gold. About 18,000 tons of $16 ore is reported ready for stoping on the 800 level.

Oatman United has broken into its vein on the 850 level with a showing of five feet of ore within well-defined walls. This ore is of the same character as that developed on the 600 level, though the vein material is softer. Ross Woodward is in charge of operations.

The raise from the 850 level of Western Apex is up about 85 feet and still in $13 ore of very permanent sort. This raise is to connect with the drift on the 700 level, and is being operated from an outside shaft.

Gold Ore is working two shifts a day on its shaft, which is expected to be found in much better condition when the water level is reached at 300 feet. The shaft is well equipped with electric machinery.

MINE AT AJO REPORTS ON OPERATIONS

New Cornelia Manager Submits Data Covering 1926 Activities

AJO (Ariz.) April 17. (Exclusive)—Manager M. Curley of the New Cornelia Mining Company has just submitted his report on the past year's operations. The company mined 4,282,706 tons of ore and waste, of which 2,388,606 tons went to the concentrator and 1,098,774 to the leaching plant. The concentrating ore averaged 1.629 per cent copper and the leaching ore 1.9 per cent.

Copper production included 54,070,190 pounds from concentrate, 17,405,991 in electrolytic copper and 836,202 in cement copper, a total production for the year of 82,312,463 pounds. The concentrator, originally designed for handling 5000 tons a day, has averaged 6441 tons, while the leaching plant, operating at 50 per cent capacity, has handled a daily average of 2942 tons. During the year stockholders received dividends amounting to $1.60 a share, a total of $2,880,000.

Since organization of the company there have been dividends of $10,830,000. Last year dividends amounted to nearly $1,000,000 more than in 1925. The total earnings were $11,722,852, and the net income, after subtraction of depreciation, was $3,714,347. The gross valuation of the property is set at $38,886,216, with over $5,000,000 in liquid assets.

OIL GUSHER FINISHED IN DICHA FIELD

Completion of Mexican Petroleum Reported as 10,000-Barrel Project

TAMPICO (Mex.) April 17.—The Mexican Petroleum Company, the discoverer of oil in Mexico, and the Dicha field, an extension of the Ebano field in which the first strike was made by E. L. Doheny, took the spotlight in Mexican production during last week. The Dicha No. 113 was completed for 10,000 barrels daily, the Dicha 135, for 2000 barrels, the Dicha 133 for 1000 barrels, the Dicha 130 for 1000 barrels, and the Dicha 137 for fifty barrels. All of these wells were drilled by the Mexican Petroleum Company.

The International brought in a 1000-barrel well in Cacalilao, the Mexican Sinclair gat a 1500-barrel well in the same field, and the India Oil Company, a local organization, still is drilling a well which is flowing 1000 barrels daily by heads, but gives promise of considerably larger production when completed.

The International put eight strings of tools to work last week, the Mexican Gulf spudded in several wells in the new Salinas field. The Penn Mex, a Standard subsidiary, shipped 330 tons of pipe to Tuxpam to extend its operations there.

REPORT ON KATHERINE MINES OUT

Study of Mineralization in District is Issued by Walter G. Clark

Walter Gordon Clark, consulting engineer, has issued an interesting report of his inspection of the mineralisation found in the Katherine district in Mojave county, Arizona.

"The values found in the Katherine district," he says, "were originally deposited in the north and south faults and later in the east and west faultings and continued until the lower areas of both were well mineralized.

"It was in this area that mines were first developed, the Frisco mine being an example of an isolated section being lifted to such an elevation that values were exposed above the surrounding territory. This block of ground has been extensively mined and has yielded millions of dollars. It may be likened to a biscuit, which due to expansion in the process of baking, is pushed up.

"The croppings of the Treasure Vault mine indicate that the underground formation is the same as that extending through the Katherine and properties eastward to the vicinity of the old Frisco mine.

"The exploratory work showed satisfactory values and indicated that extensive ore bodies could be blocked out when the Treasure Vault shaft was sunk to sufficient depth to encounter the main mineralization disclosed in the Katherine at the 400-foot level."

MINE ESTATE SOLD

Eagle Picher Lead Takes Over Zeckendorf Property

TUCSON (Ariz.) April 17. (Exclusive)—L. Zeckendorf of New York, a former Tucson merchant, is reported to have sold to the Eagle Picher Lead Company the Montana mine in Oro Blanco district. This property has well developed bodies of lead, zinc and silver ore. The shaft is sunk to about 500 feet and prospecting has been started by diamond drilling.

About thirty men are employed by the Tom Reed Gold Mines Company in the development of the Allison property. It is installing a new mill and a large compressor.

MINE MERGER OUT

W. G. McBride Resigns Position With Old Dominion

GLOBE (Ariz.) April 17. (Exclusive)—Announcement has been made of the resignation of W. G. McBride from the post of general manager of the Dominion Company.

On June 1 he is to become dean of the school of mines of McGill University at Montreal, Can. He is to be succeeded here by L. H. Barkdoll, who has been mine superintendent, a post to be filled by Harry Leidich, now with Phelps Dodge's Morenci branch.

High-Grade Gold Find Reported in Red Cross Mine

DOBBINS, April 17. (Exclusive)—At the Red Cross mine of the Kingman Silver-Gold Mines Company, located about one mile from here, a strong vein of high-grade gold ore has recently been encountered. The vein was cut in the main tunnel, where ore assaying up to $377 per ton was uncovered.

A drift has proved the continuity of the ore for 120 feet and a winze is being sunk upon it to determine its persistence to depth. Where the winze starts the ledge is five feet wide and the first five tons removed assayed $93 a ton. An eight-inch streak of high grade follows the hanging wall and samples $426 a ton.

Electric power has been brought in from the Pacific Gas and Electric Company's substation at Dobbins.

MINE DEAL IN ARIZONA

Goldroad Property Included in Deal for Mohave County Group

One of the big mining combinations of the year, affecting the industry in Mohave county, Arizona, includes the taking over of the Goldroad mine, owned by the United States Mining and Smelting Company, by the Goldfield Great Bend Mining Company, and the Red Top and Winslow mines, adjoining, and the securing of a working interest in the property of the White Hills Silver, Inc., thirty miles north of Chloride.

At the Goldroad mine the 900-ton daily capacity milling plant is being tuned up preparatory to the treatmen of 18,000 tons of $16 ore broken on the 800-foot level of No. 1 shaft, and other large tonnages said to be available in the Line Road tunnel. Above the 800-foot level, it is claimed, 3800,000 in ore is in sight ready for extraction.

BLOWOUT REPORTED AT ADAMANA WELL

HOLBROOK (Ariz.) April 17. (Exclusive)—Another oil and gas blowout is reported from the Adamana well near here. No drilling was under way at the time. Three blowouts occurred within twenty minutes, drenching the derrick and vicinity with oil and mud, it is asserted.

GOLD STRIKE REPORTED IN OLD ESTATE

Ancient Workings Said to be of Spanish Origin Yield Remarkable Ore

NOGALES (Ariz.) April 17. (Exclusive)—Five miles north of Nogales remarkable gold ore recently has been found in the Gold Hill section of the Mt. Benedict district, in an ancient shaft undoubtedly dating back to the Spanish period. In an old drift, back of a balk made of mesquite logs, was found a cache of rich gold ore valued at $50,000.

H. E. Davis, a Patagonia and San Francisco engineer, recently investigated the showings in the old mines. He passed by the rich ore as relatively unimportant, but stated that a fair sampling of the Gold Hill workings gave gold values of from $2 to $4 a ton, associated with from 2 to 12 per cent lead.

Old Dominion Gold Hill mine has been purchased from the Vasquez estate here by R. I. Pyle, a former California State Senator. In a four-foot vein on the 110-level assays ran nearly $130 a ton in gold and nearly as rich ore was cut at material depth in two other veins on the property. Plans are being made for the erection of a fifty-ton mill on this mine.

MINE DEAL REPORTED

Half Interest in Jasper Mining Sold to United Verde

JEROME (Ariz.) April 17. (Exclusive)—Official statement has been made of purchase by the United Verde Extension Mining Company of a half interest in the Jasper Mining Company, which owns 227 acres in Jasper county, Missouri.

The property is reported to have developed, by drilling and underground workings more than 4,000,000 tons of zinc ore. There is suggestion that President James S. Douglas is looking toward the manufacture of brass. The Extension is sinking on some wildcat ground near Bisbee, in a very promising section, and also has acquired a large area of copper-bearing ground in Northeastern Quebec.

OUTCOME OF MILL TRIAL IMPORTANT

Operators of Low-Grade Mines in Kern Greatly Interested in Result

BAKERSFIELD, April 17. (Exclusive)—Cheap milling and profitable production of ore-carrying gold values as low as $5 a ton is in sight for Kern county mining interests in the Rand gold and silver zones of the Mojave Desert, if tests of a $100,000 mill installed at Cactick, four miles from Randsburg, are successful.

Veins of ore that have been abandoned because of low values and blocks of ore that have been untouched because they carried values of $12 a ton or less will be rendered profitable if the new mill is a success, it is said. Mining men look for the mill to replace the old-style stamp mill.

The new mill is installed on the property of the Great Western Mining and Milling Company, known as the Santa Fe mine, and if the period of tests shows the installation to be practical the Santa Fe group will take it over and enlarge it to twice the present size, it is asserted.

This Corporation, organized in 1922, is a consolidation of substantially the entire Royal Dutch-Shell and Union Oil Company of Delaware interests in the Mid-Continent and California fields. Through its subsidiaries it is one of the largest producing, refining and marketing units in the oil industry of the United States with total net production in 1926 of approximately 100,000 barrels per day, or over 35,500,000 barrels for the year. It has refinery capacity of 180,000 barrels of crude petroleum a day with a total intake of over 39,500,000 barrels during the year 1926. Sales in 1926 exceeded $149,000,000.

For the five years since organization such earnings on the same basis averaged over $23,600,000 or approximately 9½ times this requirement.

The proceeds of this issue will be used for the retirement of the outstanding issue of $16,965,400 6% Preferred Stock, Series A, of the Corporation, called for redemption at 110 and accrued dividend on May 15, 1927, for additions to and development of properties, and to further increase working capital.

Scout Cruisers' Naming Offers Difficult Task

WASHINGTON, April 17. (AP)—Awards for the construction of six 10,000-ton scout cruisers have been made by the Navy Department but an even more delicate task remains to be completed by Secretary Wilbur. It has to do with the selection of names for these ships and is complicated by the fact that there are only six and several scores of cities are clamoring to have their names chosen for the cruisers.

Houston, Tex., has started a vigorous campaign to have one of the ships named for it.

URGES FORD'S METHODS

Chinese Educator of Peking Discusses Need of Flowery Kingdom

SAN FRANCISCO, April 17. (Exclusive)—China's greatest need today, said Dr. Hu Shih, noted Peking educator, in an address, is not necessarily a nation of Henry Fords but is without doubt, industrial development along the lines sponsored by the automobile manufacturer.

"Borrowing the ideals of western civilization is, in my opinion, the only salvation for China," said Dr. Hu. "The entire system of the nation is absolutely lacking in practicality. Entirely too much stress is laid upon doing things as they were done twenty centuries ago, merely because they were done that way then. By thus isolating themselves, the Chinese have lost contact with the rest of the world."

Bay City Builder Found Dead With Fractured Skull

SAN FRANCISCO, April 17. (AP)—Etinne A. Garin, 52 years of age, architect and builder, was found dead in bed at his home here today. His skull had been fractured. Police believe he had been slugged and robbed by bandits.

Garin returned home early yesterday morning after having been out all night. He complained of illness, and was put to bed by his children. He had been ill for some time. He fell into a sound sleep late yesterday and apparently died without awakening. The skull fracture was discovered by the autopsy surgeon.

Relatives said Garin usually carried considerable money, and the fact that he returned home with his pockets empty was taken by police to indicate that he had been slugged and robbed. He is survived by three children.

Judge Scores Department of Justice Action

SAN FRANCISCO, Apr.. 17. (AP)—Federal Judge George M. Bourquin directed some pointed remarks at the Department of Justice for its action in ordering U. S. Atty. George Hatfield to file nin indictments in the United States District Court charging violation of the Migratory Bird Act. Five persons were charged with having shot birds between sundown and sunrise.

"Such cases as this merely make a Police Court out of the United States court," said Judge Bourquin. "While we take up time of court and jury trying to decide whether some fellow has put salt on a bird's tail a few minutes before or after sunset other cases of real importance must wait."

Hatfield told the court he was filing the charges upon the direction of the Attorney-General.

HELD WITHOUT BAIL

PRESCOTT (Ariz.) April 17. (Exclusive—Melvin W. Burnett, who voluntarily returned to surrender himself on a 6-year-old charge of murder, has been held without bail for trial. Witnesses appeared at the preliminary hearing to testify that Burnett had ridden down upon his victim, James Brown, a Congress Junction rancher, had shot Brown from his horse and then had fired three more shots into the prostrate form. Brown was declared unarmed at the time, as were half a dozen cattlemen who witnessed the shooting.

MARKET SHOWS CONCENTRATION

Interest Centers in Issues of Recognized Merit

Important Stocks Fall While Leaders Reach Heights

Reports From Key Industries of Encouraging Nature

[Copyright, 1927, by New York Evening Post, Inc.]

NEW YORK, April 17. (Exclusive) On the stock market no new price development of importance was uncovered during the last week and the approach of Good Friday holiday brought no rush either to buy or sell securities. The market continues active but interest is centered in the issues of recognized merit for the most part, and as the strong companies watch their shares rise the weak must be content if their shares maintain an even price level.

As a matter of fact numerous important stocks have been falling in value as the averages weighted with such leaders as General Motors and Steel have crept forward to new record highs. That the advance in prices has brought some further public participation in the market nobody doubts, but cert .nly the public has shown no disposition to take the bit in its teeth and walk away with the market as tradition would have us believe it always does late in a bull movement.

In some respects the size and activity of the present stock market are more apparent than real for reasons that must be plain. Admission of odd-lot transactions has substantially swelled the number of issues daily active and made the stock tables bulge in the newspapers without so much of an increase in general trading as may be suggested. That accounts for the advent of the recent new records in the breadth of the market.

ACTIVITY CONCENTRATED

Concentration of act ity in relatively few of the leaders similarly has swelled the total volume of transactions to a series of 2,000,000-share days and not as a superficial observer might guess increased heavy trading in all sections of the list. This is not to minimize the importance of the movements that have occurred or to ignore the tremendous growth of the market but it does help to understand the character of the present performances.

The arrival of mid-April finds the key industries all working at high speed even if not at record speed. A new high total in building construction for March and the large inquiries for the future reveal a position of strength in this key industry that even the optimist had not reckoned on. Dispatches from the automobile centers indicate that the motor industry has turned much more active and that the prospect for heavy sales has multiplied with the advent of an early spring season. An upturn in building operations and in the motor industry tends to maintain good activity in the steel industry. From the standpoint of agriculture the outlook for immediate and substantial improvement is not so promising as might be desired but of course, at this time of year, it is never possible to forecast the fortunes of the farmer.

BONDS RECOVERING

Not the least interesting development of the time is that in the bond market which in the opinion of authorities gives pretty plain evidence of a return eventually to its prewar yield levels. At an average return of 4.6 per cent, bonds may appear dear when compared with the low level of 1920 when they offered a yield of more than 6 per cent to investors but they must still rise considerably to bring the average return down to around the 4 per cent yield basis that prevailed a quarter of a century ago. The flow of investment funds has increased faster than the supply of gilt-edged obligations, a circumstance that encourages some to believe that the war standards for bond prices have definitely passed.

In the bond market as well as in the stock market it is necessary nowadays to differentiate between the movement of the best and poorest quality issues. The shortage is most marked, of course, in the quality issues for which the largest utility issue for a year this week was quickly oversubscribed when offered on a 4.78 per cent basis. First mortgage bonds of the larger railroads, industrial or public utility companies do not often appear among the new issues and almost invariably are taken at any reasonable price as soon as offered. The rapidly increasing wealth of the country and the government's plan for paying off the national debt and thus releasing funds in enormous volume now invested in Liberty bonds for investment elsewhere are but two of the powerful influences at work in the bond market.

SUSPECT IN DEATH MUST STAND TRIAL

Alienists See No Reason Why Gray Should Escape Hearing With Woman

NEW YORK, April 17. (AP)—Four alienists, two appointed by the State and two by the defense, agreed today that there is no reason why Henry Judd Gray should not go on trial with Mrs. Ruth Snyder before a Queens county jury tomorrow for the murder of Mrs. Snyder's husband, magazine art editor.

While in their report to Dist.-Atty. Newcombe, they do not state that they found Gray sane, they declare that their findings are "harmonious." Gray's attorney, Samuel L. Miller, declared upon learning of the report that the defense will not be based on insanity.

Mrs. Snyder will attempt to shift the whole blame for her husband's murder on the narrow shoulders of Gray, in private life a corset salesman. In a statement to the public in which she asked the people at large, particularly wives and mothers, to withhold judgment until the jury has spoken, Mrs. Snyder denounced Gray and called him names.

With 200 talesmen summoned to report at Long Island City tomorrow, the task of selecting twelve was not regarded as easy.

Snyder was found dead in bed March 20 by neighbors who answered the daughter's call for help. Mrs. Snyder was discovered bound and gagged in an adjoining room. Gray, arrested in Syracuse, offered an alibi which failed to stand the pressure of investigation.

"Times" Daily Short Story

THE ROBE OF PEACE

By O. HENRY

MYSTERIES follow one another so closely in a great city that the reading public and the friends of Johnny Bellchambers have ceased to marvel at his sudden and unexplained disappearance nearly a year ago. This particular mystery has now been cleared up, but the solution is so strange and incredible to the mind of the average man that only a select few who were in close touch with Bellchambers will give it full credence.

Johnny Bellchambers, as is well known, belonged to the intrinsically inner circle of the elite. Without any of the ostentation of the fashionable ones who endeavor to attract notice by eccentric display of wealth and show he still was au fait in everything that gave deserved lustre to his high position in the ranks of society.

Especially did he shine in the matter of dress. In this he was the despair of imitators. Always correct, exquisitely groomed, and possessed of an unlimited wardrobe, he was conceded to be the best-dressed man in New York, and, therefore, in America. There was not a tailor in Gotham who would not have deemed it a precious boon to have been granted the privilege of making Bellchambers's clothes without a cent of pay. As he wore them, they would have been a priceless advertisement. Trousers were his especial passion. Here nothing but perfection would be noticed. He would have worn a patch as quickly as he would have overlooked a wrinkle. He kept a man in his apartments always busy pressing his ample supply. His friends said that three hours was the limit of time that he would wear these garments without exchanging.

"Glad to see you, old man," said Eyres, somewhat awkwardly. "Wasn't expecting to find you up here."

Bellchambers disappeared very suddenly. For three days his absence brought no alarm to his friends, and then they began to operate the usual methods of inquiry. All of them failed. He had left absolutely no trace behind. Then the search for a motive was instituted, but none was found. He had no enemies, he had no debts, there was no woman. There were several thousand dollars in his bank to his credit. He had never showed any tendency toward mental eccentricity; in fact, he was of a particularly calm and well-balanced temperament. Every means of tracing the vanished man was made use of, but without avail. It was one of those cases—more numerous in late years—where men seem to have gone out like the flame of a candle, leaving not even a trail of smoke as a witness.

In May, Tom Eyres and Lancelot Gilliam, two of Bellchambers's old friends, went for a little run on the other side. While pottering around in Italy and Switzerland, they happened, one day, to hear of a monastery in the Swiss Alps that promised something outside of the ordinary tourist-beguiling attractions. The monastery was almost inaccessible to the average sight-seer, being on an extremely rugged and precipitous spur of the mountains. The attractions it possessed but did not advertise were first, an exclusive and divine cordial made by the monks that was said to far surpass benedictine and chartreuse. Next a huge brass bell so purely and accurately cast that it had not ceased sounding since it was first rung three hundred years ago. Finally, it was asserted that no Englishman had ever set foot within its walls. Eyres and Gilliam decided that these three reports called for investigation.

It took them two days with the aid of two guides to reach the monastery of St. Gondrau. It stood upon a frozen, wind-swept crag with the snow piled about it in treacherous, drifting masses. They were hospitably received by the brothers whose duty it was to entertain the infrequent guest. They drank of the precious cordial, finding it rarely potent and reviving. They listened to the great, ever-echoing bell and learned that they were pioneer travelers, in those gray stone walls, over the Englishman whose restless feet have trodden nearly every corner of the earth.

At three o'clock on the afternoon they arrived, the two young Gothamites stood with good Brother Cristofer in the great, cold hallway of the monastery to watch the monks march past on their way to the refectory. They came slowly, pacing by twos, with their heads bowed, treading noiselessly with sandaled feet upon the rough stone flags. As the procession slowly filed past, Eyres suddenly gripped Gilliam by the arm. "Look," he whispered, eagerly, "at the one just opposite you now—the one on this side, with his hand at his waist—if that isn't Johnny Bellchambers then I never saw him!"

Gilliam saw and recognized the lost glass of fashion.

"What the deuce," said he, wonderingly, "is old Bell doing here? Tommy, it surely can't be he! Never heard of Bell having a turn for the religious. Fact is I've heard him say things when a four-in-hand didn't tie up just right that would bring him up for court-martial before any church."

"It's Bell, without a doubt," said Eyres, firmly, "or I'm pretty badly in need of an oculist. But think of Jonny Bellchambers, the Royal High Chancellor of swell togs and the Mahatma of pink teas up here in cold storage doing penance in a snuff-colored bathrobe! I can't get it straight in my mind. Let's ask the jolly old boy that's doing the honors."

Brother Cristofer was appealed to for information. By that time the monks had passed into the refectory. He could not tell to which one they referred. Bellchambers? Ah, the brothers of St. Gondrau abandoned their worldly names when they took the vows. Did the gentlemen wish to speak with one of the brothers? If they would come to the refectory and indicate the one they wished to see, the reverend abbot in authority would, doubtless, permit it.

Eyres and Gilliam went into the dining hall and pointed out to Brother Cristofer the man they had seen. Yes, it was Johnny Bellchambers. They saw his face plainly now, as he sat among the dingy brothers, never looking up, eating broth from a coarse, brown bowl.

Permission to speak to one of the brothers was granted to the two travelers by the abbot, and they waited in a reception room for him to come. When he did come, treading softly in his sandals, both Eyres and Gilliam looked at him in perplexity and astonishment. It was Johnny Bellchambers, but he had a different look. Upon his smooth-shaven face was an expression of ineffable peace, of rapturous attainment, of perfect and complete happiness. His form was proudly erect, his eyes shone with a serene and gracious light. He was as neat and well-groomed as in the old New York days, but how differently he was clad! Now he seemed clothed in but a single garment—a long robe of rough brown cloth, gathered by a cord at the waist, and falling in straight, loose folds nearly to his feet. He shook hands with his visitors with his old ease and grace of manner. If there was any embarrassment in that meeting it was not manifested by Johnny Bellchambers. The room had no seats; they stood to converse.

"Glad to see you, old man," said Eyres, somewhat awkwardly. "Wasn't expecting to find you up here. Not a bad idea, though, after all. Society's an awful sham. Must be a relief to shake the giddy whirl and retire to —er—contemplation and—er—prayer and hymns, and those things."

"Oh, cut that, Tommy," said Bellchambers, cheerfully. "Don't be afraid that I'll pass around the plate. I go through these thing-um-bobs with the rest of these old boys because they are the rules. I'm Brother Ambrose here, you know. I'm given just ten minutes to talk to you fellows. That's rather a new design in waistcoats you have on, isn't it, Gilliam? Are they wearing those things on Broadway now?"

"It's the same old Johnny," said Gilliam, joyfully. "What the devil—I mean why—Oh, confound it! what did you do it for, old man?"

"Peel the bathrobe," pleaded Eyres, almost tearfully, "and go back with us. The old crowd'll go wild to see you. This isn't in your line, Bell. I know half a dozen girls that wore the willow on the quiet when you shook us in that unaccountable way. Hand in your resignation, or get a dispensation, or whatever you have to do to get a release from this low factory. You'll get catarrh here, Johnny—and —My God! you haven't any socks on!"

Bellchambers looked down at his sandaled feet and smiled.

"You fellows don't understand," he said, soothingly. "It's nice of you to want me to go back, but the old life will never know me again. I have reached here the goal of all my ambitions. I am entirely happy and contented. Here I shall remain for the remainder of my days. You see this robe that I wear?" Bellchambers caressingly touched the straight-hanging garment: "At last I have found something that will not bag at the knees. I have attained—"

At that moment the deep boom of the great brass bell reverberated through the monastery. It must have been a summons to immediate devotions, for Brother Ambrose bowed his head, turned and left the chamber without another word. A slight wave of his hand as he passed through the stone doorway seemed to say a farewell to his old friends. They left the monastery without seeing him again.

And this is the story that Tommy Eyres and Lancelot Gilliam brought back with them from their latest European tour.

Victor Beveridge of England recently stopped his 10,000-mile automobile trip to marry in London Countess Julieta Fera de Cerrini, and the two took up the tour as their honeymoon.

TRIO CAUGHT BY BLIZZARD HIGH IN SKY

Undersheriff Biscailuz and Companions Tell of Facing Death in Plane

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, April 17.—How an airplane journey to attend a funeral endangered three lives was related today by Undersheriff Biscailuz. The officer returned home bearing the marks of exposure suffered in a battle with a blizzard 8000 feet above the Imperial Valley.

Biscailuz, who is Exalted Ruler of the Santa Monica Elks' Lodge, obtained the Sheriff's office plane in order to reach El Centro yesterday in time to attend the funeral of J. C. Hemingway, one of the founders of the Santa Monica lodge, who died in Holtville last Thursday. The flight was made by Biscailuz, Deputy Sheriff Tom Dunne and Lee Wiley, the plane pilot.

Returning, the plane encountered a terrific desert storm. Trying to soar above the storm, the plane met with freezing cold, and a hurricane of hail and rain at 8000 feet. The plane then descended in the darkness, landing in a field.

The occupants were preparing to greet the driver of an approaching automobile when the motorist covered them with a revolver. The motorist was George Williams of the Los Angeles police hobbery squad, who believed the flyers to be on a criminal mission.

Williams drove the flyers, who were suffering from cold and exposure, to Cabazon, near Banning, where they obtained shelter and relief. Biscailuz's party returned home by stage.

KHJ STUDIO TO LAUNCH INNOVATION

Special Program Will Be Put on Wednesdays Just for School Pupils

KHJ will undertake a new departure in radio broadcast next Wednesday at 1 p.m. when a special program lasting forty-five minutes will be launched for the entire personnel of the Forty-ninth-street school.

"We have a fine radio receiving set, but never get to use it except when the President of the United States broadcasts. Won't you please put on a program for us," wrote the children of the school.

"Yes, we will do it. What do you want?" answered KHJ

"Give us, please, a quartet, a detective story, some music, James W. Foley and some educational matter," they answered in a stack of letters written by the individual pupils.

"The procedure is approved; go ahead," said Susan M. Dorsey, superintendent of public schools.

Here is the program to be broadcast Wednesday at 1 p.m.:

(1.) Orpheus Four opening fifteen minutes of harmony with "School Day" and "Old Farmer Slow."

(2.) James W. Foley in fifteen minutes of smiles.

(4.) Nick Harris—"An Eye Popping Detective Story."

(5.) Dick Winslow, Patriotic marimbalogue.

6.) Community sing, "My Country 'Tis of Thee," led by the Orpheus Four.

The departure has possibilities for the development of a splendid educational feature in connection with public school procedure and if successful may become a permanent feature of KHJ each Wednesday. Tune in.

GIRLS KILLED IN PLUNGE OF CAR

Angelenos Crushed When Auto Goes Off Road

Third Young Woman and Driver Reported Dying

Machine Drops 200 Feet in Mountain District

SAN BERNARDINO, April 17. (Exclusive)—Two Los Angeles girls were crushed to death and another young woman and a man were probably fatally injured when a small coupe in which they were riding plunged from the roadway in the mountains ten miles north of here last night and rolled 200 feet down the mountainside.

The dead are:

Merrill Baxter, 3713 East Fifth street, Los Angeles.

Helen Lampey, a nurse at the California Lutheran Hospital, Los Angeles.

The injured are:

Pearl Udlock, 1822 West Fifty-ninth street, Los Angeles, probable skull fracture and internal injuries, and W. T. Hicks, 315 Hobart Boulevard, driver of the car, probable skull fracture and internal injuries. Both are at the Ramona Hospital in San Bernardino.

Sunday motorists passing on the mountain grade, known as the "switchbacks," were horrified when they saw the light coupe bearing the four passengers suddenly swerve from the road and plunge over the mountainside, landing on the roadway 200 feet below. The party was believed to have been returning to Los Angeles from an Easter outing at Arrowhead Lake.

Deputy Coroner Waters took charge of the investigation and ordered the dead taken to the Shaw mortuary, San Bernardino. The car was destroyed.

AUTOIST HELD AS RESULT OF CRASH

Richard H. Christie, 6840 Odin street, was arrested yesterday after one of a series of Easter accidents, which caused one death and several injuries, police reported. Christie was charged with failure to stop and render aid after an accident in which Miss Marie Bowman, a film actress riding in the car driven by him, was badly cut on the face and suffered other injuries.

The automobile driven by Christie, according to the report of Hollywood police, crashed into the rear of a street car at Hollywood Boulevard and Hudson street.

Miss Bowman, who is 23 years of age and lives at 6324 Yucca street, was hurled through the windshield, it was said. According to the report of Detectives Lieutenants McCurdy and McGarry of the Hollywood station, Christie started to run from the scene of the accident, and was overtaken by a witness of the accident, F. A. Pelley of 1469 West Washington street. Ray Hallor of 1611 North Hudson street, was in the automobile with Christie and Miss Bowman, according to the report.

GIN ASSERTED FOUND

Hollywood police said a bottle of gin was found in the automobile between seat cushions. Christie, it was said, was examined for sobriety at the Receiving Hospital, and no evidence of his having been drinking was found.

Miss Bowman was taken to the Dickey & Cass Hospital. It was stated she was badly cut by glass on the face and body, and suffered a possible concussion of the brain and possible internal injuries. She was later removed to the Sylvan Lodge Hospital.

Christie is 27 years of age and lives at 6840 Odin street.

Mrs. Antonia Contreras, 70, of 2851 Dobinson street, was killed almost instantly by an automobile at Thirty-ninth and Figueroa streets while on her way to sunrise services, police reported. Later Russell Benedict of 1212 West Eighty-fifth street surrendered at the station, telling Detective Lieutenants Cullen and Shannon that he stopped after the accident, was told nobody was hurt and went on.

STORY CONFIRMED

Two passengers in Benedict's car, Mrs. Vada Massengill of 1122 East Sixty-ninth street, and S. Bergman, 1505 West Fifty-fifth street, confirmed Benedict's story, police said.

S. G. McMasters of 1413 West Thirty-seventh Place, suffered a probable fracture of the skull when he was struck by an automobile driven by Russell Smith, 509 North Kenmore street, on East Second street near Alameda street, police reported last night. McMasters was treated by Po-

PLANS FOR ALHAMBRA AVENUE UP

Council Directs Engineer to Prepare Specifications for Development

Following the presentation of a petition from property owners, the City Council has ordered the City Engineer to prepare plans for the paving of Alhambra avenue from Mission Road to the east city limits, and Valley Boulevard from the Southern Pacific cross-over to the city limits.

Under the Major Traffic Street Plan Alhambra avenue should be an eight-line thoroughfare from Mission Road to the city of Alhambra. The proposed plans call for the setting back of the curb and the establishment of a seventy-foot roadway the entire distance.

The entire project is considered of unusual importance in view of the fact that Alhambra avenue and its Valley Boulevard extension is the heaviest traveled highway from Los Angeles to San Bernardino and intermediate points. The City Engineering Department estimates that it will take about eighteen months to complete the plans, pass the necessary ordinances and construct the new pavement.

City Clerk Begins Mailing Samples for May Election to 463,057 Electors

City Clerk Domingues will begin mailing sample ballots today for the May election, sending out a total of 463,057. In the city proper he will mail 401,432 ballots, 12,599 will be sent to recently annexed areas and 49,026 will be sent to outside school districts where the voting will be for Board of Education members only.

There will be 1462 polling places, 1384 in the city and 78 in outside school districts. GREET DAWN ON RUBIDOUX

Host of 20,000 Raise Voices in Easter Sunrise Service on Sacred Mount

RIVERSIDE, April 17. (Exclusive)—The sun that sank behind angry rain squalls last night arose in glory today, and the snow-capped peaks of the mountains were tinted in gold, 20,000 voices from Mt Rubidoux arose in triumph to greet Easter Day. The sacred mount seemed at early dawn a huge magnet, drawing an ever-growing dark mass to its crest while feeding it were converging traffic streams from the city.

Since midnight Boy Scouts and police had been taxed to the limit to guide the great crowds that poured toward Mt. Rubidoux in autos and on foot, every avenue leading to the hill was jammed with autos and every trail leading to the crest was alive with the upward movement. It was on Mt. Rubidoux many years ago that Dr. Henry Van Dyke read his poem, "God of the Open Air," inspired with the majesty of the Southland and the spirit of Rubidoux. This morning the famous author was present to read the poem that has become an integral part of the annual service. The benediction, too, was given by Van Dyke, as dismissal for the largest throng that has ever mounted to the cross for the Easter service. A fanfare of trumpets announced the coming of day with the playing of the march from "Aida," and as the sun lifted itself over the surrounding mountains a brass quartet was heard in the strains of "The Holy City." The people then triumphantly sang "In The Cross Christ I Glory," as the entire hill and its clinging multitude were bathed in the rays of the morning sun.

At the summit the simple ritual pledged the thousands there to the high purposes of the risen Christ. Anthems sung by the people included "Lovely Appear Over the Mountains" and "Unfold Ye Portals Everlasting," by Miss Elsie Youngren, soprano soloist, supported by the Riverside Easter chorus and led by Arthur Bostick.

Since midnight the chimes were

EASTER SUN WELCOMED WITH PAEANS OF PRAISE

Natural Temples Filled With Joyous Multitudes Acknowledging Resurrection

BY JAMES M. WARNACK

Hundreds of thousands of lovers of the gentle Nazarene gathered yesterday at dawn at scores of Southern California's matchless natural temples to celebrate the anniversary of the resurrection of the Prince of Peace.

The number of devotees who thronged to their favorite scenes of worship on hilltops, in floral vales and by the seaside, would be difficult to estimate—and, besides, it is not the important factor of the praiseful event. It is enough to know that thousands of hearts were gladdened at the coming of the dawn. It is enough to have been one among those happy throngs, to have heard the trumpeters greet the rising sun, to have listened to the excellent musical programs by noted artists and the vital messages by prominent ministers and to have joined in singing the hymns so dear to all believers' hearts.

Never dawned an Easter Day more gloriously. It was as if the darkness were keeping tryst with light, for hardly had the westering moon smiled good-by to the night when the symbol of "the day spring from on high" leaped through the gates of Aurora to bless the waiting world.

Throngs of worshipers began to file through the south and west gates of the Coliseum at 4 a.m., as the thrilling tones from a great organ played by Dr. Ray Hastings, began to pour out from those cornucopias of melody arranged to transmit the treasures of the ether. By 5 a.m. nearly 50,000 persons had gathered. At 5:30 a.m. buglers from Roberts Golden State Band announced the coming of the lord of day and, as the children of the sun came trooping through the archways of the peristile, the brightly dressed audience resembled a vast hillside flower garden.

THRONG SINGS PRAISE

Following invocation by Rev. A. A. Hunter and a selection by the Orpheus Four, this flower garden became animate and articulate, and under leadership of J. Arthur Lewis, 50,000 devotees rose to sing "Holy, Holy, Holy." And the sea gulls, circling the great stadium, joined in the song. Catching the vibrations of the hymn and the orange rays of the sun, "Old Glory," crowning the peristile, seemed to become more glorious, while the giant sycamores, peeping over the rim to the south and west, glistened in the light and "clasped their hands for joy."

One of the features of the program was the selections by the Philharmonic Orchestra, with Emil Oberhoffer conducting, and vociferous applause greeted the rendition of each number. The entire program was broadcast by the Orange network, western unit of the national broadcast chain. Among the millions who listened in to every word and tone, from the first organ number to benediction by Dr. N. J. Eliot, were Mr. and Mrs. Zack C. Farmer, parents of Zack Farmer, general manager of the program, who lives in the Nevada mountains, sixty miles from the nearest town and twenty miles from their nearest neighbor.

The speaker of the morning was Dr. James A. B. Scherer, director of the Southwest Museum, who voiced an optimistic note in regard to humanity's future. Declaring that the great war forced men to think, Dr. Scherer said that today great masses of men are reading philosophy and that humanity is beginning to act in accordance with constructive, kindly thinking.

Pointing to the progress in the elimination of race prejudice, the speaker said that "if a big war does grow out of the Chinese trouble, it will not be a conflict between yellow and white races, but a conflict of principles and systems." As one evidence of the truth of this statement, Dr. Scherer said that "Japan has not seized the 'psychological

by Harry Carr

WHEN a lot of people without education or background suddenly get a lot of money—the result is a wholesale display of vulgarity.

If one could lock up our newly rich somewhere until they had time to mellow, America would not be the most hated nation in the world.

HAMMERS OUT!

It is a self-corrective malady, however. Nowhere do you see such savage rebukes administered to American vulgarity as from other Americans.

If the French or the Italians or the English said what Americans say about Americans there would be another war.

For instance I have just received a letter from Florence Lowe Barnes, who is traveling in South America.

GOOD MANNERS

"We landed in Buenos Aires right when their big carnival was on. Buenos Aires has over 2,000,000 people and they all turned out in fancy dress.

"The streets were hung with colored lights and crowded with automobiles which were full of people, all throwing serpentines. Sometimes the streets would be blocked with colored paper.

"And what seems almost impossible to us, with this great crowd, the streets were almost silent—no loud tooting of automobile horns.

"And more extraordinary still, I did not see any people drunk—except my American friends from the ship.

"The Argentinians were happy just to bow and smile and mildly flirt; and throw their colored serpentines. There was not even much music and it was soft."

PATROL WAGONS

If the festival that Mr. Barnes describes had happened in any American city of 2,000,000 people, most of the carnival would have consisted of the merry clang of the patrol wagons picking up the drunks.

EMPTY SKULL ECHOES

I don't know why an American crowd cannot enjoy life without making noises.

It seems to be an axiom of psychology, however, that the desire to make unnecessary noises is the sure certain sign of a subnormal intellect.

STAGE DUELS

During all the years I have been seeing motion pictures, I have seen a million sword duels; and just exactly two that were convincing. Oddly enough Ramon Novarro was in both of them.

Douglas Fairbanks's duels are good fun and good fencing, but you never for a moment believe anybody is due to be hurt.

In his new play, "Lovers," the director, John Stahl, gives great reality to Ramon's sword fight by not going too fast. He gives to each thrust the thrill of death. Each parry is an escape.

In one previous picture Rex Ingram put peril into one of Ramon's duels by the simple device of putting antiseptic on the swords. You knew they were going to run through human flesh.

AN OLD BOOK

There are some delightful old books in the public library. I have one written by an army officer in 1854.

He tells in elaborate detail just what to do when Indians approach.

Raise the right hand full height and wave it forward and back like a fan; then, if they stop, wave it left and right—still at full length. This means: "Who are you?"

If they don't stop, on signal, run for the nearest trees.

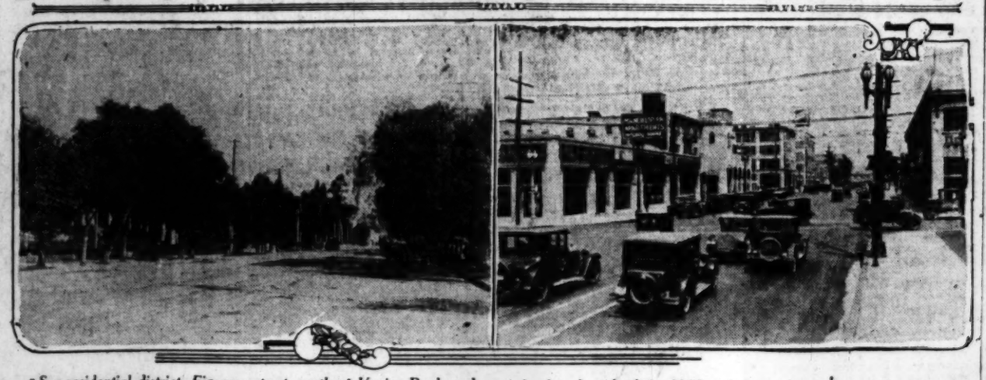
Yesterday!—The ROMANCE of LOS ANGELES—Today!



AS a residential district, Figueroa street, north of Venice Boulevard, was hard to beat back in 1909. It was quiet and shaded. Spreading trees lined the walks and transportation facilities were right at hand in the form of occasional street cars. As for automobiles, the appearance of one was usually sufficient to make even the most gentlemanly horse go into spasms. Now, on the same street, the appearance of a horse is sufficient to evoke a gasp from almost any motorist in this paradise of the "bigger and better" in the way of transportation. It is just another instance of the unprecedented progress of the city. (Photographs through the courtesy of the Security Trust and Savings Bank.)

SUSPECT SHOT IN BANDIT WAR

Police Carry Out Order to Shoot First

Five Men and Two Women Held in Drive

Quintet May Face County Grand Jury Today

The drastic order of Chief Davis to "shoot first and talk later" in the police drive against bank bandits went into literal effect early yesterday morning when Paul E Knapp, 29 years of age, fell with a bullet in his right shoulder. The bullet, which proved such a persuasive argument that Knapp gave up an asserted attempt to "shoot it out with the police" was fired by Detective Lieutenant Hull.

Hull and his partner, Detective Lieutenant Gerhardt, were two of several details of detectives placed "on stake" to watch for suspects. Their stake was in a barn a short distance from the Sheridan Apartments at Valencia and Wilshire Boulevard. Shortly after midnight, the detectives reported they saw Knapp leave the apartment-house by a side door. He was one of the suspects they were staked to watch for, they said.

WHIPS OUT GUN

As Gerhardt watched from one side of the barn Hull stepped out with his revolver in his hand.

"Halt," he cried. "I am a police officer."

For reply, Hull stated, Knapp whipped a revolver from inside his coat and leveled it at him. The next instant the gun dropped from the suspect's hand as a bullet from the detective's revolver struck him in the shoulder.

Knapp was quickly taken into custody. After his wound was given emergency treatment at the Receiving Hospital he was removed to the prison ward of the General Hospital where he was booked on suspicion of robbery, and as a fugitive. According to the detectives he answers the description of one of the members of two gangs of bandits who have been responsible for eleven recent bank robberies. He is also wanted in Seattle for jumping bail, and in Portland, Or., for violation of the Mann Act, the detectives stated. His wound was not serious, it was said.

ANOTHER SEINED

Shortly after the shooting of Knapp the same detectives trailed Samuel G. "Peanuts" Linton from the "stake" at Valencia street and Wilshire Boulevard to Wilshire and Santa Monica boulevards where they overtook him and placed him under arrest as a suspected bank bandit.

With the arrests of Knapp and Linton the police had in custody late yesterday five men and two women as suspected members of the bank-bandit gangs. While squads of detectives working under Captains of Detectives Smith, Barr and Williams, continued their search for Jack Williams another man by the name of Miller, and a third suspect known as "Whitey" whose pictures, the police declare, have all been identified by bank-robbery victims, plans were being completed to take the first five suspects arrested directly before the county grand jury today.

Indictments will be asked for the following suspects: Joe Wysong, 28 years of age, who, according to the police has confessed his complicity with at least two of the recent robberies; Mrs. Lois Wysong (Evaits,) 26; Edwin Waterman, 26; Monte L. Fullerton, 30, and Mrs. Beatrice Williams, 32, asserted wife of Jack Williams, who is still at large.

MONEY IN WRAPPERS

Wysong, "Mrs." Wysong, and Waterman were arrested at 5503 Monroe street early last week with $1700, believed to be their share of two bank robberies, in their possession. A quantity of this money was contained in money wrappers identified as having come from the Citizens' Trust and Savings Bank at 4117 West Pico street, and the Bank of West Hollywood at 6153 Santa Monica Boulevard, which were held up on the 11th inst. The bandits obtained a total of $6000. Following Wysong's asserted confession, Mrs. Williams was arrested. Concealed in her apartment at Glendale and Sunset Boulevards were $650 in $1 bills, the detectives reported.

The round-up of the suspected bank bandits, which has caused Chief Davis to deny all days off to detectives and patrolmen and to organize hastily, half a dozen special robbery squads, began the 11th inst., when Detective Lieutenants Malina and Taylor traced a license number used in the robberies last Monday to the home of Wysong on Monroe street.

DISMISSED FROM SEATTLE POLICE FORCE

SEATTLE, April 17. (Ap)—Paul F. Knapp, who was shot in Los Angeles today as a robber suspect, was a member of the Seattle police department from 1919 to 1923, when he was dismissed.

Knapp was arrested here in 1924 on a charge of attacking a woman. While awaiting trial he fled and has since been sought by police.

Records here show that he was arrested in Portland in 1925 on a Mann Act charge and on a charge of impersonating a Federal officer and was sentenced to fifteen months in the McNeil Island Federal penitentiary.

Knapp's dismissal from the Seattle police department was on charges of being absent without leave, refusal to obey orders, and for participation in a liquor hi-jacking expedition.

MOTHER NATURE HAS RIVAL

Students Create Lifelike Flowers

Mme. La Fleur and Some Samples

FLOWERS fashioned so true to nature that it is difficult to easily distinguish the artificial from the real, are being made at the Frank Wiggins Vocational School.

Mme. La Fleur, instructor in floral art, has her students devote much of their time to the study of natural flowers before attempt to copy them.

Close attention is given to each minute detail of a flower's makeup, and often the petals are made with the aid of a magnifying glass. Every variety of bloom, shade and tinting is reproduced faithfully by the students, Mme. La Fleur said.

Floral art classes are conducted Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings in the school.

Miss Turner to Resume Stand in Will Suit Today

A storm session in the suit to break the will of Frank E. Domingues is expected in Superior Judge Keefe's court today when Miss Edna Turner, who was the late attorney's secretary, takes the stand and continues her testimony.

Miss Turner is one of the principal beneficiaries under the Domingues will, receiving half of the $165,000 estate. The contest was brought by Arthur Domingues, a brother.

When court adjourned Friday evening Miss Turner had just finished relating a quarrel in the Domingues family precipitated by rumors that she and her mother were keeping Frank Dominguez prisoner in his own home. Miss Turner also told of having received many gifts from her employer during the twelve years she served him.

A clash between defense and plaintiff sympathizers at one time threatened to throw the court into an uproar. Judge Kestch reprimanded two women who were whispering and ridiculing the witness.

SHERIFF TO HELP DANCE FOR CHARITY

Traeger Asks Officers of State to Ball Given by Eastern Star Members

Sheriffs' stars will shine with Eastern Stars at the charity ball of the fraternal organization this coming Saturday night in the Shine auditorium, if plans of Sheriff William I. Traeger are carried out.

Invitations to Sheriffs in every county in the State and to near-by counties in Arizona and Nevada, asking them to bring their wives and families to the festivity have been sent by Traeger, who is secretary-treasurer of the Southern California Patrons' Association of the Eastern Star.

With Ted T. Spurgeon of Los Angeles and Clarence M. Redmon of Redondo, the other members of the general supervising committee, for the Patrons' Association sponsoring the ball, Sheriff Traeger is spending all his off-duty hours in making preparations for the affair.

Theatrical producers and managers are coming forward to volunteer to place the brightest talent of the stage and screen at the disposal of the committee for the program, to be featured between the dances at the ball.

Eastern Star members in the 119 chapters, embracing every community center in Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties, are completing their organizations to sell tickets to the ball, and are assisting the general committee in obtaining the best talent available in their respective sections to take part in the entertainment.

Children's Stage Career Failure, Mother Asserts

How a professional career behind the footlights went astray through asserted failure of proper instruction and an asserted breach of contract regarding two juvenile actors was detailed in a civil action centering about Stella and Wray Essex, 12 and 14 years of age, respectively, before Municipal Judge Hardy.

The action, brought by the mother, was filed against Robert Major, head of the Major School of Acting, 1936 Wilshire Boulevard, and seeks to recover $985 the mother claims to have paid the tutor, together with costs and attorney fees.

According to Minor Moore and Kurtz Kauffman, attorneys for the plaintiff, Major accepted the two Essex children for training for the stage. The plaintiff contends he also signed a contract agreeing to write a skit, train the children for work in it and obtain them lucrative vaudeville bookings.

But the defendant failed, Mrs. Essex charged, either to properly train the children or obtain them bookings. One try-out in a suburban theater, which proved a failure, was their only appearance, she said.

Major, in defense, charges that he was unable to complete their training as the children quit coming for lessons. He likewise counter-charges breach of contract on the ground there is still due him $150 on the contract to obtain bookings in the skin for the children.

Judge Hardy continued the case until the 21st inst., for further testimony from the litigants.

Dr. Baer Starts on Trip to Aid Church Pension

"Laymen who value the place of their church in the community will make this campaign for a living retirement allowance succeed," Dr. John Willis Baer, Pasadena banker, said last night as he started out on a 2500-mile tour of the Pacific Coast.

As Will H. Hays's nominee, he is western chairman of the service pension campaign for the Presbyterian Laymen's Committee. His appearance, with that of Dr. William Oxley Thompson, moderator of the general assembly, in a number of the large key cities as far north as Seattle will mark the round-up stage of the campaign.

They are timed to speak at rallies in Seattle on the 21st inst., Portland on the 22nd inst. and the San Francisco district on the 24th and 25th inst.

The campaign in Los Angeles will open with a rally dinner meeting at the Chamber of Commerce on Thursday night at 6:30, when Capt. Robert Dollar, veteran steamship owner of San Francisco and a heavy contributor to the expenses of the campaign in the West, will be the principal speaker. Jed W. Burns, chairman of the campaign in the Los Angeles presbytery, will preside.

Preference for Blonds Fails to Last Long

Bert Danielson, at one time, preferred blonds, adding this leaning to his other qualifications for the estate of a gentleman.

Then he married one, and found out how attractive a brunette might be, as the tale was told by the blond in the case herself in Judge Summerfield's court.

The blond was Signa M. Danielson, whose sister is another blond, none other than Sigrid Holmquist of the films. Signa Danielson was trained for the ballet, her attorney, George Damon, explained to the court.

It was at the Royal Ballet School in Stockholm that she met Danielson, who was dancing there, too. A rapid courtship was followed by a wedding and a world tour. At Chicago the brunette came into the picture, Mrs. Danielson said.

"We were dancing in the opera-house there, and this other woman, a Senorita Something-or-Other, with black eyes, black hair and a sinuous style, stole him from me. He told me he was tired of my blond hair and loved the Spanish girl. He left me," the plaintiff testified.

Judge Summerfield gallantly expressed his surprise at Danielson's conduct.

"The longer I sit on this bench the more I wonder what kind of wives men want," he declared, as he granted Mrs. Danielson a divorce.

The accident record of twenty-five women taxi drivers employed by a Philadelphia cab company is much lower than that of the men drivers of the organization.

NINE TAKEN IN RUM RAIDS

Liquor Finds at Beverly Hills Bottling Plant and Elsewhere Reported by Contreras Squad

A large bottling plant, eleven cases of whisky and 500 cases of gin, the latter unlabeled, were uncovered at 403 Rodeo Drive, Beverly Hills, in the week-end operations of officers under George Contreras, chief enforcement officer for the District Attorney, his report said yesterday. The officers arrested at the plant Al Corkery, alias Albert Lawrence, and Theda Ryan, according to the report. A block away Don Reed was arrested with an automobile containing a quantity of whisky, the report further set forth.

Raids near Compton resulted in the arrest of Howard Artwick, Frank Pouquette, J. M. Rodriguez and Robert Altamirano, on various Wright Act charges From Pouquette and Altamirano automobiles were taken. Altamirano, according to the officers, said he had to resort to bootlegging to support his wife and seven children, one of whom is a baby in arms, one blind, one deaf, and one crippled. The case was referred to the county charities for investigation.

At Whittier the officers arrested Ransom Clayton and V. K. Head on selling charges.

Red Lanterns Light Way of Pair to Court

If a brilliant Southern California moon had, been shining, or if the street they were having difficulty in traversing had been better lighted, they would never have appeared before Municipal Judge Richardson to answer to petty-larceny charges, Miguel Casillas and Jesus Contrador, self-admitted musicians, declared.

But the moon wasn't shining, the street was dark and their eyes were somewhat clouded with the happy mist of many convivial "good healths" they had drunk at a wedding, where they had appeared to launch the happy bridal pair upon their way to the strains of guitar and saxophone, they told Judge Richardson.

Then just as the street seemed to be swallowed up in a wall of Stygian darkness, they espied two brightly shining spots of light before them, they recounted. True, the spots of light were red, but what mattered that? The spots were light and light was something they needed badly to guide their hesitating footsteps.

"That's right, Your Honor," said Deputy City Prosecutor Chotiner, "Officers Elliston and Lide arrested them a short distance away on complaint of the night watchman for the grading company. Each man had a red lantern and they were vocally celebrating their having emerged from the darkness."

"It seems that a red light has always signified danger," said Judge Richardson, "and it is true in this case. The red lanterns certainly signified 'Thou must not steal,' but they heeded not so they must be punished."

When the owners of the lanterns signified that slight punishment was sufficient, Judge Richardson fined each defendant $20 or twenty days.

It will be of reinforced concrete faced with brick and terra cotta, to harmonize with the buildings planned for the new campus.

Bids on two buildings now being planned will be called for in the near future. The library building is being designed by Kelham and the auditorium and classroom building is in the hands of Allison & Allison, Los Angeles. The cost of these two structures will approximate $3,000,000.

WHEN you use a garden hose and it kinks you are annoyed. The water is shut off and you have to follow back the line of hose until you come to the kink and take it out.

You Would Be Much More Annoyed

if you could look through the wall of the hose and examine the water channel. Every kink tends to make a surface break—a fissure which is a possible source of future trouble; the break becomes a crack allowing water to seep into the fabric wall making the inevitable leak.

BULL DOG CORD GARDEN HOSE

resists kinks because the moulded live rubber wall has just the right strength combined with proper resiliency to bend easily yet hold its full smooth round waterway. Note the two braided plies of extra heavy hawser cord moulded into the heavy rubber wall. This means long wear. AFIRE TWENTY-NINE YEARS

Alabama Coal Mines Started Burning by Angered Miner Abandoned by Owners

JASPER (Ala.) April 17. (Exclusive)—For twenty-nine years the "burning mine" near Jasper, fired by a disgruntled miner who sought vengeance against the employers who discharged him, has belched up smoke and ashes in defiance of all efforts of men to extinguish it.

And during the three decades more than 1,000,000 tons of coal have been consumed, government authorities who recently completed a survey of the area, have reported.

Known as the "burning mine" the pit is the oldest in the Warrior coalfield district. Formerly operated on a large scale, it reached its production peak twenty-nine years ago.

STORY OF FIRE

One day, according to the story told of the mine, the owners disagreed with a miner, who subsequently was discharged. The man took offense, and to wreak his vengeance, set fire to the mine.

Props, pieces of boards and timbers were saturated with oil, the legend says, and before it was discovered the fire had gained such headway that all efforts to extinguish it were fruitless. The heat became so intense workmen were unable to enter the workings.

Tales of heroism are told of the men who futilely fought the flames for many days and nights. Several are said to have been overcome by the smoke and gases.

After the fire had raged for several months, supporting pillars gave away and earth collapsed in places. Huge clouds of smoke which could be seen for miles, belched forth.

Efforts to extinguish the flames proving futile, the site was abandoned and gradually all families dependent on the workings were forced to move elsewhere.

Although the fire first ravaged the mine more than a quarter of a century ago, the flames still feed on the buried ledges of coal with undiminished intensity.

Several months ago, the fire was reported to have burned itself out, but recently the flames have renewed their intensity.

Many queer breaks have been caused by the creeping flames. Nearby farmers have been awakened and found sections of near-by fields oozing smoke and gas with boiling steam pouring from crevices above some ledge of coal undermined by flames.

HOUSE FALLS IN

A short while ago, the fire so ate away the coal beneath a house that the entire structure collapsed into the aperture. A well in the vicinity produced boiling water, caused by the intense heat below the water vein.

In some fields, flames have been noticed flickering several feet above the earth and at times the flames are said to have reached a height equal to the tallest trees in the vicinity.

Efforts to quench the flames have ceased, for the intense heat of three decades has so softened the coal in outlying ledges that it has been found worthless.

CASES TRANSFERRED

Wright Act Charges of Specified Class Sent to Justice Courts

Because of a recent decision of Justice Works of the District Court of Appeal that the Municipal Court does not have jurisdiction over Wright Act cases involving a high-grade misdemeanor or where the arrest was made outside of the city, all liquor cases of that kind will be tried in the township justice courts.

Coincidently Harold L. Judson, deputy District Attorney, was assigned by Chief Deputy Davis to handle all jury trials of such nature in the township courts. He will begin these duties today.

Heretofore liquor cases where arrests were made by the Sheriff's office squad were tried in the Los Angeles Municipal Court. These number about 200 a month and result in considerable fines and jail sentences. These cases will be transferred to the township justice courts most accessible to the witnesses and the defendants.

The exact jurisdiction of the Municipal Court is a question that is still in doubt, say jurists, who are awaiting the decision of the State Supreme Court in the cases of People versus Denault and People versus Luna.

POULTRY MEN ARM TO GET CHICKEN THIEVES

STOCKTON, April 17. (Exclusive)—Mustered by Deputy Sheriff Charles Fisher, an armed army of poultry men is being organized in the Lodi district to break up gangs of chicken thieves who have been working extensively in that district for several weeks. Fisher has advised the poultry men to "keep handy a shotgun and a good dog." Several chicken raisers have also installed buzzers in their sheds to warn them of pilfering.

TREES STOLEN

PHOENIX, April 17. (Exclusive)—An extensive theft of very unusual sort was one in which J. M. Sharpe was robbed of most of the citrus trees he had just planted on forty acres on Glendale avenue, north of Phoenix. The deed was done in a single night. Several similar thefts are reported from farms on North Central avenue, and the Arizona Citrus Growers have offered a reward for apprehension of the looters.

Wife in Divorce Complaint Declares Treatment by Husband Effective as Weight Reducer But She Does Not Recommend Method

Blossom Eleanor Huggins found a way to reduce a pound a day. While she does not recommend it to anyone else, she is arranging to leave the way clear for any other woman to take the same treatment.

Her testimonial appears in her complaint asking for a divorce from Joseph Eglis Huggins. She married him, and in the next thirty days she had lost thirty pounds, she declared. This was the result of nagging tactics, Mrs. Huggins asserted.

That wasn't all, she said. He began coming home with lip prints on his face, from which Mrs. Huggins deduced someone had been kissing him or something, she said. He refused to explain this matter, she charged.

Huggins, according to the complaint, owns valuable real estate in Cleveland, O., and draws an income of $900 a month.

Good Deed is Followed by More Chances

Harry Langdon, star of "Long Pants," at Loew's State, inadvertently discovered a new method of increasing his fan mail last week.

From the slums of New York's East Side, two youngsters wrote the star one day, telling him they wanted to see his new picture, "Long Pants," when it was shown at the Mark Strand Theater uptown, but that their families were poor and couldn't afford it.

Langdon immediately sent each of them a small check, and a letter telling them to buy tickets and be his guests at the theater.

Within three weeks thereafter, he received demands for checks from more than 1000 East Side youngsters.

A LONG WAIT

An old lady in Maryland has just seen a street car for the first time. Must have been one of those lines where you wait ages for one to heave in sight.

THE LOSER WINS

Browning was right about failure being success. European revolutionists, when kicked out of their country, always can come to America and make big money on the lecture platform.

KIND WORDS

The New York policeman has had to endure a lot of criticism, but the cops of the metropolis must be better than the people. At any rate, the police are stopping many of the unwholesome shows that the citizens are paying to see.

IN THE THEATER

"Look around you now and locate the exit nearest your seat. In case of fire walk, don't run, to that exit." And if in the excitement you can manage to step heavily on the neck of the boob who has been talking behind you during the performance it will be all to the good and then some.

LITERARY NOTE

Jack Dempsey also has a five-foot shelf in his home and if the conditions of a heavyweight battle with Tunney cannot be arranged it may be switched to a highbrow meet instead. It would be fun to watch the athletes tossing classy adjectives at each other.

NO WONDER

Those who have expressed surprise that Jacqueline Schally, lately adjudged the most beautiful woman in France, was detained by the commissioners at Ellis Island, should reflect that commissioners are as human as other men. What normal male wouldn't want to detain a prize beauty?

HARD TO SEE

The United States is urging world disarmament and yet the government is placed in the peculiar position of refusing to recognize or accept a program of disarmament that is under the control of the League of Nations. Yet that is part of the functions of the League and it already has the membership of more than fifty governments.

IT'S THE LIMIT

What is more exasperatingly injurious to one's sense of self-righteousness than to have a traffic officer who has called you down for not making a proper signal and who you have tried to assure that he can go all over town and not find a motorist who observes the rules more carefully than you do, smilingly remark, "That's what they all say"?

PERILS OF PURSUIT

Rum runners in Alabama and Florida are using motor trucks equipped with poison gas exhaust pipes. When they are pursued they can lay down a smoke screen that is spiced so highly with mustard as to make breathing mighty difficult. In a few minutes they are beyond overhauling. Another reason why the use of tear gas should be banned by civilized people—but are bootleggers civilized?

WASTE OF WORDS

Prohibition will not be an issue with either of the major parties. Former Senator James Hamilton Lewis—who is himself a wet—says that no man is going to run for President on the issue of whether there shall be a drink more or less for the average American or whether the State or the nation shall play the bartender. Democracy must find something better to talk about before it can hope to climb into the saddle.

THE BIG CITY

Some self-centered citizens are saying that Los Angeles doesn't need population. We are not suffering for human beings. Our highways are neither deserted nor lonely. But that is a rather selfish creed. What we have we should offer to others. If life here is exceptionally desirable, pass the good word along. Numbers may congest our streets, but they have directly or indirectly added more than $1,000,000,000 to the value of our property. Not long ago a lot on Broadway was sold at a price that if turned into solid gold would pave the entire tract with this shining metal to the depth of more than an inch. Forty years ago, when the pioneers went out that way for a buggy ride, that lot would not have sold for $2000. Here is a profit of something like 300,000 per cent within the span of a generation. And most of it is due to the influx of humanity. The coming of great masses of people has given property values that stagger the imagination of the pioneers. Let no man say that there is small worth in numbers. Life may be more peaceful and quiet in the humble hamlet, but property values climb only with massed citizenship.

THE MERRY MASQUERADERS

William Gibbs McAdoo, according to some reports, is not seeking the Democratic nomination for President next year and is inclined to throw his support to Senator Reed of Missouri. With Coolidge a prohibitive favorite and no field, it would not be surprising if the leader of what is termed the progressive element in the Democratic party should decide not to enter the race, notwithstanding his denial of the rumors. Playing the corpse at a funeral is not an attractive role.

But perhaps it would be well for the Missouri Senator to remember the old adage about being wary of the Greeks who come bearing gifts. Seven years ago the McAdoo forces were able to organize the Democratic convention at San Francisco. They controlled the National Committee, and one of their first acts was to kick Senator Reed out of the convention on charges of disloyalty to the administration. Reed had been selected as a delegate by his home State, but the National Committee refused to honor his credentials.

One wonders what eminent services the Missouri Senator has since rendered to his party that the renegade of 1920 should be looked to as the candidate in 1928. It is just possible that some Machiavellian Democrats may consider giving Reed the nomination a harder blow than throwing him out seven years ago. How McAdoo will explain his position to his prohibition supporters is another matter; for McAdoo is as dry as Mojave in August, and Reed is as wet as Seattle in December. However, the ways of Democratic politicians are beyond understanding. Cox, the hope of the wets, was nominated in San Francisco in 1920 by the votes of delegates pledged to McAdoo. When the convention was deadlocked the lieutenants of McAdoo threw their strength to Cox, a wet, rather than to Palmer, a dry.

Gov. Smith of New York continues to be the outstanding Democratic candidate, notwithstanding his religious faith and his antiprohibition sentiments. In several States, particularly in the South, dry leaders are declaring for Smith. So it is not impossible that we shall again witness the 1920 absurdity—a wet candidate standing on a dry platform. There have been Democratic candidates before Smith who have said: "Give me the nomination, and you can write the platform!" The veteran Chauncey Depew once explained this complaisance of Democratic candidates by saying that among the Bourbons "a political platform is like the platform of a Pullman car. It is not made to stand on, but to get in on."

Many things may happen in the political game before June of next year. There are at least a dozen dark horses in the Democratic national stables; and one would need to be the son of two prophets to forecast what a Democratic convention will do. At no time since the passing of Bryan has the candidate who received the most votes on the first ballot been the choice of the convention. The favorites are overtrained and winded before they start. The second nomination of Wilson might be pointed to as the exception; but the Democrats did not hold a convention that year, but a ratification meeting; while it is even now apparent that the 1928 convention will be a free-for-all; and in such contests the favorite is generally the first to be eliminated.

The Times has no sympathy with the opposition to Gov. Smith on account of his religious affiliations; for in temporal government religion is not an issue. But to select a President, or even a Presidential nominee, who is not in sympathy with an article of the Constitution, and with the laws enacted under the article—to place him in a position where he would be required to enforce laws which he personally repudiates—that, to say the least, would be a questionable procedure.

CALIFORNIA TO THE FRONT

When news came from Washington the other day that President Coolidge had appointed five delegates to the economic conference to be held at Geneva next month, and it was learned that three of these delegates were Californians, the report did not create the slightest ripple of excitement, and, indeed, there did not seem to be much in it to get excited about. But all the same the fact that such a conference is to be held and that the United States, along with forty-two other countries, will participate in it is of profound significance, for it will be a great international event.

Ground has been broken for this conference in a most practical way. Representatives of forty-three countries met in Paris a little over a month ago to draft a report making recommendations as to how international and business problems might be dealt with at the meeting. The discussion of these problems disclosed the attitude of the various countries toward each other in the matter of trade relations. The bearing which the animosities engendered by the war had upon these relations was frankly debated, and some very interesting confessions were made.

France's representative, Senator Clementel, former Minister of Finance, made the generous statement with reference to the re-establishment of commercial relations between his country and Germany that France as well as Germany had come to recognize that "petty rivalry and national egotism breed only ruin and misery," and that "the world can be rebuilt only by the common effort of all nations."

With the striking of this splendid keynote the business of the preliminary meeting proceeded with the kind of harmony which makes one think that international relationships in Europe and the rest of the world are not in such a sad way as pessimistic writers have been picturing them. For, if there is to be a common effort among the nations to break down trade barriers, and if France, of all countries, is to lead in that effort, as is intimated by Senator Clementel's statement, there should be no great difficulty in putting such relationships as exist upon a friendly footing.

Militating most strongly against the satisfactory maintenance of ideal trade relations is inequality of treatment as between national and foreign merchant shipping, customs tariffs that lack clearness and uniformity and senseless prohibitions of exportation and importation such as are found in the British rubber trade.

The report adopted by the members of the Paris meeting recommended sweeping reforms as to these trade barriers. It calls for the abolition of all passport vises and for legislation providing that the right of residence and establishment of foreigners shall be the same as for nationals. It also recommends improvement in the transportation system, uniform freight classifications, standardization of rolling stock and uniform time tables.

Thus it will be seen that the work to be done at the Geneva Economic Conference, which might be appropriately termed a business men's parliament, is to be of the utmost importance. The lack of the reforms which that conference is expected to initiate has been one of the chief reasons for international dissension in Europe; and their establishment, if they should be established, will be one of the chief factors in the promotion and maintenance of peace. And what is truer than the Clementel dictum that "the world can be rebuilt only by the common effort of all nations"?

NATURE ON THE RAMPAGE

April this year has evidently annexed the assumed prerogatives of March. Having faithfully performed the lion act of its predecessor, perhaps it will complete the simile by going out like a lamb.

Even Southern California has not escaped the freaks and pranks of this madcap month. April south of the Tehachapi has been chilly, squally and full of surprises. Yet, except to those who regard this favored section solely as a playground for the leisured classes, our weather of the last two weeks has been entirely satisfactory. It has helped growing crops, raised for us oceans of wild flowers and will keep the ground moist and active far into the inevitable dry season from June to September.

In other sections nature has celebrated the arrival of spring by going on a veritable rampage. So terrible often has been April's record that one wonders sometimes how the poets were able to associate it in men's minds with the smiles and tears of artless childhood. There are many stricken families in the world today who will hardly look back upon the April of 1927 with the complacency of the spring poet.

The Mississippi Valley is suffering from the worst floods in its history—and the rain is still falling. Levees are collapsing and the flood level has broken all records of the last fifty years. Many communities now consist only of empty and flooded homes. Losses are estimated in eight figures.

The savage tornado, unleashed on Western Texas, that leveled a town of more than 800 people, taking a death toll of nearly sixty at one fell swoop and leaving hundreds homeless, presents a picture of fury and horror that no poetic apologist can ever explain away to those who experienced the disaster.

For five days Colorado and Wyoming have been in the grip of a mid-April blizzard with roads in and out of Denver impassable and railroad trains halted. Western Nebraska lies sodden under a blanket of wet snow. In these States at present it would be injudicious to sing the charms of April.

Scores of people were injured and houses demolished in Little Rock and Dexter by an Arkansas cyclone on the fourteenth day of this vernal month. Straw-hat day in Phoenix found Arizona partly snowclad and the balance wet and shivering. North, South, East, West the lions of April have roamed around uncaged.

Going further afield, April has just stirred up one of the dreaded African "red rainstorms" to sweep across the Mediterranean from Morocco, strew the shores of the inland sea with wreckage, wipe out Spanish villages and cause damages that will run well over $10,000,000. Crossing the equator in the republics of Chile and Argentina heavy earthquake shocks have been the portion dealt out by an unkind April, where the harvest season has brought the grisly addition of corpses, broken bodies and old homes crumbled to the dust.

And in the white stillness of trackless mountains, forming the watershed of the turbulent Colorado River, April has added more superimposed snow blankets to the frozen forces that the summer sun will soften and set free. Wild, unrestrained, these forces will roll a flood of silt and rock and driftwood from their winter prison gates down a precarious watercourse to discharge their long-pent energy, perhaps in the Gulf of California, and . . . perhaps . . . not. . . .

Who will sing this last epic of spring and April? Homer or Dante alone could give it vital utterance.

PINCHBECK PATRIOTS

The Chicago Tribune remarks editorially that Oswald Garrison Villard of The Nation is confident that there can be no exception to the doctrine "an American in a foreign land is always wrong." And so he set about proving that Dr. Williams, shot down by Cantonese soldiers, was wrong in some way. "Dr. Williams must have been wrong," the Tribune observes with undisguised sarcasm. "Probably he tried to bite the patriot warrior, who thereupon was called upon to defend himself."

Villard wrote to a graduate of the Columbia School of Journalism, a title that evidently insures veracity, and asked him to report from his strategic position on Chinese soil a true sketch of the slaughter of Dr. Williams. "Mr. Villard hastens to report," says the Tribune, "that Dr. Williams carried a revolver and drew it, whereupon he was shot. Furthermore, to illustrate the real restraint of the patriot soldiers it is pointed out that there were four other Americans with Dr. Williams and yet the soldiers let them live." The Tribune closes its comment with the following paragraph: "Dr. Williams's companions tell a different story, but they are Americans and their evidence is, of course, worthless. They were there, but they were wrong. There are no exceptions to the noble doctrine of the total depravity of Americans."

Paul Linebarger, who recently addressed the Woman's City Club in Los Angeles, is plainly one of the strongest living exponents of the Villard principle of the inevitable error and "depravity" of Americans in foreign countries. Asked by a member of the club if he thought Americans who persist in staying in China should be given protection by the United States he is reported to have replied, "I think they should be shot." Well, that is what the Cantonese did to Dr. Williams and by his plain utterance Mr. Linebarger accepts such action as proper. He says the other Americans in China should be shot, too. There is a marvelous brand of patriotism. How he loves his fellow-countrymen!

But do not for a moment dare to question the wisdom of his conclusions. He cannot possibly be wrong. He admits it himself. He told the Woman's City Club, "I know more than any living man about the Chinese republic, because I was so closely associated with Dr. Sun Yat-Sen before he died." Ah! He was in China once. He should have been shot to conform with his own principles of massacre of Americans in China. Fortunately for the ignorant remainder of the world, he returned to America where, as he says, "Americans don't know anything about China. President Coolidge knows nothing about China." The best available information, he advises, can be found in his own book on China, price $4.

It is fortunate that Americans as a whole are not formed with the minds of fools, but place their trust in leaders like the President and his Cabinet advisers whose standpoint and viewpoint are always American and are never tainted with anti-British, pro-British, anti-German, pro-German, anti-Sun Yat-Sen or pro-Sun Yat-Sen prejudice and politics.

The Times salutes honest, progressive, far-traveling Americans on whatever foreign soil they stand! May they ever be given protection by the country for whose honor and protection their fathers or brothers or sons have fought!

NEED THE ROOM

Traffic experts in convention agree that there should be no parking of cars in the congested business district of any big city, but the cars are standing at the curb just the same. What the nation needs is a collapsible car that can be folded up and left in the checkroom when not in service.

Fairy tale: "He doesn't dodge taxes, responsibility or jury service."

Finger nails neglected: An unclean man. Too well attended: An unclean soul.

The world produces few great leaders? The reason is obvious. There is no place to go.

The time to judge a man is in the spring. Thus, if ever, come perfect days of idiocy.

A single girl may be talked about; a wife is merely talked at.

If the billboards completely hide the landscape you are approaching a center of culture.

Everything about poverty is disagreeable, but the most disagreeable part is comparison with those who aren't poor.

Napoleon said all men are cowards at night, but he was wrong. They wait for night to do the things they are afraid to do by day.

Hospitality is in the heart. It is genuine only when it makes the guest feel he is part of the family.

It's the point of view. Children who are pals with one kind of parent seem impudent to a solemn ass parent.

It isn't poverty that makes "poor relations" objectionable, but the qualities that keep them poor.

It's genuine love if she quits a good job to clean ash trays for nothing.

Every community contains at least one person people pity and can't be good to unless they're willing to be bored forever.

The happiest people are those who know very, very little, and the poor asses who think they know everything.

There's just one kind of regular he-man. He acts natural and doesn't give a darn what other people think of it.

It isn't that preacher's sons always go wrong, but that girls who go wrong shock the world because girls as a rule are virtuous.

Correct this sentence: "When the new neighbors moved in," said she, "I didn't sit at the window to observe their furniture."

One of the oddities of nature is that a broken heart doesn't affect a girl's appetite.

A man who is not afraid of hard work will have plenty of it.

Some people never appreciate a rose until they encounter the thorn.

Women used to knit and talk about each other. Now they sit and talk politics.

RUSSIAN WOMEN

BY MURZA BARONOVA

When the soul of the mother is crushed, the son that is born to her lives; but the best of him is dead. When I think of this old saying that our ancestors carried with them on their long migrations from Central Asia, I tremble for the new Russia.

In the days when Russia was struggling for a liberal government, in the period when the serfs were freed and the Douma was established, the Russian women were in the forefront of the battle. They were the support of their men in every political and social movement. They were tolerant, wise in council, and the protectors of the poor and the maligned.

The Russian woman under the old, hard regime helped to make life under the iron rule of the Czars tolerable. She was the source of hope and joy. Her smile took the sting from many an insult, and the pressure of her lips was a healing balm for many a wound. It was to the wife of the Governor of a province that the forsaken carried their plea. In a government of iron and steel the men were hard and cold; but the tears of the Russian women were warm and sincere, and in the love-light of her eyes there was a vision of paradise.

When student brothers became members of the radical secret societies and were pursued by the Cossacks and the secret police, the sisters protected them, destroyed the anarchistic pamphlets that might have sent them to Siberia; and their weakness became a tower of strength. For in the heart of the hardest of the hirelings of the Czar there was a secret cult of Russian womanhood.

But when the revolution came there was no place in the Bolshevist scheme of government for the Russian woman. Chivalry was dead in the hearts of Lenin, Trotzky and their supporters. In almost every other country the women have played a directing part in affairs of state since the World War; but not in Russia.

The revolution could not be a reform movement without the participation of the women; and they were excluded. Without the softening influence of women men become cruel and violent. The mother who has brought a little being into the world and nursed it at her breast knows that life is a precious thing. She knows that every man is the son of some mother; she knows that the good God never meant that human lives should be sacrificed to abstract ideas. For ideas are only breath and sound. They are without substance. While a human life is something that God gives, and only God has the right to take away.

Men are prone to kill to bring about the triumph of an idea. The Russian men are like that. Where they cannot convince they destroy. But the Russian wife and mother, knowing that the hardness of men is in reality only a weakness, are quick to pardon. Their mission is to heal the wounds that others have made.

Russia cannot be humanized without the aid of the Russian women; and the willful Bolsheviki have closed their ears to their counsel. They have made life even harder than it was when a Cossack guard was in every village and the long trail to Siberia was always open.

In England and America the women have their part in every reform movement. They help to elect the representatives of the people. They join in the deliberation over the enactment of just and humane laws. But the women of Russia under the Bolsheviki endure a slavery comparable to that of the serfs. They are the servants and the men are the masters.

Men no longer worship them; they only use them. And these women with crushed souls are the mothers of the coming generation. What will the children be?

Until the women of Russia have a voice in the affairs of Russia there can be no reforms that will make the lives of the people happier. When the Bolsheviki ceased to listen to the voices of women they made the success of the regime they planned impossible.

And how the women of Russia have suffered during ten years of terror and violence! I know a part of it, for during three years I was one of the victims. I was in Odessa when the peasants no longer came in from the villages with milk for the children. It was not their fault, for life was so hard for them in 1918 and 1919 that they killed the cows and the growing calves for the meat.

I did not mind being hungry; but when the boy at my breast sobbed for milk that nature would no longer supply—then I knew what revolution meant. And I was one of the few who, living by an open port, was able to escape by sea. My boy lived, but the babes of more than 3,000,000 Russian mothers died.

That was a part of the price the Russian women paid for the revolution.

Red killed White, and White killed Red—and the women and children died deaths of hunger, exposure or violence. Each side killed those who would not agree with them. Millions of human lives were sacrificed for ideas that have since been abandoned as impractical. But who can give those lives back?

How much better it would have been if they had locked up those with whom they could not agree—locked them up until the frenzy passed. That is what the women would have suggested if they had been permitted to have a voice in the counsels of the revolutionists. Alas, words can be forgotten, but life cannot be restored.

There were great women and good women in Russia under the old regime. For, hard as they were, the men were not without honor, and the virtue of the Russian wife was the jewel of the Russian home.

But the great and the good

The country is ruled by committees. Any objectionable measure that legislators or Governors are afraid to face the voters on is strangled. Committee is a polite term that a constituency has difficulty locating.

The legislative body may vote in the open and pass legislation in a grandiose manner and it is recorded in the "record." But committees hold their conferences in executive session. And the land is ruled by secret sessions. We call it a democracy—but it is a committee form of government.

The committee may vote a law to pacify the public or to play an open mind; but the real decisive mind was likely made up before election day. The hearing is a sop thrown to the suffering public.

It is hard for a man to get an agree, save that of appointing out a committee passing over to honor. If a hard-pressed human man be granted a hearing before come before the committee. official would pass the buck offers it to a committee to sit but two persons meet on the in a head-on collision before part one has appointed the on a committee.

AN INVESTIGATION of the stream of new accounts which flows into fifty-one offices and branches of the Security Bank shows that a considerable proportion of them come to us because of "convenient location."

Each Security branch is a complete BANK, prepared in equipment and personnel to give every banking service, including safe deposit.

To enjoy the convenience of your nearby Security branch, you do not have to sacrifice anything in the way of complete and competent service.

assia was women of Russia are scattered or dead. Only those with crushed bodies and souls remain. Virtue has not departed from Russia for as long as a Slav wife and mother survives it will not be dead. But virtue in high places is only a memory.

How often I think of the Queen-
Mother in exile weeping over her dead! For she was a mother, not only to her immediate family, but to Russian womanhood. We raised our voices to her, and to the wife of the last Czar, and their listened; and not all the petitions sent to them were in vain. In Russia a mother's heart beat alike under the homespun and the purple.

But to whom can the mothers of Russia address their plaints now? The mothers of Russia were forbidden to wear mourning for sons who were killed for opposing the Bolshevist rule. But whether he wore a golden epaulette or a red star he was her boy; and they are still wearing their mourning, wrapped in black bands about their hearts.

The churches may be closed on earth, but God still keeps watch through his sentinel stars in the heavens; for the Bolsheviki cannot reach so high. And hearts can pray when lips are dumb.

Perhaps it is the Easter season that has brought back to me these memories. How glad we were when the Easter morning came.
But the bells in the cathedrals are now silent, and there is no pope to bless the cakes and bread, and I am only one of 4,000,000 exiles carrying the hopes, the sta and the sufferings of the mother land in my heart.

A RUBBER STAMP

BY W. L. Y. DAVIS

The world is suffering from the excessive use of the rubber stamp.
If a board of directors of a bank or university meet, its work is largely cut and dried for it by some committee. The board has come to be an automaton.

About the highest honor that can come to an American citizen is to be appointed chairman of some committee. He at once assumes the distinction of being a powerful man.

Presidents bow to committees.
Legislatures are shackled by committees. Big business is largely handled by committees. The president may sign the check on the dotted line; but the committee draws him the line.

And even the committee usually resolves itself into a merry-go-
'round about the chairman. What he recommends the committee approves. What the committee approves the trustees will pass. Any flunkhead can be a member of the board of directors; but brains head the committees.

The country is ruled by committees. Any objectionable measure that legislators or Governors are afraid to face the committee strangles. Committee is a generic term that a constituency has dif-culty locating.

The legislative body may meet in the open and pass before reporters in a grandiose manner and be printed in the "record." But committees hold their conferences sub-rosa. And the land is ruled by secret sessions. We call it a democracy—but it is a committee form of government.

The committee may yield a hearing to pacify the public and display an open mind; but that massive mind was likely made up before election day. The hearing is a sop thrown to the suffering public.

It is hard for a man to get a degree, save that of sympathy, without a committee passing upon the honor. If a hard-pressed business man be granted a loan it has to come before the committee. If one official would pass the buck he refers it to a committee to kill. If but two persons meet on the street in a head-on collision before they part one has appointed the other on a committee.

Strickland to Manage Rodeo of Horse Show

Selection of Hugh Strickland, star of such round-ups as Pendleton, Cheyenne, Bozeman, Chicago, Fort Worth, Tucson and others, as arena director for the first annual Los Angeles rodeo to be staged in the Coliseum by the Los Angeles National Horse Show Association was announced yesterday by W. W. Mines, president of the organization, which is sponsoring the show.

Wires received yesterday from Strickland and other experts of rope and leather confirmed definitely the plans of the board of governors to hold the event on the afternoons and evenings of May 20, 21 and 22.

Division of the $20,000, so far as the larger prizes are concerned, was announced by Matt Cohen, secretary of the horse show association, as follows:

Men's broncho riding purse, $3000; steer team tying, $1750; calf roping, $1750; steer stopping, $1500; men's relay, $1500; girls' relay, $1500; wild horse race, $700; pony express, $1000; horse jumping contest, $1000.

The remainder of the $20,000 will be awarded for various trick riding and roping events.

Pair Who Found Dietrich Dying Will Testify

Incidents following the so-called "flower-pot" slaying of Jacob Dietrich, nurseryman, which are said to throw light on the tragedy, will be gone into today when the trial of Elmore S. Cromb, accused of manslaughter in the case, is continued in Superior Judge Burnell's court.

It was stated by Dep. Dist.-Attys. Dennison and Hill, who are prosecuting, that they would call to the stand Paul Rupp, nephew of the deceased, and his wife, to testify regarding the finding of Dietrich in a dying condition.

It is the theory of the prosecution that the striking of Dietrich took place in the rear of the latter's home and was done by Cromb. F. O. Pelke testified Friday that he saw Cromb come out of the house, choking his wife, and that Dietrich followed and protested. Pelke said he was behind a palm tree and saw Cromb strike Dietrich. Robert McGrath, a night-watchman, will be called to substantiate Pelke's story.

It is contended by the defense counsel, S. S. Hahn and L. Kearny, the latter an uncle of the defendant, that Dietrich was attacked in his greenhouse by three men and struck on the head with a flower pot.

RITES TO BE HERE FOR MRS. FREDERICK JUNY

Services will be conducted at St. Matthias's Church, Washington and Normandie streets. Interment will be at Inglewood Park Cemetery.

SHARP STICK FOR RANDALL

Valley is After Him for Dip Plan on Boulevard

Say He Has Lots for Sale on Cross Street

"Politics," Says Councilman; "Project Temporary"

Charges that Councilman Randall has used his official position as First District (San Fernando Valley) Councilman to delay the paving of seven miles of San Fernando Road in order to have the highway graded to the same level as Radford avenue, on which the Councilman owns property, were made yesterday by property owners who have been urging for two months that the improvement be expedited. The charge also was made from the floor of the Council by one of the property owners that the Councilman had caused a small assessment district to be adopted to pay for this San Fernando Road improvement in place of the large assessment district, which could have included the Councilman's subdivision at Randall and Radford avenues.

On repeated demand of Councilman Criswell, to whom the property owners had appealed for help against Councilman Randall, the Public Works Committee, of which Councilman Randall is chairman, finally, on the 7th inst. made a report on the handling of San Fernando Road improvement and the report was adopted. But after the property owners had an opportunity to analyse the report, they declared that Councilman Randall had again put over his plan for handling the road improvement, including the bringing of the road to the grade of Radford avenue by means of a "dip" in the road which would also create a dangerous crossing at this street intersection.

FOR WIDE BRIDGE

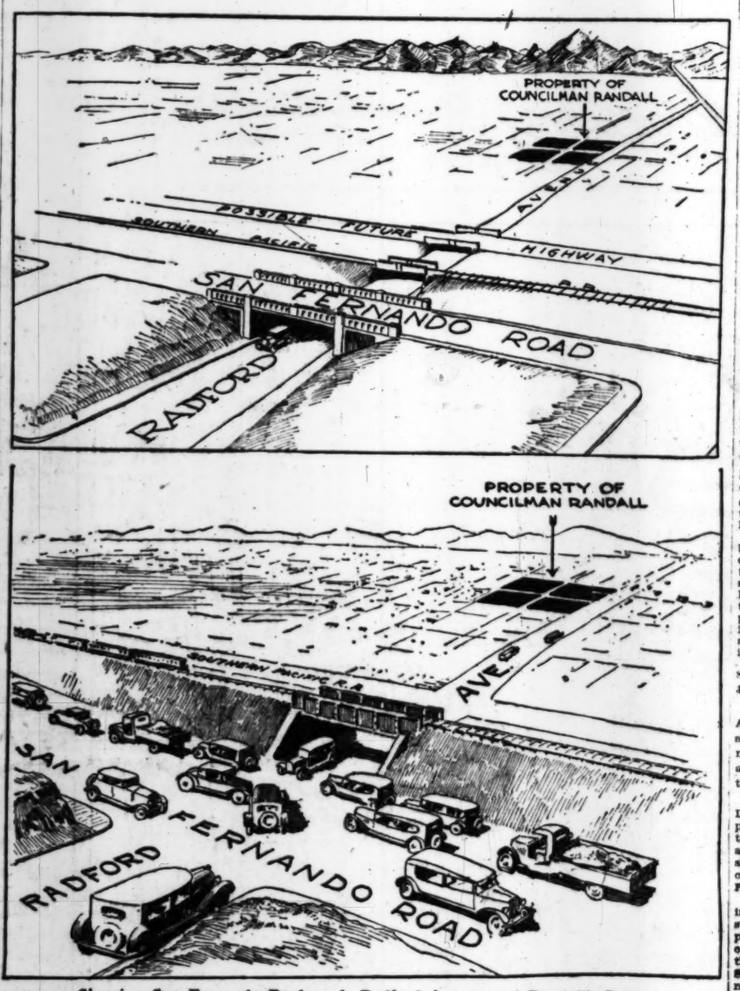
So Councilman Criswell again demanded that the City Engineer be instructed to start plans for a new bridge across Radford avenue instead of Councilman Randall's "dip" of San Fernando Road into Radford avenue. Then the City Engineer was asked to make recommendations for the handling of this crossing problem. City Engineer Shaw, however, in reports made in February and March approved of the bridging of Radford avenue at San Fernando Road.

Perhaps fearing that the resentment of the San Fernando Road property owners might endanger his chances of re-election, Councilman Randall announced yesterday that the wide bridge over Radford avenue would be included in the improvement. This his opponents call political somersaulting as the Council's instructions of February 2 to the City Engineer adopted on recommendation of Councilman Randall's Public Works Committee, were to prepare plans for the paving of San Fernando Road sixty-five feet wide in the section which includes Radford avenue, and this sixty-five-foot width of necessity meant a "dip" at Radford avenue.

WHAT RANDALL SAYS

Councilman Randall yesterday defended his "dip" plan of handling the San Fernando road improvement, saying that it was not a "dip" at all as the maximum grade into Radford avenue would be 2 per cent, said that the Radford-avenue crossing of San Fernando Road with the "dip" would not be dangerous as the highway was a "boulevard stop" throroughfare, and said that he only intended it as a temporary measure until the wide bridge could be built. The Councilman admitted that he owns lots near by on Radford avenue, and termed the opponents to the "dip" plan "agitators who have been agitating against me for political purposes."

First District Doesn't Care for Councilman's Plan



Showing San Fernando Boulevard, Radford Avenue and Randall's Lots

The top picture shows the way San Fernando Valley residents want their boulevard to cross Radford avenue, which is on a naturally lower grade than the main highway. In the lower picture appears the plan which Councilman Randall, from that district, is accused of favoring because he owns a number of lots on Radford avenue.

CHAMBER INDORSES MECHANICAL EXHIBIT

The Power and Mechanical Show to be conducted at the Ambassador Auditorium August 22 to 27 has been indorsed by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, it was announced yesterday by Seward Simons, manager of the chamber's domestic trade department. The show, the letter says, will be called to the attention of buyers throughout the West as an opportunity to inspect equipment and supplies in the power, mechanical and stationary engineering fields.

There is said to be a distinct novelty in this story of a woman judge and her housekeeper husband in an unusual trial scene wherein the judge tries her own case of divorce. The New York supporting cast and production will be offered here intact.

RECORD AIR MAIL CARGO GOES NORTH

Western Express Begins Second Year of Service With Capacity Loads

With what is said to be the heaviest air-mail cargo ever flown as one dispatch out of any airport of the world, three planes of the Western Air Express, Inc., took off from the local air-mail port yesterday morning on the initial flight of its second year of operations over the Los Angeles-to-Salt Lake City airway.

More than 47,000 pieces of air mail, composed chiefly of special air-mail postcards designed to advertise Southern California and sent as souvenirs of this flight, comprised much of the load.

Unofficial figures on the weight placed this at 1175 pounds and fifteen ounces, but the official tabulation is expected to bring this to more than 1200 pounds, it is said. The previous record for air-mail dispatch originating in any airport city for one flight is said to be 30,000 pieces weighing 1127 pounds, flown out of New York City last July.

While yesterday's load, conceived by chambers of commerce throughout Southern California as a tribute to one year of near-perfect performance just completed by the local air line, did not come up to expectations, officials of the company expressed themselves as more than satisfied with bringing to Los Angeles airport the world's record for heaviest load.

SALT LAKE CITY JOINS IN CELEBRATION

SALT LAKE CITY, April 17. (AP)—A dozen silver giants of the air soared above the Salt Lake airport this afternoon in celebration of the second anniversary of the establishment of the Western Air Express.

From the south came three great Douglas biplanes carrying 1168 pounds of mail and two huge army transports of the same type, but each at least twice as large as their sister ships. From the north came a delicately winged Varney and from San Francisco a graceful De Havilland.

The mammoth mechanisms taxied into their hangars; mail bags were swiftly transferred to waiting Douglas planes; motors roared and the mail continued its progress eastward from the western air center of the United States. Thousands of spectators witnessed the celebration, among whom were Lieut. Eric Nelson, round-the-world flyer, and Maj. C. C. Moseley, general superintendent of the Western Air Express.

BALL PLANNED FOR CITY FIRE FIGHTERS

Los Angeles fire fighters will demonstrate their agility in gliding about the dance floor to music instead of scaling ladders next Wednesday night, when the Firemen's Ball is to be conducted at Solomon's Grand Avenue Ballroom. At the invitation of Fred H. Solomon, honorary battalion chief in the Los Angeles Fire Department, and a California State fire marshal, all of the firemen off duty on that night and their families will be his personal guests. They will dance to music furnished by the department band, and three other regular Solomon musical organizations, Guterson's Band of All Nations, Mosby's Dixieland Blue Blowers, and the Imperial Cossacks. Fire Chief Ralph J. Scott and Mrs. Scott will be guests of honor.

JURY DECIDES FEES ILLEGAL

Collector Found Guilty of Petty Larceny

Wages Attached for Sum Not Set by Law

Verdict Not Guilty on Charge of Embezzlement

A collection agency cannot legally set arbitrary attorney fees and collect them in attaching a debtor's wages unless such fee has been duly set by a court in civil action, it was held when a jury in Municipal Judge Frederickson's court returned a verdict of guilty to a charge of pety larceny against Leo H. Zide, said to be head of the Coast Finance Company, formerly known as the General Collection Agency.

In returning the guilty verdict to the larceny charge, the jury also returned a verdict of not guilty in a charge of embezzlement growing out of the same transaction.

According to the testimony introduced by Deputy City Prosecutor Barnes, Zide, in collecting an account of $10 from Miss Florence Hills, ran an attachment on her pay at a downtown store for the amount plus $25 attorney fees and costs. He released all but $7 of that amount when the girl asked for more time, as she had but $16 due her at the time, Mr. Barnes contended.

Miss Hills testified that after the attachment she lost her job, but finally obtained another one, where she was again attached for the balance of $9, plus similar fees and costs. The complaint against the collection agent charged him with petty larceny and embezzlement of $21.75, the amount obtained under the attachment above the actual account due.

Attorneys for Zide contended that the girl had attempted to evade payment of the account, and that she had changed places of employment to so do, after receiving a release on the first attachment. They called Presiding Municipal Judge Stutsman to the stand to testify that the attorney fee asked and collected was a reasonable one.

The jury found, however, that, since the attorney fee had not been set by a court according to law, petty larceny had been committed.

Judge Frederickson set the 21st inst. for sentence.

Candidates Get Invitations to Mass Meeting

Candidates for election to every municipal office at the primary May 3 will attend a political mass meeting on the night of the 29th inst., at Philharmonic Auditorium under the auspices of the Intercity Unit Council, United Veterans of the Republic.

In this organization are more than 3000 veterans of the Civil, Indian, Spanish-American and World wars who have indorsed twenty-four candidates for the Municipal Court, fifteen for the City Council and five for the Board of Education at the forthcoming election.

All of the candidates will be invited to attend the meeting with groups of citizens supporting their respective campaigns. An elaborate entertainment program is being arranged by the committee in charge of the meeting, which is expected to be the largest political rally in the history of Los Angeles.

EDWARDS REVUE IS BEST EVER

Gorgeous Girls Glimpsed in "Ritz Carlton Nights" at Orpheum

BY MARQUIS BUSBY

Let's see now, it has been quite a few years since Gus Edwards had a revue at the old Orpheum, featuring an adorable little youngster called "Cuddles." That little girl, of course, is none other than Lila Lee. Gus was a vaudeville by-word even then, but apparently time has been very kind to him. He is the male Fannie Ward, and his new revue, "Ritz Carlton Nights," at the Orpheum this week and next, is one of the best he has ever had.

I don't know when I've seen more gorgeous girls than he has with him this year. If our astute motion-picture producers let two or three of those luscious maidens get away without at least a camera test, somebody should appoint a committee to investigate matters.

The Lane sisters, who Gus says he discovered in Des Moines, a well-known suburb of Los Angeles, the Reynolds sisters, Virginia Martin and Jerry Dryden, all are optical poems, and excellent entertainers, too.

But it was funny Ray Bolger with his "rubber legs" in the Daffy Dilly dance, who stole the show. This long-legged individual with the solemn Buster Keaton expression, should go a long way in musical comedy.

One of the Lane sisters has a good voice, but her selection, the familiar waltz song from "Romeo and Juliet," is a brilliant number without any saving qualities of warmth. Virginia Martin is one of the best acrobatic dancers seen here recently, and Jean Holly plays the violin nicely.

On the whole, excepting young Bolger, the men in the act are hardly up to the Gus Edwards standard of ability. However, as they have relatively little to do, it doesn't make much difference. One of them sings rather well in a separate act "Freshies and Flappers," which is second spot on the bill.

Gus Edwards is master of ceremonies.

You remember Del Chain and Lou Archer and their amusing act, "Oh, I Did Not." The two boys are reunited again and doing the same familiar number. Archer is one of the best vaudeville buffoons, and Chain is a good companion, but some new material would not be amiss.

William Gaxton, who appeared at the Mason not so long ago in "All For You," has a rather entertaining playlet in "Partners," written by Leon Errol. Comedy points are put over in rapid-fire fashion. Whatever else might be said of the proceedings, the act certainly did not drag. Gaxton is a breezy chap, and he is supported by a very clever young lad, who plays an office boy. George Haggerty, Paul Hanson, Nina Walker and Jean Kirkland are included in the cast.

Joe Laurie, Jr., who says he is a brother of Annie, although he doesn't look Scotch, "just drops in" again this week. He invites you all to have dinner with him the next time you are in New York. Just stop at the delicatessen, buy what you want and come on over. He has plenty of mustard at home.

Some of Joe's humor is new and laughable, and then again some of it sounds suspiciously like bad puns.

Mack and Brantley in "A Whirl of Grace" open the bill with some difficult gyrations on roller skates, and Duncan's Collies had the closing spot.

WARNER PLAYERS TO APPEAR AT UPTOWN

Monte Blue and Myrna Loy from the cast of "Bitter Apples" and William Demarest and Johnny Burke, Warner Brothers' players, will appear in person at the Uptown Theater, Tenth and Western avenue, tonight, in observance of the weekly "star-night" ceremonies, customary at this theater.

A skit, "never before presented on any stage," is to be offered by Demarest, and considerable apprehension, is said to be manifest among the theater's staff as to what the presentation will be.

Abe Lyman will introduce the visiting players

In Local Premiere at Mason

Ruth Lyons

Is the flapper daughter in William Hodge's comedy, "The Judge's Husband," which begins a limited engagement at the Mason when that playhouse reopens tonight.

RAY WEST AND GANG ON BILL

One of the headline acts on the new Hillstreet program which began a week's run yesterday is Ray West and his Varsity Gang. The Gang is at its best when playing more lively samples of jazz and blues, and reaches its high spot in a series of interpretations of the briefly-popular "When the Red, Red Robin," as our various neighbors across the sea would handle it. At the other extreme is the band's rendition of "The Doll Dance," which is given with all the delicacy and finesse of a crew of house-wreckers going about their dainty tasks. This is more an error of selection than of commission, so to speak; a band of this kind is simply not equipped for the task. Manilla Le Mori contributes a couple of vocal numbers for good measure, but she doesn't seem to know the lyrics of "Song of the Wanderer" very well; and Ray West himself offers a solo, "Idolizing," on his violin.

Then there is Paul Tisen's string orchestra, which is pleasing enough when it confines itself to what is usually called chamber music, like the sparkling "Two Guitars." When it essays jazz syncopation, it sounds as ineffectual as West's Gang would, attempting, for example, that same "Two Guitars." The Lockfords, French dancers, supply the eye entertainment along with Tisen's music. They are extraordinarily versatile.

Vilis and Strigo, whose front names are Corinne and Bill, succeeded in extracting the last full measure of devotion from two guitars—the instruments this time, not the selection. Guitars by themselves always seem to be rather pitiful objects; they emit such plaintive, meager, sounds as cause one to marvel that the troubadours of Spain employed them to such deadly advantage in wooing their dusky ladies.

The Three Swifts are wizards with bottle-shaped dumb-bells, which they toss back and forth and up and down with an almost incredible celerity. If they had chosen bootlegging as a calling instead of the stage, they would be able to dispose of whole cases of "bottled in bond" while a raiding squad was breaking down the door.

Handers and Milliss are amusing in a nonsensical fashion, but some of their humor is pretty bad. "You certainly are eloquent," one of them comments. "Who's an elephant?" is the devastating retort.

Harry and Denis Dufor display an intricate routine of dance steps.

The photoplay is "Jim, the Conqueror," by Peter B. Kyne. If one is willing to accept the premise of love at first sight, and to greet the repeatedly outstretched long arm of coincidence with affability, the story will pass muster. The locale shifts from Italy to New York, and thence to Arizona, where most of the action takes place. Some of the flashes of mountain and desert are magnificent. George B. Seitz is one of the few directors who always manages to invest a western picture with a few broad human touches; they are present in "Jim, the Conqueror." An adequate cast is headed by William Boyd. Elinor Fair, Tom Santschi, Walter Long and Tully Marshall.

The comedy is "Shell-Socked," with Jimmie Adams.

CLOSE OF TWO PLAYS ANNOUNCED

Ina Claire Comedy is in Last Two Weeks; "Noose" Ends Saturday

The last two weeks are announced of Ina Claire in "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney," with Roland Young and James Dale, at the Biltmore Theater. It will close on the 30th inst.

Preceding the closing of the Claire play by one week, "The Noose" will reach the conclusion of its engagement at Wilkes Vine Street Theater next Saturday night. It will be followed by "The Donovan Affair."

"The Donovan Affair" is from the pen of Owen Davis, and enjoyed long runs in New York and Chicago. The direction is by Harry Mestayer, and the cast includes William B. Davidson, Elinor Jackson, Peggy Tomson, Frank Dawson, John Elliott, Carol Holloway, Guy Dennery, Allan Connor, William Quinn and others.

A. G. Wilkes and C. O. Baumann are presenting the Davis thriller in Hollywood, the first performance being slated for the 27th inst.

Producer Plans to Send Plays From New York

The recent announcement of the increased activities of A. L. Erlanger and the theatrical producers associated with him, means that Los Angeles will get more plays and companies in the future than have come to the Pacific Coast in the last few years. The first indication of this policy is the announcement that Charles Dillingham intends booking all his leading successes for extended engagements in Los Angeles and San Francisco. The appearance of his dramatic star, Ina Claire, at the Biltmore Theater in "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney" is offered as the first concrete evidence of the new order of things.

Mr. Dillingham counts among his productions the phenomenally successful musical comedy, "Sunny," whose gorgeousness has just been eclipsed by his latest production, "Lucky," with Mary Eaton as the star surrounded by Walter Catlett, Richard Gallagher, Joseph Santley, Ivy Sawyer, Ruby Keeler and Paul Whiteman and his band for good measure. Also Fred Stone in "Criss Cross," with his daughter, Dorothy Stone; and Beatrice Lillie, a Los Angeles favorite cut-up, assisted by Charles Winninger in "Oh, Please."

ASSOCIATE PRODUCER NAMES GAIN MANAGER

One of the most important personnel announcements he has made since becoming Paramount associate producer, B. P. Schulberg has named John J. Gain as his general manager.

Gain is the most recent of the former officials of the Paramount Long Island studio, recently closed, to come to Hollywood.

He joined the organization's eastern forces some four years ago as head of the transportation department. From this post he was elevated to the rank of assistant to the general manager of the eastern studio.

As general manager for the associate producer, Gain will have one of the most important positions at the Paramount studio.

Hit Scored by Lon Chaney in Chinese Drama

The Forum Theater and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer have again scored a hit. Lon Chaney in "Mr. Wu," Lorna Moon's adaptation of the popular novel by Louise Jordan Milin, has made one of the greatest successes of his career, and Renee Adoree, Louise Dresser and Ralph Forbes in support of the star, are said to give excellent characterizations.

The last Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture played at the Forum, "Flesh and the Devil," which has been called a sensation, is being eclipsed in attendance by "Mr. Wu," which seems destined to remain for a long run, the management states.

Sports Writer Titles Comedy for Paramount

"Casey at the Bat," the latest starring vehicle of Wallace Beery now playing at the Million Dollar Theater, was titled by Sam Hellman. Hellman is widely known for his contributions of humorous sports stories to the leading magazines of the country during the past five years.

He recently came to Hollywood to join the scenario department of the Paramount studios. He was selected to title the comedy because of his established humor, vocabulary of sports slang, and his unusual knowledge of early baseball.

Supporting Beery in the new comedy are Ford Sterling, Sterling Holloway, Spec O'Donnell, ZaSu Pitts and Zeke Stuart.

SEATTLE LEADER WARMLY GREETED

Karl Krueger Conducts Orchestra Through Comprehensive Concert List

BY ISABEL MORSE JONES

The conductor of the Seattle symphony, Mr. Karl Krueger was given an enthusiastic reception by the audience of the Sunday popular concert of the Philharmonic Orchestra upon the occasion of his first appearance here as guest conductor. Krueger is one of the coming conductors of this country and it is significant fact pertinent to the growing appreciation of fine art in the West that two such men as Von Hoogstratten and Krueger have chosen the Northwest in which to develop orchestras.

The program yesterday was popular in the sense of the numbers being well known and well liked but not "popular" in the general acceptance of the term as meaning of light consequence. The andante from Schubert's "Unfinished," the Strauss "Death and Transfiguration" and Debussy's "Afternoon of a Faun" were the "big" numbers to which were added a Goldmark overture, Wagner's "Flying Dutchman" overture, and the "Dance of the Sylphs," by Berlioz. It was a concert-list to test the mettle of any conductor.

Mr. Krueger is one of the quiet, restrained directors who leans toward the cerebral rather than the emotional interpretation, but he is not in the least cold, rather would one think of him as characterized by warm concentration.

His Wagner was one of the highlights of the performance yesterday. Undoubtedly Mr. Krueger has a deep sympathy with the master.

NEW FILM RECALLS PICKFORD STORIES

Reminiscent of the films made so popular by Mary Pickford (except as regards its title, which is wretchedly trite) is "What every Girl Should Know," the feature that had its western premiere Saturday afternoon at the Broadway Palace Theater.

"What Every Girl Should Know," was a delightfully refreshing photoplay, and although all of the old melodramatic "hokum" was used to the nth degree, it never failed in a single instance to bring a tear or a catch of the throat to the unusually large audience that packed the theater for the film's first showing.

Similar to the Mary Pickford features, the plot of the film was woven around an orphaned family consisting of an older brother, who was a breadwinner, a 17-year-old sister, who played the "little mother," and a small brother.

The lively sport of tennis lent an interesting angle to the picture, and it was this sport that finally served to untangle the whole affair.

It was an able cast indeed that portrayed the story. As the "little mother," Patsy Ruth Miller gave a remarkable performance. She had no end of opportunities to display her histronic ability, and she more than made the most of them. Her scene at the parting of her brother for the penitentiary was especially commendable.

Equally touching, in the role of the "big brother," was Carroll Nye. Mr. Nye's appealing boyishness won for him the ready sympathy of the audience to his role.

Running away with the juvenile honors was small Master Mickey McBan. The youngster played his difficult role with surprising aptness, and scored an individual triumph with his interpretation of Bobby Sullivan.

Ian Keith appeared in the male lead opposite Miss Miller.

Other members of the cast included Hazel Howell and Lillian Langdon.

The feature was directed by Charles Reisner.

A series of novelty films and newsreels completed the program.

Arbuckle Will Appear in Act for Pantages

Starting with today's matinee at Pantages Theater, Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle will appear at every performance for one week only before sailing for Europe to re-enter pictures.

"Fatty" Arbuckle will act as master of ceremonies for the entire show and will clown with every act on the bill this week at Pantages Theater.

Other Pantages circuit acts include the "Whirl of Broadway," a dancing and singing turn; Sid Lewis, called "God's gift to the amusement world;" the Alexander Sisters, and the Sirlany Troupe in hand and foot balancing.

On the screen will be seen a race-track picture, "Down the Stretch," from the story by Gerald Beaumont, with Marian Nixon, Robert Agnew and Otis Harlan.

DIET and HEALTH

BALLET DANCING AS AN EXERCISE

Two little girls were turning cartwheels on their lawn. I stopped and watched them for a while.

(I must explain that this was at a time when I was quite overweight.)

"That's a wonderful exercise, girls," I said to them. "You continue doing those every day of your life and you'll never get fat."

"Why don't you do it?" one of them frankly asked me.

I am reminded of this little incident by an article on ballet dancing, written by Dr. Phillip Lewin, an orthopedic surgeon, for the March, 1927, number of the Hygeia. I'm going to give you some excerpts from it. As a corrector of deformities, he naturally writes his article from the standpoint of health and the correction and prevention of deformities. He emphasizes the importance of the instructor's knowledge of anatomy.

"Through ballet dancing the girl may develop and improve in concentration, poise, sense of balance, quickness and accuracy of thinking, coordination of mind, muscle and body, and sense of rhythm both of music and of movement. Added to these mental health benefits is the important factor of enjoyment . . .

"Physical health benefits are found in improved circulation and digestion and in development of muscle (of both the heart and the skeleton,) ligament, tendon and bony skeleton . . .

"Improvement in body symmetry, carriage, posture and physical attitude is great . . . Children who are overweight are benefitted by the physical activity of ballet dancing, for it has a tendency to prevent the deposition of fat. The thin child is improved by the general stimulation of bodily functions, especially circulatory, muscular and digestive functions . . .

"As an auxiliary to sunlight, fresh air, cod liver oil and phosphorus, proper hygiene and dietetics, ballet dancing is valuable in the correction of such conditions as knock-knee and bow-leg. These conditions are usually due to nutritional disturbances, the most important of which is rickets . . .

"A child of four years is not too young to benefit from ballet dancing. She can be taught the simple hop-skip and other combinations. From the standpoint of a career, 6 years is the proper age to start. It is the unusual child that should be allowed to attempt toe dancing before she is 10 years of age.

"Ballet dancing is the foundation of all branches of dancing. Through ballet work the muscles may be properly developed and the balance and poise necessary in any kind of dancing is obtained . . .

"One cannot help but be impressed with the comparative benefits to be derived from a training in ballet dancing over that received in many other courses of study. In none of the other arts, such as piano, elocution, dramatics or voice culture, are all of the muscles of the body called into play as in dancing, nor is the child given the opportunity to express herself as naturally or as rhythmically as in ballet dancing . . .

"Acrobatics may be a valuable auxiliary to ballet dancing. It must be taught by a specially trained instructor, who must give every child individual attention in order to prevent injury. Back bending stunts must not be indulged in too strenuously or too constantly. In children with thyroid gland disturbance acrobatics and sometimes ballet dancing are to be avoided."

While the doctor has mentioned "girl" through his article, ballet dancing is equally good for the boy and adults, too, as a healthful and enjoyable form of exercise.

YOUR BABY and MINE
By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope, forwarded to this office, will bring a personal reply.

This department does not often print letters of advice for the reason that once started it would find the space allotted us continually used for that purpose.

This is such a nice letter and such a sensible one that I am impelled to use it.

It says what we have tried always to say on the subject of bedwetting. It is a problem which should be handled with kindness, and not bitterness and cruelty. Unless a child is doing this because he unconsciously wants to "get back" at a hard-hearted parent, it is a habit which he dislikes as much as does the parent.

If he is using it as a method of being annoying, obviously being kind to him and giving him the love and attention he is unconsciously angling for, is likewise the method of cure.

Mrs. S. L. S. writes:

"Your article about the 14-year-old victim of bed-wetting distressed me deeply. Your 'unnecessarily severe' is very tactful and I commend your wisdom. But how can any woman be so utterly devoid of human kindness toward an unfortunate girl who is in the most critical period of her life? This girl needs either medical treatment or the habit has been formed by a neglected and untrained babyhood and is now as unconsciously done as her breathing.

"If she is situated under the least favorable of home conditions she needs to be encouraged and not humiliated. She will have to make an almost superhuman effort especially if she gets no help at home.

"If she will bind a thick cloth about her thumb, this will remind her not to suck it when she finds it in her mouth. If she persists this will effect a cure.

"One of my own girls was 12 years of age and had wet the bed ever since she could remember. It was pitiful to see her waken in the morning and cry for shame of it.

"Finally I set an alarm clock for midnight and placed it by her pillow. She drank lots of water early in the day and none after four at night. She had an early, light and non-irritating supper. She retired at 9. At midnight she set the alarm for 3 o'clock. We all rose at 6. It was lots of trouble but the cure was worth it. She co-operated and persisted faithfully. Gradually we lengthened the time of the clock, until she did not need it at all."

The value of using the clock is that it establishes a regular hour for going to the toilet and soon the person will awaken at this hour and no other, and being awake will take care to go to the toilet."

Mrs. P.: I think you sent to the wrong department for recipes of fudge and taffy, didn't you?

Correction of an Error:

Inadvertently some one is responsible for the statement that a 14-months old baby can take three teaspoonfuls of maltose daily. This should have been three tablespoonfuls level.

MOTHERS AND THEIR CHILDREN

Washstand for the Little Tots

One Mother Says:

Although our homes are established primarily for our children, yet few of us arrange things for their convenience and proper height.

A wooden candy pail makes a very convenient little washstand. If a circle is sawed from the bottom of the pail the wash basin will fit securely into the stand.

A hook or nail fastened to the side of the pail for the face cloth is an added convenience. Children do not object to "washing," but they do object to being washed.

The pail may be enameled and stenciled, or a wall paper "cutout" may be glued to the side and varnished.

Bonds for Fire Department of City Advocated

The City Council has received a communication from the Community Development Association urging the necessity of an immediate bond issue "in amount sufficient to bring the Los Angeles Fire Department and its equipment up to a point of adequacy to meet the needs of the city."

The association's letter also urged the adoption of a rat-proof building ordinance "to safeguard as far as possible future building construction against the menace of rats."

The LAST WORD
By ALMA WHITAKER

"THE KID"

I have known him for ten years as a dignified, white-haired old gentleman of courtly manners and amazing literary knowledge. He is the head of the department in a book publishing house and reads and recommends the work of new authors for publication.

You can never tell what they will grow into. In a confidential little chat recently, I discovered that this thoroughly nice old gentleman with the scholarly curtured manner was once a roughneck young prize-fighter with almost no education, who used to bum around the country fighting almost anyone who would let him, white, brown or black. Between fights he usually got a job attending to the toilette of horses.

And one of his most cherished possessions today is a little book of neatly pasted clippings from the sports columns of newspapers in which he is referred to as "Kid" O'Burke. He fetched it out sheepishly yet reverently withal, for my inspection, and he didn't let me miss up on one flattering remark about his prowess.

"But how on earth did you acquire all your literary knowledge? When did you get your education?" I wanted to know.

"Well, I had a friend who was an Irish cop," grinned this stately old gentleman, "and he thought I was Irish too, although I only took that name and cultivated a brogue because the Irish are popular in the ring. And Tim had a cute little sister he was putting through college who liked me, or anyway, said she could if I wasn't so rough. So I used to give her books instead of flowers and candy—but she said she wouldn't accept them if I didn't read 'em myself.

"So that got me interested and pretty soon I needed no persuasion to read everything I could lay my hands on. I read all the books she had to read in her English classes, and then lots more by the same authors, and pretty soon I had decided I would be a bookstore clerk. Believe me, I had a task smartening myself up for that job. But I was terribly proud of knowing a girl who went to college—you see, women were only just beginning to go to college then.

"My first job was $8 a week in a Chicago bookstore, still doing some fighting on the side to help out. When I was raised to $12 a week, and had won a $200 purse beside, I asked her to marry me."

"And did she?" I inquired eagerly.

"She did not," he grinned. "She married her English professor. And years after, when I had gone into the publishing business, I caught her youngster and my own to handle the gloves. But, you see, in my case it certainly was better to have loved and lost than never to have loved at all. But for her, I might never have been interested in books at all."

So I am offering this most respectable, delightful, dignified old man as an answer to Mrs. G. A., who is extremely worried because her husband will have her boys take boxing lessons. She says she fears it will make them rough and brutal. She says it will take them into bad company. In fact, it is her idea of ruining the boys' lives and unfitting them to ever become gentlemen. Especially as one of them already yearns to be a professional prize-fighter although he is only 15 years of age.

The first newspaper story I ever wrote was about a prize-fight for the lightweight championship. And I was most impressed by the stern discipline of training and the sacrifices these boys were willing to make to keep fit, to keep their minds and bodies alert, their eyes clear. I decided then that it should be easy to make gentlemen of prize-fighters, such wonderful raw material to work on.

ISLAND TRIP PLANS NOW COMPLETE

Announcement Made by Chamber Secretary on Hawaiian Excursion

With the completion of the itinerary for the Tenth Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce excursion to the Hawaiian Islands, plans for the trip have been concluded, according to Charles P. Bayer, field secretary of the chamber, who will head the party.

The excursionists will leave Los Angeles on June 4, next, returning on the 25th. The voyage will be made aboard the new liner City of Honolulu, and will inaugurate the ship's entrance into the Hawaiian service.

While in the islands every conceivable entertainment will be offered for the visitors, according to word from Max Linder, the chamber's Hawaiian representative. He stated that elaborate plans are being worked out for the reception to the excursion party.

Included in the plans for the visitors are all-day motor trips around the islands, visits to the extinct and active volcanoes as well as the lava flows, participation in native feasts and entertainments, swimming, surf-board riding and other equatic sports, and visits to the pineapple, cane and other agricultural points of interest.

According to Mr. Bayer, who has headed practically all the Chamber of Commerce excursions for the past seven years, more interest is being shown in the coming Hawaiian trip than ever before. New features have been arranged. The new liner booked for the trip is said by steamship officials to be the finest American ship on the Pacific. En route to and from Hawaii deck games, dancing, swimming and other ship sports and entertainments will be engaged in by the excursionists.

Oleomargarine Grows in Favor With Americans

Oleomargarine continues to gain favor with the American public. A report made public yesterday by Galen H. Welch, Collector of Internal Revenue, shows that during the last fiscal year, 234,956,753 pounds of oleomargarine were produced, an increase of 32,740,803 pounds over the preceding fiscal year. At the beginning of the fiscal year, July 1, 1926, there were sixty-one oleomargarine factories in operation.

"Cooking compounds placed on the market in good faith as such and which do not resemble butter in flavor, texture or appearance, are exempt from the tax on oleomargarine," Collecter Welch stated. "But combinations that look like butter have been declared taxable as artificially colored oleomargarine."

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS WILL DANCE TONIGHT

Eddie Quillan, film star, will attend the Knights of Columbus annual Easter Monday ball at El Patio tonight, and endeavor to select Miss Personality of 1927. The juvenile team, Billy Bemis and Vivian Mitchell, will present a French classic waltz, Persian and Russian solo numbers, and an Adagio in Gold; and Jeanne Navelle, Wampus baby star, will offer a special number. Sylvia Breamer and Corliss Palmer, stars of the cinema and at present appearing at the Belmont Theater, will assist Quillan in selecting Miss Personality.

ASSETS AND LIABILITIES

Tradition is a strong influence in the lives of men and women. It sweeps soldiers on to victory in the face of threatened defeat; it has spurred women to effort when confronted by failure, and it has been a consolation when success has come.

It was tradition that influenced Katherine Fredericks to continue her husband's business after his death that her son might one day inherit it. The Los Angeles Furniture Company is the oldest house of its kind in Los Angeles; it has been established for fifty-seven years, and three generations have been identified with the furniture business in California.

Katherine Fredericks knew nothing of business fifteen years ago. When she married she devoted herself to the management of her home; her tastes were domestic, they still are; she left business details to her husband; even the language of the commercial world was an unknown tongue. There were three little children, a boy and two girls, and when death took the head of the house, Mrs. Fredericks assumed its obligations.

Indeed Mrs. Fredericks was so unfamiliar with such words as assets and liabilities that she felt a glow of pride when her husband's lawyer pointed out that the latter greatly exceeded the former. She liked that long word "liabilities;" it gave her a feeling of importance that she had so many!

The lawyer and the banker urged her to sell the business. There was the lease for the Spring-street store; it had ten years to run, and retail business was already moving south on Broadway and west on Seventh street.

But there were all those liabilities! Of course, she would continue the business. Then some one enlightened her, but she clung determinedly to the idea of having the son inherit the father's business.

It was a hard fight, one that began anew with every dawn and carried the burden of many yesterdays that had piled up those liabilities. There was the family destiny, too; the problems of the home and those three young lives must be solved when the day was done. Slowly liabilities were replaced by assets; they crept up over the edge of the ledger and found foothold upon its pages.

One thinks of a soldier as battle-scarred, but there are no marks of the fray upon the countenance of Mrs. Fredericks. She moves among the rich furnishings displayed upon the balcony opening from her office rather as a gracious mistress in a beautiful home; her brown eyes are serene, smiling; her voice gentle, soft; there is nothing of decision in her tones, no keen-eyed appraisements so characteristic of the business woman.

Katherine Fredericks has every reason to greet the world smilingly. She has carried the Los Angeles Furniture Company through stormy years, lived out that lease in a district that had ceased to be commercially profitable within a year after she took charge, and she has seen her decision to move to the Hill-street location fully justified.

Mrs. Fredericks has seen her son win his way through college and join her in the business; she has even won her son-in-law to associate himself with the enterprise she heads. It's a family affair, just as she planned it should be that hazy day when she welcomed the opportunity to carry on a business that had so many delightful liabilities!

But today she knows the difference, and sees to it, that the assets keep a good mile ahead of Old Man Liability.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

No Crumbs

When taking toast, or any crisp article of food, to an invalid, first cut it into strips. This will avoid a shower of crumbs over the bed when the food is broken.

Something to Know

If your gravy for the roast dinner seems rather flavorless and cannot be pronounced a success, add a few tablespoonfuls of tomato catsup. It will give it a fine color and flavor.

Machine Stitching

When stitching on a two-thread machine, instead of cutting the thread at the end of a finished seam, turn and stitch back again for an inch before cutting the thread. The seam will never rip and the task of tying the ends is avoided.

Soap Jelly

Dissolve a bar of white kitchen soap in one quart of boiling water and add one tablespoonful kerosene. Keep this jelly handy to the kitchen sink and use it after the dishes are done each meal. Apply with a clean cloth; it will do wonders if applied regularly three times a day.

To Keep that Schoolgirl Complexion
By VILMA BANKY

© 1927 Pacific Beauty Features

Don't gamble with your skin. Use only a true complexion soap

SKIN cleanliness is the modern basis of beauty. The rule for that schoolgirl complexion is never to leave powder, make-up or rouge on your face over night.

Now beauty experts urge careful washing with soap and water, regularly, each night.

But be sure you use only a true complexion soap. Be sure it is a beauty soap, one made for that purpose and no other. For otherwise you risk much.

Palmolive Soap has changed the world's conception of what a beauty soap should be. Before its creation all soaps were adjudged too harsh for women's faces.

Made of true cosmetic oils, made solely for ONE purpose, to protect the skin, Palmolive is the most widely urged soap in the world today for complexion use. In Paris it is supplanting domestic soaps.

For true skin beauty, get Palmolive today. Cleanse the skin with its balmy olive and palm lather regularly, and particularly at bedtime every night.

Do that for one week. Note how much better your skin. Costs but 10c a cake. Take care that you get the genuine Palmolive. Green soaps represented as of olive and palm oils are not the same. They are but crude imitations. The Palmolive-Peet Co., Chicago, U. S. A.

It's no puzzle at all to the woman who knows M·J·B. For experience has taught her that because M·J·B is a coffee of concentrated strength and richness she can use less to the cup and still have a rich, full-bodied drink.

Now—consider that the average family uses 40 cups of coffee per week. Then—consider that this saving can be carried through 52 weeks of the year—and—what's the answer? Simply this:

M·J·B is your best coffee-buy because it gives you more coffee contentment and costs you less in the long run.

NEW DEVICES SORELY NEEDED

Time for Inventors to Start Working

NOW that an ingenious Los Angeles man has perfected a sure-fire burglar alarm-and-catcher, the path has been blazed for others who possess an inventive turn of mind.

With all respect to R. E. Lively, whose device consists of a slip-trigger attached to a cord which enables him to release his watchdog without leaving his warm bed, he has merely scratched the surface. His invention is painfully practicable, but there are many other things that ought to be invented and one inventor, no matter how clever or industrious, cannot hope to do the job single-handed.

One man in Hollywood is reported to have lost his mental balance trying to perfect a film title which could not be read aloud, but his problem was more complex than the ordinary. For instance, it should be easy to build a public telephone booth which would eject the patron after three minutes' conversation. A portable parking space, which might be carried on the running board when not in use, is, of course, out of the question, so why cannot somebody build a collapsible automobile on the principle of a pocket drinking cup, or perhaps, a concertina?

A few other needed inventions one might mention at random are: Table silverware which cannot be picked up ere to turn left after indicating the opposite direction, and other really useful things like these.

Opportunity is knocking at the door with a sledge-hammer!

Shooting Laid to Game With 'Deuces Wild'

Argument as to whether "deuces were wild" in an asserted poker game at 654½ North Main street resulted, according to the police, in Carl Johnson, 28 years of age, being shot in the side and the arrest early yesterday morning of Paul E. Bunch, 36, on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon. Johnson's wound was not considered serious, police stated, when he was given emergency treatment at the Receiving Hospital. He later was transferred to the General Hospital.

Johnson and Bunch both admitted, the police stated, that they became engaged in an argument over a poker game. Bunch said Johnson jumped on him and he shot in self-defense. Johnson, the police report states, denied this and said Bunch shot him without provocation.

Several hours after the asserted fight Bunch was arrested at the home of his brother at 2445 Shorsdale avenue.

Child Set Upon and Choked by House-Breaker

MAY STILLMAN.

May Stillman, 13 years of age, of 1237 Los Palos street, early yesterday morning was attacked and choked by an intruder who broke into her bedroom. The screams of her sister Ethel, 14, who was aroused by May's groans and struggles, drove the man from the house. The girl was not seriously hurt.

The children, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Stillman, told detectives from the Hollenbeck Heights division that the attack took place about 1 a.m. The man gained entrance to the house by prying a screen on a window.

When Mr. Stillman, a carpenter, ran to the bedroom of his daughters the intruder had fled, leaping out the window and running along the side of the house to railroad tracks in the rear. The girls described him as being heavy set.

Next Saturday at noon the club will meet with the Council on International Relations and the League of Women Voters and the subject "Mussolini, Asset or Liability?" will be discussed by Louis Valpera, Prof. Constantine Panunzio, George Gleason and others.

Plans Enlarged for Sessions of Medical Men

Greatly increasing the plans for the California Medical Association's fifty-sixth annual convention to be conducted from next Monday until the following Thursday night at the Biltmore, Dr. William Duffield of the Philharmonic Auditorium Building, general chairman of local arrangements, announced yesterday that the attendance figure in all probability will reach 4000.

DR. WILLIAM DUFFIELD

The announcement of twice the attendance as was formerly anticipated set the local committee scurrying. Special meetings at once were called and the convention plans were ordered carried through on double the scale previously scheduled.

In addition to the 4000 physicians, surgeons and health experts, the convention is expected to attract hundreds of other persons, for many of the sessions, including several special lectures at night in untechnical phraseology, are open to the general public.

Clergy Indorse Junior Chamber Clean-up Week

Clerical indorsements of "clean-up and paint-up" week sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce were obtained yesterday from Rabbi E. F. Magnin, Rev. Herbert Booth Smith, Rev. James A. Francis, Rev. Thomas J. O'Dwyer, Rev. Willsie Martin and Dr. W. E. McCulloch, president of the Church Federation, the chamber announced. It was also said the San Fernando Valley communities are especially enthusiastic and are working hard under the chairmanship of Erskine Girard, with community chairmen in each community.

Complaint of health menaces, fire hazards, unsightly and unclean premises should be reported this week to C. L. Rawson, secretary-manager of the junior chamber, the announcement said. A clean-up program for the entire year has been drawn up by the chamber, with special suggestions for each month. Street and interurban railroads are co-operating in the movement by cutting weeds and burning rubbish along their rights of way.

TEMPLE MEN'S CLUB TO CONDUCT FROLIC

A "Days of '49" camp and pageant with cinema stars appearing in costumes of gold-rush days will open the affair, which the men's club expects materially to diminish the congregation's incumbrance.

AD MEN TO SEE CINEMA CAPITAL

Party of 125 to Make Trip This Summer

Easterners Will Be Guests of Wampas

Group Delegates to Denver Convention

One hundred and twenty-five or more advertising men of New York City and other eastern cities, are coming to Hollywood in a special train early in July and for two days will be guests of the Wampas, the Western Association of Motion-Picture Advertising and Publicity Men.

The advertising men are delegates to the annual convention of the Association of Advertising Clubs of the World to be held this year in Denver, and the visit to Hollywood is a side-trip arranged by Paul Meyer, publisher of the Theater Magazine, New York City, so the advertising men, allied or associated with motion-picture and theatrical advertising generally, can see the studios.

F. H. Deknatel, an executive of the Bigelow-Hart-Ford Carpet Company, New York City, and active in the Advertising Club of New York City, is chairman of the on-to-Denver committee of the New York club. Mr. Meyer is a director of the Advertising Club of New York.

"The delegates coming to Hollywood are the leaders in their professions and represent publishers of newspapers, magazines, syndicates, advertising agencies handling national accounts involving millions and millions of dollars annually," said Ray Coffin, president of the Wampas.

Woman Found Guilty in Fight Over Accident

Municipal Judge Baird found Mrs. Alice Neunzig, 2325 Washington Boulevard, guilty on a charge of assault and battery on the person of Mrs. Sue Jones, 4218½ West Adams street as an aftermath to an automobile accident.

Mrs. Jones swore to a complaint against Mrs. Neunzig charging the defendant with severely beating her the night of March 14, last, after a car in which the plaintiff was riding had accidentally collided with the Neunzig machine parked in front of the latter's residence.

Mrs. H. E. Lundberg, 1057 North New Hampshire street, said she sideswiped the Neunzig car, but had immediately stopped and when Mr. Neunzig came from the house, gave him her number and name and explained that her car was insured for such events.

"Then the woman came from the house and began striking Mrs. Jones as we started to return to our machine. She struck her several times," Mrs. Lindberg testified, as did the plaintiff and other witnesses.

Mrs. Neunzig denied even leaving the house or laying a hand on the plaintiff. She offered a belated alibi after a two-day continuance, but it failed to convince Judge Baird.

On his judgment of guilty, Judge Baird imposed a fine of $50 or ten days and suspended one-half of the penalty.

Woman Will Face Court if Doctors Agree

Providing General Hospital physicians will permit, Bessie McAllister, jointly accused with five men of the murder in an automobile accident on the 2nd inst. of E. Percy Ingmire, will be arraigned on the charge today before Superior Judge Edmonds.

Others in the case, Frank P. Farley and George Hudson, Federal dry agents, and Joseph McBride, Thomas Henderson and Axel Anderson, the latter three sailors in the Navy, already have been arraigned and pleaded not guilty. They will appear for trial on the 27th inst.

It was indicated that S. S. Hahn and W. T. Helms, defense counsel, will seek for a continuance of the case until May 18, asserting they have not had an opportunity to prepare the case.

WIFE WINS DIVORCE

Woman Whose Husband Sought Annulment Given Decree

A judgment for $15 and an interlocutory decree of divorce were all that remained yesterday of Betty Woodland's marriage venture following the filing of Superior Judge Valentine's opinion in her husband's suit for annulment of the bonds of wedlock. There was nothing left to show for the expense of $780 for her trousseau and $97, which she said she spent for the wedding feast.

The $15 was awarded to Mrs. Woodland because she averred she loaned Harold Woodland, her husband, that amount of money following their wedding and he never returned it.

The original suit brought by Harold Woodland charged that his wife was not the woman he had thought her to be before their marriage, and asked annulment.

In a cross-complaint, Mrs. Woodland charged that her husband had misrepresented his wealth, stating that he owned $16,000 worth of stock in the Theobold-Woodland Company, three valuable lots, carried $20,000 in life insurance and was the father of two children.

Mrs. Woodland asked for an interlocutory decree of divorce and judgment for $994, which she charged she had been caused to expend on preparations for her marriage and household expenses because of her husband's asserted misrepresentations.

Mrs. Woodland was represented by Attorney James S. Roche. Joseph M. Wepner acted as attorney for Mr. Woodland.

SUPPORT URGED FOR AUTO LAW

Whole-Hearted Backing of Public Asked in Radio Talk by Police

Whole-hearted support of the cause of accident prevention was urged in an address given over KHJ by the police bureau of public safety yesterday.

The public was urged to co-operate with the police department in making the streets of the city safe. Enthusiastic adherence to the principle of safety should be given by every individual, it was said.

"Be loyal to the laws of our State, and that loyalty, given by individuals, with willing enthusiasm, will abolish traffic accidents."

SOUTHLAND HILLTOPS TURNED TO ALTARS ON EASTER MORN

Sun Rises Into Perfect Sky as Countless Pilgrims Throng About Worship Centers for Services at Dawn

"Men are growing kinder," said the speaker. "I have no doubt about that. I see proofs of it everywhere—especially, it seems to me, among our young veterans, the 'doughboys' who still wear army 'puts' as they drive trucks or mend motors or build roads. They saw and felt suffering 'over there,' and suffering is the best school for sympathy. The men who knew how to 'treat 'em rough' in war time, are now proving by their deeds that 'the bravest are the tenderest.' Love is still the greatest thing in the world. At this hour of the sunrise, on this day that is sacred to the dawn, we greet the sunrise of a new day for all mankind."

THRONG AT BOWL

The picturesque Hollywood Bowl nestled in the green hills at the foot of Cahuenga Pass provided a place of worship for approximately 35,000 persons. Just as the sun cast its first rays over the surrounding hills four trumpeters on slopes gracing either side of the mammoth platform sounded the call for the services. The trumpeters were Essie Binkley Locy, Orva Johnson, Innice Millican and Adeline N. Glidden.

But long before the trumpeters, in flowing white gowns, took their places people started to gather in this world-famous open temple of music ready to celebrate Easter. They were still coming in as the services started, filling nearly every seat of the bowl, many finding a place to look on from the hillsides and pathways surrounding.

One of the spectacular sights was the forming of a human cross on a side of the hill to the rear of the stage by the children of the Hollywood Sunrise Chorus. At a signal from Hugo Kirchhofer, director, the children removed their coats, presenting a pure white cross, the green grass around it furnishing a beautiful background. The chorus, accompanied by Inez Jackson, sang "Christ, the Lord, Is Risen Today."

The services were opened by the Hollywood Community Orchestra, directed by Jay Plowe, which played "Coronation March." Dr. J. C. Fry gave the invocation. Then the audience arose and sang "Holy, Holy, Holy" to the accompaniment of the orchestra. Scripture reading by Dr S. J. Mathieson followed.

The Easter message was delivered by Dr. James H. Lash, pastor of the Hollywood Congregational Church.

"All Hail the Power of Jesus's Name" then was sung by the audience after which was the doxology, participated in by the people, orchestra, chorus and trumpeters. Benediction was given by Rev. L. V. Lucas.

Those in charge of the services said the crowd began pouring into the bowl as early as 3 a.m., and before very long all the choice seats in the front had been taken. During the hours before the services the hills re-echoed to the strains of an organ recital by J. B. Nield.

A majority of the people went to the Bowl by automobile, although thousands got there by special street-car service, furnished by the Pacific Electric. Every available parking place was taken and automobiles lined the streets almost as far down as Hollywood Boulevard and to the top of Cahuenga Pass.

The traffic situation was taken care of without incident by Boy Scouts and police officers from the Hollywood station.

UNDER GIANT PEPPER TREE

Under a giant pepper tree at the Mt. Washington Educational Center, more than 300 devoted men, women and children gathered at sunrise to participate in a beautiful service. The program was featured by organ selections by Miss Ruth Brady; vocal solos by Tilda Rohr and flute numbers by Miss Victoria Jones.

Following the breakfast hour, many members of the audience visited the meditation room, recently furnished for the use of all students "who seek the deep silence of the soul." The devotee, entering this room, must divest himself of his shoes and refrain from reading or speaking, even in a whisper, while in the sanctuary.

Four reasons for the supremacy of Christ were pointed out by Rev. J. Hudson Ballard, director of religious education of Occidental College, in his address on "The Risen Christ" at Easter sunrise services in the Occidental Bowl.

More than 1200 persons attended the service.

The first, he said, was His resurrection, which proved beyond question that Christ was really the Son of God, after scoffers and unbelievers had rejected Him as an impostor. Even His own disciples turned away from Him, the speaker recalled, and all seemed ended until the miracle of Easter dawn. The second reason was defined as the Master's pledge that all who follow Him shall also rise from the dead. Thirdly, Jesus's earthly life served as an ideal pattern for all mankind to follow, Rev. Ballard said, and lastly, he endowed all who follow Him with the same power which He possessed.

More than 1200 persons attended the service.

Testimony of truthful women and of the disciples of Jesus, as well as the testimony of the Spirit of God in the hearts of His children, prove the truth of the resurrection story and assure the followers of Christ a blessed life beyond the gates of death, according to Dr. Walter S. Buchanan, pastor of the Arlington Christian Church, who gave the Easter message yesterday at the sunrise services conducted at his church.

More than 300 worshipers attended the program which was featured by Gospel hymns played on the great chimes, with Mrs. A. B. Carpenter at the organ, solos by Mrs. George Watson and the reading of the scriptural resurrection story by Miss Mary Bernice Buchanan.

At the evening service several new members of the church were baptised in the new baptistry which, by many architectural artists, has been pronounced the most beautiful baptistry in America.

ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL

Communion services at St. Paul's Cathedral early yesterday morning and at 9:30 and 11 a.m. were attended by hundreds of worshipers and overflow services were conducted at the Parish House by Rev. F. L. Gibson, assistant pastor to Rev. Harry Beal. Early communion also was observed at St. John's and other Episcopal churches while early mass was sung at all Catholic churches of Los Angeles and vicinity.

Services at the various churches during the day were well attended, the early morning services having apparently increased the desire of the people to devote the day to worship.

Besides conducting services at headquarters and at various institutions supported by the Salvation Army, members of Maj. J. C. Bell's organization of mercy participated yesterday at two sunrise services. Under supervision of Adjt. H. Carroll, who commands Citadel Corps No. 2, a band of musicians from that citadel helped to furnish the music at the Palos Verdes sunrise service, which was attended by more than 500 persons. Another band from Citadel No. 2, directed by H. Gooding, accompanied a large detachment of Salvation Army lassies to the General Hospital and dispensed heart-lifting harmonies, while their happy companions distributed flowers, fruits and other gifts of beauty and utility to the grateful patients.

The story of the world's most astounding miracle, the resurrection of the Man who was and is the friend of all men of all ages, was told simply but effectively by "Brother" Tom Liddecoat to hundreds of men who gathered early yesterday morning at the Midnight Mission to drink in his words of cheer and good will and to be guests of the superintendent at the elaborate breakfast which was served free to all.

The annual Easter service of Los Angeles Knights Templar was held at Westlake Methodist Church. Los Angeles Commandery No. 9 and Golden West Commandery No. 43 uniting for the occasion. The knights, in full regalia, assembled at the Masonic Temple at Pico and Figueroa streets, and marched to the church, where the address was delivered by Sir Knight Dr. George M. Warmer, pastor. A musical program was given by the Hollenbeck Masonic Chanters and the church quartet, with special numbers by Neil Gothold and G. Alexander Hyer. Grand Commander A. D. Cavanaugh of Sawtelle also took part in the service.

The Church of Divine Power conducted a sunrise service at Hollywoodland which began at 5 a.m. with the clear, soft notes of a bugle call. The musical program that followed was under direction of Adolf Tandler, conductor of the Little Symphony Orchestra, and included the singing of "The Hosanna," by Charles E. Rykert, followed by a dramatic interpretation from the Bible. There were hymns by the audience and solos by Lucy Day, soprano of the Pilgrimage Play, and Paul Lebanoff. Leila Castberg, pastor of the church, preached the sermon.

MANY SERVICES IN SAN FERNANDO VALLEY

VAN NUYS, April 17.—Dawn on Easter morning saw the opening of several sunrise services in the San Fernando Valley section. They were at Cahuenga Park, Encino Country Club, Greek Theater of the Owensmouth High School, Owensmouth, public park at Lankershim and at La Crescenta, where the Odd Fellows' members assembled formally to celebrate.

"Daybreak Through the Centuries," a pageant, was presented by the Cahuenga Park Community Sunday-school in the community auditorium. Dr. Roberta Smith, Mrs. Marvin McFarland and Mrs. C. E. Stebbins were in charge.

At the Encino Country Club the services were under the auspices of the Van Nuys Presbyterian Church, with the program under the direction of Florence Lydia Baird, with Charles Fliniau. The program consisted of a cornet solo by Arba Stiverson; hymn by the church congregation; invocation, followed by the Lord's Prayer, by David Farquharson, pastor of the Van Nuys church; soprano solo by Mrs. Baird; address by Rev. Farquharson. In the afternoon at 4 o'clock a sacred concert was given.

The sunrise program at Owensmouth was arranged by the Owensmouth Woman's Club. The program was participated in by Stephen Adams, John Arant, William B. Bradbury, Owensmouth High School girls, Harley L. Piscus, director; J. Prindle Scott, Mrs. Florence Bentley, Rev. Clyde F. Metcalf, pastor Community Church; Rev. J. A. B. Irby, pastor Hollywood Methodist Church; A. Hansel, Nickerson-Arant Brass Quartet, J. Prindle Scott, Mrs. Florence Bentley, Harley L. Piscus and Prof. Stephen Seddon.

At Lankershim the Four Square Gospel Church had charge of the services in the Southern Pacific Park, where an Easter cross had been erected.

Members of Odd Fellows' lodges from San Fernando and Tujunga valleys and from Burbank and Glendale took part in the services at Montrose in La Crescenta Valley.

In addition to the sunrise services all churches in San Fernando and Tujunga valleys conducted Easter Day services, many of the pulpits being occupied by visiting clergymen. In each instance lengthy Easter Day music programs had been prepared.

REDONDO BEACH GREETS EASTER MORN

REDONDO BEACH, April 17.—One thousand people joined in the sunrise service held by the churches of Redondo Beach this morning on the crest of a hill above Via Del Monte in the Palos Verdes Estates. The bugle call sounded at 5:15 greeted the dawn of the Easter morn and was followed by sacred music led by an assembled chorus and an orchestra from the Christian, Congregational, Baptist and First Methodist churches. Rev. Owen Umpstead of the First Congregational Church gave the invocation and Rev. Earns of the First Baptist Church the Scripture reading. The sermon was by Rev. Harry Hill of the First Christian Church. The benediction was pronounced by Rev. J. E. Houlgate at the First Methodist Church. Sunrise and Easter services were conducted throughout the day in all of the churches and at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Vesper services in charge of the Campfire Girls were conducted at the Congregational Church.

EASTER PRAISE AT HERMOSA BEACH

HERMOSA BEACH, April 17.—The dawn of Easter morn in Hermosa Beach was greeted by sunrise services on Sunset Hill at Eighth and Camino Real overlooking the bay, San Gabriel Mountains and the ocean islands. About 1500 persons united in the services, which were conducted by the combined Evangelical churches and sponsored by the sunshine minglers. The program of sacred music was opened by a cornet solo by Leon Brison, followed by the "Gloria" by a chorus of twelve voices from the churches of Hermosa, Redondo and Manhattan beaches. Rev. F. W. Huff gave the invocation and the Scriptural reading was by Rev. L. T. Barkman. Rev. Ralph B. Larkin, D.D., delivered the Easter message followed by the reading of Van Dyke's "God of the Open Air," by Carlos H. Salinas.

The benediction was by Rev. G. P. Carl.

McGROARTY PLAY GIVEN IN PASADENA

PASADENA, April 17.—"The First Easter in California," John Steven McGroarty's picturesque pageant depicting how the message of the resurrection was brought to the Indians by Fra Junipero Serra and his followers, was given its annual presentation this morning on the lawn of the Hotel Huntington before several thousand spectators.

The pageant, which was written especially for presentation at the Huntington, was given by a cast of 100 Mission Play actors in a setting of remarkable beauty.

Fra Junipero Serra is conducting his first Easter services in the new land when a band of Indians rush in to attack the missionaries. The priest's words halt them, and they finally are won to the Christian faith. Chorus singing of religious hymns, an Indian dance and a brief sermon are interpolated in the pageant.

William Ellingsford of the Mission Play took the part of Junipero Serra, while Chief John Rainbow led the Indians.

Another feature of Easter observance in Pasadena was the sunrise service conducted at the Rose Bowl under the auspices of the Pasadena Pastors' Union.

At 5:15, chimes of the Pasadena Presbyterian Church began playing in the stadium, through a special broadcasting arrangement, and were followed by music by the Firemen's Band. The congregation then joined in hymns led by John Henry Lyons. Prayer by Rev. James Leishman of the Pasadena Presbyterian Church, and a scripture reading by Rev. H. L. Caldwell of the Calvary Baptist Church, followed.

The Easter sermon was preached by Rev. James Allen Geisinger of the Hollston-avenue Methodist Church.

TWO SERVICES AT SANTA MONICA

SANTA MONICA, April 17.—Easter vesper services at Inspiration Point, Ocean avenue and Adelaide Drive, attracted thousands of motorists and Pacific Electric passengers at 4:30 this afternoon. Inspiration Point overlooks the ocean at Santa Monica Canyon, and the Santa Monica commissioners had made arrangements so that a vast congregation could be accommodated. The Bay Cities Music Association, under leadership of Mrs. Joseph Zuckerman, sponsored an impressive program, assisted by Santa Monica's municipal band, led by Alfredo Tommasino. Nino Marcelli directed the Bay Cities' chorus, and Mrs. Hennion Robinson was accompanist. Soloists were Tandy Mackenzie, Scotch-Hawaiian tenor, and Monnie Hayes Hastings, soprano. Invocation was by Rev. W. H. Cornett and Rev. W. W. Pierson delivered the benediction at this sunset service.

Four thousand Easter worshipers joined the beautiful Lily Recessional at Peace Hill, Pacific Palisades, following sunrise services which started at 5:15 this morning. Dr. O. B. Waite presided and Dr. Kerr Boyce Tupper of Philadelphia preached the sermon, his topic being "The Resurrection Memorial—Its Meaning and Mission." The Pacific Palisades community Choir and Orchestra gave a musical program.

One thousand dollars in gold, concealed in the sands of Ocean Park within Easter eggs, formed the objective of an exciting hunt there. Children of all ages, from legitimate juveniles to grandmothers and grandfathers, dug and scratched for the eggs, which contained various sums in money. The Ocean Park Business Men's Association put up the gold and sponsored the event.

FLIGHT OF DOVES AT FOREST LAWN

GLENDALE, April 17.—Approximately 20,000 persons assembled before the Tower of Legends at Forest Lawn in Glendale for an Easter service there.

The service, perhaps the most impressive and largely attended ever held on the Mount, was opened with a processional by a surpliced choir comprised of 300 adults and children who took their places up in the tower steps in the form of a cross. Following a trumpet solo, "The Holy City," by Alberta Reeder Davis, an invocation was delivered by Rev. Ernest Ford of the First Baptist Church of Glendale, after which the congregation joined in the Lord's prayer. This was followed by the flight of fifty white doves in a symbolization of the ascension.

An Easter message was delivered by Dr. Walter F. Dexter, president of Whittier College, and a reading of Van Dyke's "God of the Open Air" was given by Frederick Warde, veteran Shakespearean actor. Rev. Thomas Holden of the Tropic Presbyterian Church closed the service with a benediction.

SPECIAL SERVICES AT HUNTINGTON PARK

HUNTINGTON PARK, April 17.—All the churches in Huntington Park this morning and tonight had special exercises in keeping with the Easter season. Sunrise services were conducted at Municipal Park, in which all the churches were represented. Robert Scott of the Superior Court was on the program at the special service.

PRAISES SOUND IN SUNRISE CANYON

BURBANK, April 17.—As the sun shed its first morning rays over the picturesque mountain top into Sunrise Canyon above Burbank this morning the tones of "Holy, Holy, Holy" were sounded as the opening hymn of Burbank's Easter sunrise exercises. The event was arranged by the Ministerial Union of the city in general. The Easter message was delivered by Rev. Clifford Cole of Glendale and Harry Marple, baritone, was the soloist. Rev. T. E. Stevenson presided.

CATALINA HILLS RESOUND TO SONGS

AVALON (Catalina Island) April 17.—As the sun came out of the sea and pointed its golden fingers across Avalon Bay to the Easter Cross on Mt. Buena Vista, the largest Easter crowd ever assembled on Catalina Island was revealed. The trails leading up the eastern slopes of Avalon were thronged an hour before dawn as thousands of visitors hastened their way to the mountain park.

The prelude played on the Catalina chimes at 4:30 this morning awaked the sleeping island village. A cornet solo by Louis Passerlie opened the services. Rev. La Rue Watson spoke the invocation, followed by a vocal number by the Apollo male quartet, a solo by S. E. Carpenter, a number by the Avalon Congregational Choir.

Rev. J. H. Mallows of Claremont delivered the Easter message.

DEATH VALLEY RAISES CROSS TO DEAD

STOVE PIPE WELLS, April 17. (Exclusive)—The first Easter cross of Death Valley, raised to the valley's "unknown dead," the miners and prospectors who have perished without leaving a trace behind them, was raised this morning by calloused hands which also had suffered the cruelty of the desert. The program was arranged by the Inyo Woman's Club and on it were Blanche Harriman Verbeck, former Judge Bledsoe, Mrs. E. H. Edwards, head of the Inyo County Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. James Birney Lorbeer, head of the Los Angeles federation; Mrs. Florence Dodson Schoeneman, A. T. Smith of Keeler, H. W. Eichbaum and W. A. Wiley of Long Beach. The latter is a grandson of a Death Valley pioneer.

SUN PRECEDED AT PALM SPRINGS

PALM SPRINGS, April 17.—Stealing a march on the rays of the sun, more than 500 residents of the desert turned out here at 5 a.m. today for Easter services. Before the light of dawn they assembled on the side of a hill behind the Desert Inn and offered their prayers. Cathedral City, Indio, Banning, Beaumont, Thermal and many other desert cities were represented. Numerous tourists passing through Palm Springs were attracted to the rites.

As in past years a part of Gaul's "Holy City" was rendered. Dr. John McPhee of Claremont delivered the sermon and the soloist was John C. Montieth.

SERVICE AT SITE OF JUNIPERO'S MASS

VENTURA, April 17. (Exclusive)—This city had its sunrise service today on a hill where Fra Junipero Serra raised a cross and celebrated Easter mass 145 years ago. Rev. William Middlemass of the consolidated Presbyterian-Congregational Church, made the principal address, and others taking part in the service were Rev. Fred Trotter, Rev. H. Strickland, Rev. H. D. Mitzner, T. C. Barr and J. W. Hebestreit. The program was arranged by the E. C. O. Club, which has fostered the annual observance. It was this club which replaced the original cross of Fra Serra, which fell down some years ago.

CROSS CEREMONY CONDUCTED AT CORONA

CORONA, April 17. (Exclusive)—An unusual and impressive Easter ceremony was conducted this afternoon in the City Park when hundreds of people thronged about a large cross erected upon a pedestal.

After singing "In the Cross of Christ I Glory," the assembled crowd was thrilled at the sight of about 250 children bearing bouquets as they marched to the foot of the cross where they deposited their floral offerings.

The bouquets were then used in building up a huge floral cross. Ministers from various churches assisted in the service, which was announced as the first of an annual affair.

At the end of the program an Easter egg hunt sponsored by the Junior Lions' Club of this city, was started. Three hundred children participated in searching for the 2000 hidden Easter eggs.

The services and egg hunt were the first of their kind ever attempted here and proved such a success and attracted so many people that the Lions' Club announced that next year's program will be carried out upon a much larger scale.

HISTORIC MISSIONS IN MINIATURE

Models Being Built for Garden at San Gabriel Playhouse

TWENTY-ONE historic California missions are again being built along El Camino Real. But this time they are beautiful miniature models of the great structures which the padres and the Indians erected a day's journey apart between San Diego and Sonoma. El Camino Real, which spans the 700 miles between Sonoma and San Diego, is reproduced in miniature within the confines of what soon will be the Junipero Serra sacred garden of the new Mission Playhouse at Old San Garbriel.

Under the personal supervision of Alexander & Bithell of Los Angeles, the models are being finished in exact designs and proportions to the ancient buildings after which they are being patterned. Every detail is being carefully followed, even to the covering of the models with a preparation of stucco which will stand against time.

The beautiful new $700,000 playhouse, built as the permanent home of John Steven McGroarty's Mission Play will be in its eleventh week this season when the people of Ocean Park, Venice and Santa Monica make their pilgrimage Wednesday night, May 18, next. The Mission Play tells the story of the bringing and founding of civilization to the western shores of America and how California began.

FAIR EASTER FOR COOLIDGE

President and Wife Attend Church Services as Ideal Weather Delights National Capital

WASHINGTON, April 17. (AP)—Encouraged by the first ideal weather of spring, Washington today gave full measure to its Easter. First thoughts of the city turned to church services and, with President and Mrs. Coolidge, the worshipers crowded to overflowing the capital's many spacious cathedrals.

Afternoon and evening found the broad thoroughfares, dressed in their budding trees, serving as a parade-ground for the annual fashion march of official and unofficial Washington and its record host of vacation visitors.

Services of the First Congregational Church which President and Mrs. Coolidge attended, drew chief attention and police reserves were called to marshal the jam which sought entrance to the large auditorium where the church held its services.

ALMOST 6000 PRESENT

Despite the crowd, Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge found little difficulty making their way into the auditorium by the regular entrance. They took seats in the congregation of almost 6000 near the front aisle on the main floor, a place similar to that which they occupy in the regular church which is now under repair.

Members of the Daughters of the American Revolution who meet in convention here tomorrow were special guests of the regular congregation.

Mrs. Coolidge, eagerly sought out by the women, wore a modest brown hat, trimmed with black and tan ribbon, and turned up in back. The dress was embroidered with large dots and their touch of rose color blended with her hat and a red fox fur which was draped over her shoulders. She wore a single pearl in each ear.

SUNRISE GATHERINGS

Earlier in the day, the President entertained some members of Congress and Secretaries Mellon and Hoover, at breakfast at the temporary White House on DuPont Circle.

There were two impressive sunrise gatherings, one at Walter Reed Hospital, which houses veterans of the World War, and another at Temple Heights on Connecticut avenue, where Secretary Wilbur was in charge of the services.

Pumasoni Biondi, Apostolic delegate, conducted solemn Pontifical mass in the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception at Catholic University.

The White House grounds, however, will be thrown open as in preceding years to Washington's children tomorrow for the Easter-egg rolling festival and a general good time. Later in the day the marine band will give a concert on the green.

BAY CITIANS WARNED TO SEEK TRADE

Business Men of North Told of Possibilities in States to East

SAN FRANCISCO, April 17. (Exclusive)—California daily is becoming more dependent upon the intermountain States of Utah, Idaho and Montana, as well as Nevada and Arizona, H. M. Adams, new president of the Western Pacific Railroad, declared in an address to the Commercial Club and Chamber of Commerce.

"California now is getting much of its wheat, flour, live stock, apples, fuel and metal from the States east of us," he said. "This condition will grow more noticeable as time goes on and California land becomes more valuable by devotion to high-priced crops for which the State is best suited.

"As Nevada, Idaho and Utah and neighboring States, produce more, they will grow populous and become important outlets for California products.

"Oregon and Southern California already are bidding for trade in these markets and it behooves Northern California to take a share in the business. It would be well for you to visit the region east of the Sierras and get acquainted with it."

THEY HEAD THE LIST

Any party bandwagon, a political writer says, "must be driven by a man with an iron will and an iron hand." And it won't go very far, either, without the aid of plenty of "iron men."—[Detroit Free Press.

sounded by Miss Gertrude Ridgeway and were an impressive part in the program carried out at sunrise. The Lord's Prayer was led by Rev. W. C. Selleck, and was followed by a tenor solo by Harry Robertson of San Francisco, Granier's "Hosanah." Responsive Scripture reading was led by Rev. D. L. MacQuarrie of Riverside.

Dr. Van Dyke then read his poem, "God of the Open Air," his voice carrying perfectly to all sections of the mountain by a complete system of amplifiers.

"If With All Your Hearts," from "Elijah," by Mendelssohn, was sung by Harry Robertson. The people then sang, "There's a Wideness in God's Mercy," and the nineteenth annual Easter pilgrimage to Rubidoux was dismissed with a benediction by Dr. Van Dyke.

BELIEVES IN ORIGINAL LEAGUE AS PRACTICAL

ENGLISH PHILANTHROPIST TOURS UNITED STATES FOR MORAL SUPPORT

SAN FRANCISCO, April 17. (Exclusive)—Sir Henry Lunn, English philanthropist, churchman and lecturertouring the United States, still believes in the original League of Nations as the best medium for bringing about world peace.

"I want to see the League of Nations strengthened," he said. "I am not especially concerned with whether the United States becomes a member or not, but I am concerned in enlisting America's moral support and sympathy.

"It is my belief that the churches of the world should unite in a support of the League, enlisting the general public as far as possible. In this way much could be accomplished in the direction of harmonious international relations.

"Business men form combines in order to put over an industrial program, so why shouldn't the churches get together in the cause of peace?

"If any American is skeptical about the workings of the League he should visit Geneva. I have never seen an American who went there without being impressed." The very atmosphere is stimulating. It is almost an American city."

BIRD HOME DIRECTORY

Regular "Who's Who of Feathered Folk" Issued by University

BERKELEY, April 17. (Exclusive)—The first bird residence directory ever published has been made available to the public by Dr. Joseph Grinnell, director of the University of California Museum of Vertebrate Zoology, and Margaret W. Wythe, his assistant.

In addition to serving as a business and home directory for birds including those which winter or summer in the vicinity, the new book also serves as a "who's who of feathered folks." It includes all known bird life existing in Alameda, Contra Costa, Marin, Napa, San Francisco, Santa Clara, Solano, San Mateo and Sonoma counties.

A total of 383 species and subspecies is listed by the writers, including 121 permanent residents, forty-four summer visitants, 131 winter visitants, thirty-eight regular transients, twenty-four rarities or vagrants, three species formerly found, but now gone, and two non-native, that is, introduced from another locality.

OWENS VALLEY LANDS TO BE THROWN OPEN

SAN FRANCISCO, April 17. (Exclusive)—Twenty-two hundred and twenty-one acres of Inyo county land, all of which lies in the Owens Valley, will be thrown open to homesteading next Thursday, it is announced. Former service men will be given the preference in filing. On July 21, what is left will be offered the general public. Filings may be made at Visalia. Most of the land, it was stated, consists of rocky, lava slopes with practically no vegetation and only small amounts of soil. The northeast portion of one section is declared to have first-class sandy loam soil.

The largest known green diamond, which hue is not so rare as the blue or red, is in the Dresden Museum. It weighs forty-eight and one-half carats and is somewhat paler than an emerald.

RESURRECTION OF CH... SPIRIT PLEA OF PA...

Dr. Culbertson at KHJ Urges... Join in Expression of Di... Spirit Within

"America shall find glory not in rending Ch... with shells but in winning their hearts with love," ... H. C. Culbertson of the Plymouth Congregational ... his sermon yesterday at The Times broadcast ... cussing "Three Attitudes Toward the Resurrection." ... bertson spoke in part as follows:

"Three types of mind approach the ... Easter story, and in the name and spirit of the Lord of life and love they should seek to understand one another kindly and sympathetically. First comes a group, many of whom are devoted saints, who see all things in the glowing light of ready credence. To this type of mind every word of the Bible is true and difficulties are unseen. Jesus is risen from the dead and appeared to His followers, as narrated in the New Testament story.

"Secondly, comes a type no less noble than the preceding. These are the honestly inquiring and critical minds, trusting no intuitions and demanding scientific proof at every step. They point out striking discrepancies in the biblical account. This type of mind is apt to attribute the whole story to mistake and hallucination, but with the added statement that the belief, however, it arose, undoubtedly preserved early Christianity.

"Thirdly, we find those whose attitude has been more or less consciously affected by modern psychology and psychic research. These think of spiritual visions of the Christ appearing to His followers, not as hallucinations, but as induced by an outward cause through the real presence of the ever-living Jesus.

EXPRESSION OF GOD

"However, these types of mind may differ, we all should unite in desiring a resurrection of the character of Christ in the life of today. Not only do we as Christians believe that the Christ Spirit may become incarnate in us individually, and that our lives may become the expression of the indwelling God, but we long to see the Christ ideal risen and triumphant in all the world. Just as ancient myths painted splendid scenes of the victory of Theseus over the Minotaur and of Siegfried and St. George over the dragon, so the history of the past 1900 years has been the story of the struggle of the hero Jesus, the divine, all-pervading spirit of Christ, to overcome the dragon-like selfishness, greed, hatred and falsity of mankind.

"Waves of materialism often seem to engulf us, but Christ incarnate in us can enable us to tread upon those waves. If we believe that the Christ spirit is the spirit of God, then in our personal business, our politics, our social life and in national and international affairs the presence of the living Christ ought to shine forth visibly to the world. If our nation is to attain enduring glory it must be as a Christian-hearted nation, showing to the world not 'the character of a dictator' toward weaker peoples, but true Christ-like brotherliness, fairness and good will.

"We shall find glory, not in rending Chinese bodies with our shells, but in winning their hearts with our love. If Christ be God, then the Christ character is destined to prevail and all that is not in accord with it shall ultimately fail and miserably perish.

"We say, 'Our Father in heaven,' but what and where is heaven? Perhaps nowhere—yet. Heaven is the ideal to be attained, here and in eternal worlds. Heaven is the dream in the heart of God, of what ought to be, and what by His grace shall be, when the new heavens and new earth' shall become a reality. You and I, as sons and daughters of the living God, may have our share in building heaven.

"The City of Immortal Gladness shall be constructed, not of material brick and gold, but of good thoughts, loving purposes, tender sympathies, joyous helpfulness. Some day all the hate and lies, greed and wrath shall be buried in the graveyard of the universe, dead forever, while the immortal qualities of love and peace, brotherliness and good will shall rise in everlasting Easter glory. Let us link our lives to the spiritual God traits that endure and not to the evil thoughts and ways which are inevitably and visibly predestined to the charnel pit of oblivion."

CALLS RESURRECTION UNIVERSAL TRUTH

Dr. Charles F. Aked, pastor of the All Souls' Church, preached at the Criterion Theater yesterday on "The Risen Lord." He said in part:

"Christ is risen' is the message which, over all the earth, the Easter celebration brings. It is the message of the lilies and the grasses of the field, of the swelling anthem and the organ's note of praise. There is a freshness in the air, a corresponding freshness in our thoughts. Heaven has touched the earth with joy. Let the Easter message comfort every mourning heart. In the midst of death we are in life. In the midst of life we are in eternity.

"Though your loved ones have gone into a far country, and no message can be flashed to them through the all-encircling ether, yet that far country is but one of the many mansions of your Father's house, where His redeemed ones dwell. The risen Christ flings open the gates of death to the dawning of the morning, and we hear His voice as on creation's primal day, 'Let there be light.'"

DECLARES EASTER ANTEDATES CHRIST

"Crucifixion and resurrection are not historical facts alone, but are necessary and tangible spiritual experiences," declared Swami Dhiranandа in an address yesterday at the Mt. Washington sunrise service. The speaker said in part:

"The eternality of the import of Easter was known long before Easter was established in history. Indian Yoga philosophy holds the key to the meaning of Easter given to the world through Jesus. Christ opened the eyes of the world to the facts that to die and to live again are possible. Whosoever believes this, feels this, will be saved. It is in this sense that the world is saved by the blood of Jesus.

"Christ could not have resurrected Himself after the death of His body if He had not known how to resurrect Himself while living. Yoga philosophy also teaches how to be dead to bodily consciousness and to rise above the body to the realm of the Great Spirit, even while living. It is ignorance that postpones resurrection to the

NEWS THEN—BUT HISTORY NOW

Gold Rush to Nome—Yes, Back in 1899

Old Newspapers Tell of Stirring Events

Facsimile of Nome News, Seattle Morning Journal and Boston News letter, displayed by Frances Morrison in the collection of Mrs. Sabina Downing.

A GOLD rush to Alaska is in full swing, according to the Nome News.

Seattle is in ashes, according to the Seattle Morning Journal.

America has a brand new flag, according to the Boston News Letter.

However, the Nome News is dated October 14, 1899; the Seattle Journal, June 7, 1899, and the Boston News Letter bears the date line of April 17, 1704.

These interesting old newspapers are in possession of Mrs. Sabina Downing, widow of the late Judge Downing. She is at the Broadway Hotel.

Collection of rare old newspapers, documents and theater programs has long been a hobby with Mrs. Downing, who has, among other possessions, programs of the Auditorium and the Schiller Theater at Chicago printed during the World's Fair.

The Boston News Letter, facsimile of the first newspaper ever printed in America, features a picture of Betsy Ross and her residence, as well as a picture of the flag. It is printed in "ye olden type," with the letter "S" in the form of our present "F."

The Nome News headlines the "Death of C. Claflin," and features the beaching of the steamship Laurada. The leading editorial is headed, "There Must Be Order."

The Seattle Morning Journal, printed the morning after the fire of 1889, contains a full account of the catastrophe and also contains the proclamation: "All persons found on the streets of this city after 8 o'clock p.m., without the countersign, will be arrested and imprisoned."

THIEVES ENTER HOME AND STEAL JEWELRY

N. M. Mumpter of 2021 North Serrano street reported to police yesterday that burglars entered his home in the absence of himself and his wife and took clothing and jewelry valued at $2300.

LOST SPEEDBOAT FOUND

HONOLULU, April 17. (AP)—The speedboat Latone, missing since Thursday with four men aboard, was found by Japanese fishermen today, disabled twenty miles at sea. The men were safe but hungry. They were attempting to row the heavy boat ashore.

Final Rites for Student to be This Afternoon

Funeral services for Ralph L. Cobb, 19 years of age, student of Polytechnic High School, who died the 16th inst., following a brief illness, will be conducted at 2:30 o'clock today from the chapel of Ivy H. Overholtzer, 1719 South Flowers street.

Young Cobb was very popular with his classmates at Polytechnic, and a member of several school societies. He was a senior and would have graduated in June. The services will be under the auspices of the Los Angeles Chaper of De Molay, to which he belonged.

Besides his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herschel B. Cobb, of 1620 West Twenty-fourth street, he leaves two sisters, Ruth and Evelyn Cobb.

Ticket Seller Arrested on Hold-up Tale

Ten minutes after he called police to capture a lone bandit who, he stated, held him up in the Pacific Electric station at Sixth and Main streets, Will F. Chopp, 34 years of age, found himself placed under arrest by the same officers who had come to his aid.

The hold-up, Chopp told the police, occurred shortly before noon yesterday as he was selling tickets for the Mission Play in the rotunda of the depot. The bandit, he said, appeared at the ticket window with a revolver under an overcoat flung over his arm. He was ordered, he said, to hand over $500.

Because Chopp failed to make any outcry, and as he was said to have described the actions of the bandit in four different versions, the ticket agent was suspected of "faking" the robbery to cover an asserted shortage of $940. He was placed in the City Jail on suspicion of grand larceny.

POLITICS

THE WATCHMAN

Trend of Political Thought and Action

BY THE SENTRY ON HIS BEAT

Charles D. Stricker, candidate for City Council in the Fifth District, who, with Virgil A. Martin, Mrs. Alma Nordstrom and former Councilman John Topham, are opposing Councilman Sparks, the "administration" candidate, is supported for election by the Citizens' Taxpayers' Protective League. The league in a statement said: "Conditions call for a change in our city government. We must elect a new City Council. The City Hall needs a thorough cleaning. The people have no hearing and voice with the present Council. The Council is obeying other masters. The people are disgracefully ignored."

Mrs. J. T. Anderson and Miss Nellie Kelley yesterday added their names to the long list of women of the city who are indorsing the candidacy of Caryl M. Sheldon, former police judge, for Office No. 14 of the Municipal Court at the May 3 primary election. Mrs. Anderson, who is president of the Women's City Club, and Miss Kelley, who is an organizer for the County Republican Central Committee, are devoting much of their time in behalf of Judge Sheldon's candidacy.

The Palms Republican Club has indorsed the candidacy of J. C. Bartchel for the City Council in the Third District.

Former Judge Dana R. Weller, well-known lawyer and jurist, has accepted the management of the campaign of Dudley S. Valentine for judge of Municipal Court No. 5, it was announced at campaign headquarters, 518 Washington Building.

In taking charge of the campaign, former Judge Weller issued the following statement:

"It is my belief that the election of Mr. Valentine to Department No. 5 of the municipal courts of Los Angeles will be a distinct asset to the people of this city. This belief is shared by thousands of other citizens who are interested in proper law enforcement, including the Los Angeles City and County Bar Association, who have indorsed his candidacy. The municipal courts play an important part in our general judiciary system and it is our duty to place on the bench men of high integrity and ability." Former Judge Weller stated that hundreds of letters, indorsing the candidacy of Mr. Valentine have been received at headquarters. Among those who have announced their support are:

Marshall Stimson, E. B. Smith, Clifford Hughes, Gen. Frank C. Prescott, Louis Guernsey, John F. Manning, Leland Davis, A. L. Bartlett, Van Griffith, John S. Cooper, Arthur Eldridge, Dr. Marion Tracy Whiting, Louis M. Schwaebe, Edwin A. Meserve, P. D. Noel, Ora E. Monnette, George Gleason, Erwin Widney, Judge Bertrin A. Weyl, Viola S. Hickock, Nellie M. Kelley, Mrs. John T. Coleman, Mrs. R. J. Rubert, Elizabeth A. Sacrett, Gertrude C. Maynard, Robert A. Odell and F. R. Feltshans.

It should be a source of great gratification to Councilmen Allan of the Second District, Hall of the Eleventh District and Colden of the Fifteenth District that labor unions have singled out these three Councilmen for opposition at the coming election. This opposition of the combined Central Labor Council and building, metal and printing trades councils is based on the fact that Hall, Allan and Colden have stood steadfastly against unionising of city employees and the salary increases demanded by organized labor as part of its plan of drafting the employees whose pay was raised by the unions.

Former Chief of Police R. Lee Heath has indorsed the candidacy of Councilman Criswell in the Seventh District.

The principal opponents of Assemblyman Byrne, the administration candidate for the City Council in the Thirteenth District, are Councilman Jacobson and John R. Arnold, who two years ago lacked only 37 votes for obtaining a place on the final election ballot. Byrne has received the indorsement of organized labor. Jacobson had the courage last week to attack the administration from the floor of the City Council, naming Boss Parrot and Mayor's Secretary Kinney, and scoring Kinney's activities. Arnold is indorsed for the Council this year by Joseph Mesmer, Milton Carlson, George W. Forman, Mrs. Mary D. Lichtner, Superior Judges J. Walter Hanby and Sidney N. Keye. Arnold is 44 years of age, has lived in the district all his life, and is the son of John W. Arnold, a Los Angeles pioneer.

E. Snapper Ingram, candidate for the City Council in the Tenth District, has announced that if elected he will especially work for the establishment of a public playground in this section of the city.

Administration candidates for the City Council are meeting strong opposition in most of the fifteen Councilmanic districts and particularly is this true of the Twelfth District, where Councilman Barnes, the Parrot-organized-labor candidate, is opposed by Douglas E. Foster and Clarence W. Horn. Dr. Foster, who is a large property owner in the district, has received many indorsements for his candidacy, the latest being from the Co-operative Hotel and Apartment Association and from Mrs. Effie M. Stewart, past secretary-treasurer of the Women's City Club. Included in the indorsements of Horn were expressions of support from Mrs. Allie Simmons Wheeler, past president of the city federation of the W.C.T.U., Clara Shortridge Foltz, well-known attorney and sister of Senator Shortridge, and from Joseph Mesmer, Los Angeles pioneer. Speaking of Horn's candidacy, Mr. Mesmer said:

"I have known Clarence W. Horn for many years and I believe he will fill the position of Councilman for the Twelfth District better than any candidate now aspiring for that office. He has been loyal in the fight for the Civic Center and for the union railroad depot at the Plaza-Civic Center district site. If the people of the Twelfth District wish to serve their best interests they will not forget a friend of the district who is a friend, indeed, and who is entitled to their votes."

Bitterly opposed by organized labor for his refusal to squander the taxpayers' money at the behest of the Central Labor Council to raise salaries as a part of the plan to unionize city employees, Councilman Peirson M. Hall is receiving strong support of his candidacy for re-election to the Council in the Eleventh District from leading lawyers and business men of the city and from club women. Included in the long list of women indorsing Hall's candidacy were:

Miss Mary E. Bingham, Mrs. Anna L. Schallenberger, Miss Pearl R. Bostwick, Mrs. Addie B. Wolf, Miss Maud Bradshaw, Mrs. Edith R. Davis, Miss Lucille Bayne, Miss Emma F. Cassell, Miss Elizabeth Nore, Miss Grace Stearns, Miss Audrey McDonell, Miss Mary L. Mitchell, Miss Louise F. Curtain, Miss Jessie F. Wing, Miss Estella Webster, Mrs. Lillie P. Cowell, Miss Flora B. Bruce, Miss Julia M. Davidson, Miss Leola Robert, Miss Edna B. Stevens, Miss Ruth A. Clark, Miss Elsie D. Yellman, Miss Hattie Mild, Miss Emily L. Palmer, Miss Harriet Mildred Waitt, Miss Berdella Dykins Murphy, Miss Elizabeth Hopkins, Mrs. Carrie C. Morgan, Miss Josephine McNeil, Mrs. Martha Berry, Mrs. A. O. Burkwall, Miss Josephine B. Sherborne, Miss Hattie Dunsmoor, Mrs. M. H. L. Carr, Mrs. Louise C. Bolm, Miss Martha H. Toms, Miss Olive G. Wiket, Mrs. Elizabeth Green, Mrs. Cleo Emery, Mrs. Margaret D. Stalmer, Mrs. Jessie R. Olson, Mrs. Violet S. Fitzsimmons, Miss Louise P. Cole, Miss Mae C. Bush, Miss Muriel M. Gilbert, Miss Nancy L. Neff, Miss Eunice Post, Miss Lucille Brazee, Miss Pamela Brazee, Miss Adelaide Montgomery, Miss Lulu McNutriez, Miss Mabel D. Robinson, Mrs. Mary B. Hurt, Miss Margaret L. Morrison, Miss Louise Stutz, Miss La Rue A. Cook, Miss Georgia A. Herd and Mrs. Mary J. Withridge.

The executive board of the Citizens' Committee, which is supporting the Los Angeles Bar Association, met last night to perfect plans for electing the judicial ticket they have indorsed.

The twenty-two incumbent judges and Attorney Dudley S. Valentine, who has been indorsed by the Bar Association for Department 5, will be given every support in the coming election. Mrs. Alfred Bartlett, chairman of the campaign committee, said that the Bar Association and the assisting Citizens' Committee will handle the campaign for Judges Georgia P. Bullock, Guy F. Bush, Louis P. Russell, Leonard Wilson, Charles B. MacCoy, R. Morgan Galbreth, Charles E. Haas and Attorney Dudley S. Valentine, in an endeavor to permit them to remain on the bench without the necessity of canvassing for votes.

Fischer and Norman Chandler of Los Angeles. These men are perfecting the program for the entire week and there is not to be an idle moment.

GREEN CROSS WILL BE ANNOUNCED

Stern, president of the Pacific-Southwest Bank, will be chairman of the dinner to be given the evening of the 27th inst. at the new Elks' Temple to formally announce to the United States the formation of the American Green Cross as the nation's reforestation organization, according to announcement last night by Russell H. Ballard, vice-president of the Southern California Edison Company, who is vice-president of the Green Cross.

"More than 1000 prominent men and women will be present at the inauguration of this great movement to save America's trees," declared Mr. Ballard. "The message of the Green Cross, destined to be one of the greatest economic powers of our country, will be given to the nation by nationally known speakers."

RECALL KISSINGER AID TO DR. REED

'Fever Hero Penniless" was the headline. Who remembers the name of John R. Kissinger? Yet he played a part in ridding the world of a great scourge. Turn back to the winter of 1900 in Cuba. Yellow fever was a terror in those days. The government, startled by the spread of the disease among American troops, sent a commission headed by Walter Reed. His job was to find out what caused yellow fever. His suspicions were soon directed to the stegomyia mosquito. But he needed proof. He sent out a call for volunteers. Kissinger and another private named John J. Moran were the first to respond Dr. Reed pointed out the danger. They were determined. He talked of compensation. They refused. "Gentlemen, I salute you!" said he. Later he declared that this exhibition of moral courage had "never been surpassed in the annals of the army."

On December 5, 1900, five mosquitos were selected. They were allowed, "with his free consent," to bite Kissinger. The result was "perfectly successful," we are told, "for about midnight on December 8 the subject"—who had been under strict quarantine during fifteen days—"was seized with a chill that proved the beginning of a well-marked attack." The next day Dr. Reed wrote exultantly to his wife:

It is with a great deal of pleasure that I hasten to tell you that we have succeeded in producing a case of unmistakable yellow fever by the bite of the mosquito . . . Rejoice with me, sweetheart, as, aside from the antitoxin of diphtheria and Koch's discovery of the tubercle bacillus, it will be regarded as the most important piece of work, scientifically, during the nineteenth century . . . Maj. Kean says that the discovery is worth more than the cost of the Spanish war.

Thanks to these men and their associates, yellow fever, which used to take its toll of tens of thousands dead, is a menace no longer—at least so far as the Americas are concerned. In 1925 only three cases were reported from the entire Western Hemisphere—and even these three were not certainly authentic!—[New York Times.

Bible Institute Plans Campaign for More Funds

After a week's vacation from study, the Bible Institute of Los Angeles is again in full swing for the final lap of the last school semester.

According to Dean John Murdoch MacInnis, the present enrollment is much greater than for several years past at this season. There are now enrolled 355 students in the day school and more than 300 in the evening school, in addition to the 1433 taking correspondence courses.

DR. JOHN MACINNIS.

As an indication of the wide field from which this local institution draws its students, it is stated that they come from forty-six States and from twenty-three foreign countries, and they represent forty-three separate denominations.

The Bible Institute is not endowed, and is dependent upon the gifts of its friends for support. A campaign is planned for the near future, in order that necessary funds may be raised.

River Tees of Scotland is to be widened at an expenditure of $2,000,000 so that ocean liners may navigate it.
